

APPLETON

The Humphrey homes have been under quarantine the past week. C. H. Humphrey has nearly recovered from influenza, but L. C. Humphrey is still quite sick.

Election passed off with little excitement. A good many voters stayed at home. Booths were placed outside the school house and votes passed in to the judges through the windows. L. C. Humphrey was elected justice of peace and C. H. Smith constable for the third term.

Roscoe and Lester DeBoard went to the South Side Sunday to help their parents move to the Pizey place. Mr. DeBoard, Sr., will be in partnership with his son Roscoe the coming year.

Paul Pizey and J. H. Sillbaugh baled hay this week and are shipping it from Appleton.

Wm. Sparks' children were sick last week and placed under quarantine which was lifted Friday.

ELDORADO HEIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frost and family and Mr. and Mrs. S. Knight spent Sunday, Nov. 3, with Mrs. Cutts.

Mrs. Roy Mayfield is enjoying a visit from her mother, father and brother from Wichita, Kans.

The Stevens and Fuller families have all been sick with grippe, but are improving at present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wragg enjoyed Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bishop.

Reginald Bingham has been ill with Spanish influenza for the past three weeks in the hospital at Vancouver, B. C. The latest report is to the effect that he is able to be around again.

Clarence King is recovering from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

The little daughter of A. B. Lovingood had the misfortune to fall from her horse and break her arm one day last week.

The two Lovingood families have had a seige of influenza. All are improving.

D. Oliver Brown and family are also on the influenza list. They are much improved at present.

Mrs. M. K. Chess, Mrs. Dick Burks and their mother, Mrs. Shepherd, recently spent a day in Shoshone.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. King spent Sunday at the Byron Smith home.

Mrs. Cutts and Henry Overberg visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Frost.

Mrs. Knight and Ida Blinn visited at the Smith home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Salladay moved into their new home this week.

Charles Kays and family moved Tuesday into the home vacated by Mr. and Mrs. George Salladay.

N. T. Jorgensen spent Monday in Shoshone.

The Fulkerson girls visited Mrs. Frost Monday afternoon.

Dale Atwood is acting as corporal in the training school at Corvallis, Oregon.

Fairman's will probably hold the record for the earliest spring fry. A fine new hatch of chickens on November 6th.

RULES FOR MEASURING HAY.

In the measurement of hay there are two points to be considered. These are the number of cubic feet required to make one ton and the method of determining the number of cubic feet required to make one ton and the method of determining the number of cubic feet in the stack.

The following table gives the number of cubic feet required to make one ton of alfalfa at various seasons of settling, these figures being accepted as fair amounts to allow for a ton:

No days in stack.	No. cubic ft. per ton.
30	560
60	540
90	512
120	485
Late winter	450

Native hay packs more closely, the usual figure being 422 cubic feet for one ton in a well-settled stack.

There are three general methods of arriving at the number of cubic feet in the stack. All three methods require the width, length and over-measurement. The latter is the distance from the ground on one side, straight over the top to the ground on the other side. Where stacks are irregular it is best to secure a number of measurements for the width and length and over-measurement and use the average.

Rule 1—One-fourth of the "over" multiplied by the width, then multiplied by the length and divided by the required number of cubic feet to make one ton. This rule gives accurate figures on small, squat stacks when the width is from one-third to one-half of the "over."

Last fall an experiment station bought 98.55 tons by the use of this rule and when weighed out it weighed 98.18 tons.

Rule 2—Subtract the width from the over. Multiply one-half the result by the width; multiply the product by the length; divide by the number of cubic feet required to make one ton. This rule is most accurate when the width exceeds one-half the over.

Rule 3 (Government rule)—Width plus "over," divided by four and squared; then multiplied by length and divided by the number of cubic feet required to make one ton. This rule is satisfactory for large, tall stacks from 25 to 45 tons, and favors the seller with ordinary, small squat stacks.

IDLENESS MISDEMEANOR.

Governor Whitman of New York has just signed a bill to put an end to loafing. It makes failure to engage in some useful occupation, for at least 30 hours a week a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $100 or imprisonment for not more than three months. This new law is modeled somewhat after those in force in New Jersey and Maryland, applying to all able-bodied men between the ages of eighteen and fifty. The purpose of the law is to put the non-military man power of the country to work, and it should be enforced in every state in the Union, says Washington Star. Loafing, idling, refusal to take a hand in some useful occupation, is at this juncture positive disloyalty. There is need today for the services of every man in some line of occupation. There is work for everyone to do, in the cities or on the farms, in the mills or in the offices. An idle man is a slacker as much as though he were evading the draft. There is no excuse for him.

Whatever other blessings peace may bring, it will not bring instant relief to the masses who are now distressed by food shortage and its natural consequence, high prices. There will be as many mouths to feed when the armies are demobilized as there are now, says New Republic. It is true that the fare of the soldiers in most European countries is more liberal than that of the civil population, but no statesman will take comfort in the prospect of masses of disbanded soldiers reduced to the level of civil undernourishment. And besides, the civil populations that are now enduring semi-starvation uncomplainingly, recognizing that no relief can be expected while the energies of their government are engrossed by war, will be far less patient when peace returns. More food, not less, will be required in peace.

A striking illustration of the times is the way in which all parties and denominations are uniting in relief work, the spirit of the times seeming to be one of harmony and unity in this work so necessary for the conquest of the war. In the universal need, all prejudices and differences appear to be forgotten, and this amity and friendship will have its effect long after the war is over, and dispose of much bitterness which existed before the exigencies of the times brought the melting pot of human kindness into action.

One of the most objectionable features of modern social life is the prevalence of hypocrisy and sham—of pretending to be and to have what you have not and are not. The attempt to "keep up appearances" makes many families miserable that might otherwise be happy. A plain-spoken rogue is safer company than a hypocritical model of propriety.

A genealogical expert can dig up a coat of arms and a family tree for you if you have the money, but you will have to strangle your appetite for liver and onions and corned beef and cabbage yourself. And you may rig up, powder, perfume, puff and manure a hick till kingdom come and every time he passes a Hivery stable the old gray mule will bray.

Joy riding may be checked, but there is still too much of it. As the joy rider is a constant menace, and there is no protection by the public itself from him, the penalties ought to be deterrent, so as to minimize casualties and fatalities, since they cannot be entirely prevented as long as no sure way is found of parting a fool from his folly.

A report of the federal forest service just issued states that of 7,814 forest fires on government lands during 1917, all but 2,132 were caused by human agencies. In other words, if these figures are correct, nature in this description of wastefulness is only one-third as destructive as man.

If the calculation be reliable that Luther Burbank's new variety of wheat will increase the food value of the American crop by 100 per cent, a time is not distant when this country's effort will be to get people to eat wheat instead of arguing with them to save it.

England reports a shortage of hairpins. How on earth do the poor women button their shoes and gloves and open locks when they've lost the keys? And what do they use as a substitute to hold in their mouths when they're combing their hair or putting on a veil?

BRED EWES FOR SALE

I have on my ranch 2 miles north and 11-2 west of Jerome, about 100 bred ewes for sale, bred to lamb early in February. Price $10.00 Per Head with 12 months' time. Reasons for selling are that I have more sheep than I can conveniently handle on the ranch and, as I am not going to range the coming summer must reduce the flock.

GOODING COLLEGE NOTES.

According to the report of President Charles Wesley Tenney, Gooding College will start a number of practical courses for the benefit of those who have not been able to begin school before on account of sickness or of work at home. These courses will commence about Dec. 1 or as soon as the quarantine is raised and will include bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, spelling, penmanship, practical English and commercial arithmetic—just the subjects and just the methods for the young men and young women who are somewhat out of touch with regular school conditions and who wish to do as much as possible during the winter months.

FUTURE OF WOOL INDUSTRY.

The sheep and wool industry are vital to the life of the nation from the standpoint of food and clothing. After-war conditions are going to place a hard strain on this joint industry and stability of prices is very important.

The normal clip of wool in our country is from 280,000,000 to 300,000,000 pounds a year, and we import as much more.

There has been some accumulation of foreign wools on account of suspended trade with the Central powers and lack of shipping.

The great duty before the people of our country is to hold and enlarge flocks and supply more wool and mutton for market.

We should produce 400,000,000 pounds a year and the industry should be on the up grade instead of declining in production.

The government should stabilize prices for at least two years and continue the present warehousing and commission system of handling.
