SUMMARY OF RED CROSS EXPENDITURES IN ENGLAND

Expenditures of the American Red Cross in England from October, 1917, to the end of June, including contributions to the British Red Cross and British Ambulance Committee, totaled $4,313,568 according to the latest of the series of reports which the War Council is making to the American people relative to the use being made of the Red Cross war fund. Prior to October, when the commission for England was created, the work of caring for American troops in that country was performed by the London chapter at a cost of $493,459, this amount including $39,612 expended for the relief of the Tuscania survivors. For the work in the United Kingdom during the last half of this year an appropriation of $4,483,800 has been made.

The policy of brigading American with British troops greatly increased the work of the American Red Cross in England, the report says. Three new Red Cross hospitals, one with a bed capacity of 3,000, are nearing completion over there. Hospital service required an expenditure of $969,382 up to the end of June, and $1,431,000 has been set aside for this work for the last half of the year. The sum of $2,003,400 has been appropriated for camp work in England during the six months ending December 31, $180,000 of this amount being allotted to provide every American soldier in England with a Christmas present. Up to the end of June camp work cost only $119,250, the increase of appropriation reflecting the increase of the number of men to be cared for in the last half of the year. A special appropriation of $429,300 has been made for the continuance of the American Red Cross canteen service in the United Kingdom.

In the period ending June 30, donations to the British Red Cross reached a total of $2,169,975, the report states. The sum of $71,550 has been appropriated for home communication service, which keeps soldiers in touch with relatives in America, and the work of the "Care Committee," an organization of 600 American women, now residing in England, who visit and provide comforts for wounded American soldiers. To provide a club and a hospital for army and Red Cross nurses $71,550 has been set aside. An appropriation of $119,250 has been made to cover the operating expenses of the organization in England during the six months ending December 31.

CONGRESSMAN SMITH WILL STAY ON JOB.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Representative Addison T. Smith will not return to Idaho for the campaign so long as his presence here is required for work of congress.

He said today that the house was now doing business with a bare quorum, not more than three to spare and it would be a sad commentary on the patriotism of the house members if they ran away to play politics while public business involving the task of "winning the war," was pending.

Representative Smith's course has been generally commended by his colleagues regardless of party but it is noted that it has not been emulated in some cases.

Draft Board Wants Names of All Men in Military Service.

Adjutant General Moody has requested the local draft board to furnish a complete list of all men who are in the army, navy and marine corps from this county, whether by draft or voluntary enlistment, with the date as nearly as possible of such enlistment.

The list is to go into the report of the Adjutant General this year, and is intended to be a complete history of Bear Lake's activity in the present war, "so that it may go down to posterity as a written evidence of what our boys did in the world's crisis."

The local board is unable to furnish this list, only insofar as it relates to drafted men, and therefore, must rely upon the help of interested persons to furnish the information. The board calls upon all who have a relative, neighbor or friend who is in the service from this county, to immediately report to it the name of such man, with the date he entered the service.

This list should be in the hands of the local board for transmission to the Adjutant General within the next ten days at the outside.

CHRISTMAS TRADE TO BE LIMITED THIS YEAR

The Council of National Defense authorizes the following: The Council of National Defense has heretofore emphasized the necessity of restricting Christmas buying during the coming fall for certain specific reasons which it has stated. These reasons are in brief the necessity for saving labor and material in the manufacture and sale of Christmas gifts and of saving the transportation and delivery facilities necessarily involved in the large volume of Christmas purchases.

After conferences with representatives of the leading industries and retail interests concerned, it is found that the manufacture of goods for the coming holiday season has been substantially completed, that the transportation of the goods to the point of sale is also largely done and that much of the material used for Christmas purchases, especially in the manufacture of toys, is the waste material derived from prior processes of manufacture.

The retail interests represented at the conference have agreed not to increase their work force by reason of the holiday business over the average force employed by them throughout the year and not to increase the normal working hours of their force during the Christmas season.

the artillery regiment that your cousin belongs to. They certainly did some fighting, too. I saw more dead Germans there than I ever expected to see in my life.

We are now far behind the lines at a rest camp. The French people treat us fine here. We are living in parts of their houses that they do not use. I am well and feeling as fine as ever. As there isn't much news to write, except that I expect to be at home before many months, I will close for this time.

REGISTRATION BOOKS ARE AGAIN OPEN

The registration books in the various precincts are now open, and those who did not register before the primary election last month, must register if they wish to vote at the general election on Nov. 5. The registration books will close on Saturday, Nov. 2.

C. E. Wright, who was registrar in West Montpelier precinct, having been compelled to move into East Montpelier precinct, the commissioners have appointed Mrs. Josephine Driver of serve as registrar for the balance of the term. She will be at Ed Rich's store each Saturday from now up to and including Saturday, Nov. 2, to register qualified voters in her precinct, who have not previously registered this year.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

(By Ellen Strong)

The Senior class has organized by electing the following officers: President, Van Lindsay; vice president, Ella Quasly; secretary-treasurer, Kate Stephens.

The Juniors have also elected their officers, as follows: President, Ruth Dalrymple; vice president, Verda Toomer; secretary-treasurer, Clarice Lewis; reporters, Russell Brough and Lyman Crockett.

The program for Wednesday's chapel exercises, given by Mrs. Seifert consisted of the song, America, by the school; reading by Miss Crockett; war talk on the fourth Liberty Loan drive by John Beckwith; war jokes by Martha Ray; war story, the Fighting Fleet, by Delbert Jones; vocal solo by Esther Brennan; address by C. L. French. All present enjoyed a very pleasant hour.

Last Wednesday at noon the Freshmen were presented with a present from the Sophomores to show that there wasn't "any hard feelings" between the two. It consisted of a nursing bottle filled with milk and a nipple attached to it. We hope every one received an equal share and that it was enjoyed.

The original Sophomore challenge, issued to the Freshmen as their answer, was destroyed but another has been produced to show the public the Sophomore's opinion of it.

Class of 1922—Take Notice. We, the class of 1921, hereby accept the challenge issued by the class of 1922 composed of green, insignificant Freshies. We certainly do appreciate the compliments bestowed upon our class and they may be even more fully appreciated when we think of their source as babies and are not responsible for what they do. As this tug-of-war is to be a fair conflict, the class of 1922 will be called upon to choose five of their "bright" members to uphold their undefeated record.

When the class of 1922 stated in their challenge that, if they won the contest, they would not take any part in the initiation by the Sophomores, they plainly admitted that like all infants they are afraid to take their medicine. Therefore, we refuse their "peace offer" on those terms.

Respectfully, THE CLASS OF 1921. The contest took place at the time decided upon and we are sorry to say was won by the Freshmen, although both sides used their utmost strength.

During the past five weeks the agricultural class of the high school has made a study of plant propagation by seed, spores and bud growth. The grafting and budding have been done by the pupils, and many good examples are the result. The class is now beginning the study of the different types of soil and the plants especially adapted to them. The soil in this vicinity is receiving special attention.

One interesting feature in the Junior class study of general science is the principle of the fireless cooker and thermos bottle. After studying the principle by which the cooker is made possible, the class decided to make one. They expect to have it completed in a few weeks.

BUTCHERS WANTED. We have a large contract for beef for the army. We need 20 men in the killing and offal departments. Apply in person or write, Ogden Packing & Provision Co., Ogden, Utah.

RAMS FOR SALE. Pure bred Shropshire rams for sale at reasonable prices by S. W. Matthews, Liberty, Idaho.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE FIFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT:

I have been nominated as candidate for District Judge of the Fifth Judicial District of the State of Idaho, comprising the counties of Bannock, Bear Lake, Oneida, Franklin and Power. I have served as Judge in this District for the past four years. At the time I began my duties the dockets of the Court in the various counties were so crowded and congested, many of the cases having been on the docket for a long time, that it was impossible for two men to do this work. I claim that for three years of my service I did the work of two men, and did twice as much work as any man should do. By starting Court early in the morning and holding it until late at night I not only relieved the congestion to an appreciable degree, but by intelligent management of the Court affairs I saved the people of this District many thousands of dollars, and I would ask that you inquire of the county officials of your county, who are familiar with the court work, as to whether my statement is true or not. The population of this Judicial District is more than one hundred thousand, and there are more than twenty thousand voters scattered over a wide area, so that if I had nothing else to do it would be impossible for me to meet but a small percentage of the voters between now and election day. Any person acting as Judge of such a large District for four years necessarily creates enemies, as certain litigants, both civil and criminal, are dissatisfied with the rulings of the Judge, and many of these look forward to election day as the time that they can get even for the grievances, but I trust that the voter will remember that when I passed on a case I heard both sides of it, but you will only be told one.

I shall rely upon my four years' record as Judge of this District to secure my re-election. Respectfully submitted, J. J. GUHEEN.

Can Now Eat and Sleep in Comfort. If troubled with indigestion or sleeplessness you should read what Miss Agnes Turner, Chicago, Ill., has to say: "Overwork, irregular meals and carelessness regarding the ordinary rules of health, gradually undermined it until last fall I became a wreck of my former self. I suffered from continual headache, was unable to digest my food, which seemed to lay as a dead weight on my stomach.

I was very constipated and my complexion became dark, yellow and awake as tired as when I went to bed to my misery, and I would awake a tired as when I went to bed. I heard of Chamberlain's Tablets and found such relief after taking them that I kept up the treatment for nearly two months. They cleansed my stomach, invigorated my system, and since that time I can eat and sleep in comfort. I am today entirely well."

AFTON BOY WRITES OF EXPERIENCE IN FRANCE

In writing to a friend in this city under date of Aug. 23, Veston Williamson of Star Valley, who is a member of the Headquarters company, 168th infantry, says in part:

Two letters came a few days ago—one dated July 10 and the other one July 15, and I sure was glad to get them as I had not received a letter for so long. We were not able to send or receive mail while at the front the last time. We are now at rest far behind the lines where we can not hear the roar of the big guns. You spoke about it being hot. Well, we had some scorching weather over here. We noticed it more when we had to make a long hike in the day time, but we nearly always do our hiking at night.

I saw some of the 146th artillery, but did not get to see your cousin, Sterling Shupe, as his battery was in another place. They have some regiment—all mounted on trucks. I wish that I were in it. I would like to trade "hids," as you say. Ours are some hot to wear in the sun. One almost sweats his head off. They are queer looking but at the same time they are a great protection when the pig iron is falling around you, and that occurs quite often at the front. I saw one of our American aviators brought down; he hit not far from where we were stationed. I went over and saw the wreck and mangled corpse. I have sure seen some exciting things happen on the battle field. A battle in the air is a great thing to watch especially when you see the Hun planes falling. One day I was lucky enough to see a German plane come down with two men in it, and I had a chance to see them before the Red Cross came to get them. Neither one of the men were injured very badly. I would have liked to have finished them. We have no use for a person who even looks like a German.

Since I last wrote you I have been on two large battle fronts. On the first one we helped to stop a German attack and on the last one we helped in an attack. The last battle I was in was on the big drive at Chateau Thierry. Our division sure did some fighting, and it was there that I saw

A DAY'S PAY.

(By Earl Wayland Bowman)
 Wednesday the 16th day of October, 1918—
 But wait, I want to tell a story.

In a shell hole at the edge of the German trenches, on the Cambria front, an American soldier lay dead—Gaashed with bayonets, riddled with bullets, battered, bloody foam oozing from his lips, panting, straining, fighting, unconquered, like a stag at bay, he had fallen.

The stretcher bearers found him there, dead, in the shell hole.

He was just a lad, such a lad as those lads you saw, those I saw, the other day marching, marching, down the street to the station, to the train, answering the great call.

Not over twenty but what a boy—Clear eyed, lithe-limbed, clean muscled.

Lord, he was a son to be proud of! The stretcher bearers found him—Dried blood, black and clotted, was tangled in his hair; the uniform was torn and slashed; the helmet had dropped there in the muck at his side; a great gash disfigured the temple; his hands were mashed and broken, the flesh ripped from the knuckles—At the last he had fought with bare fists!

He was dead, dead, in the shell hole.

His white face was turned toward the heavens.

The lips cut, bruised—ah, those lips a mother, a sweetheart, had kissed—would kiss no more—

Were parted in a smile.

The stretcher bearers found him—Around him ten dead Germans lay. He had killed them all.

Now you know why he smiled, even in death!

Imagine that 'fight!

The lone American lad taking them on as they came—one—two—three—four—five—aye, ten of them. And he laughed while he fought them!

Think of it! The exultation of that lad's soul; the pride of that young heart, bursting with eagerness—hard as stone with determination—fighting—fighting—for America! For America!

See the gleam in the eyes, the laugh—hear it—as he sees them fall, the contempt with which he looks on them, the sneer on his lips—

Then he fell, there in the shell-hole, before Cambria—

He fell and died!

What a day for him—what a glorious day—

Wednesday the 16th day of October, 1918, America asks you to save your income for that day, take it to the nearest postoffice or bank, buy War Savings Stamps with it—loan it to the Cause for which that lad died. My, God, what more can I say?

Who is the man who knows what is best worth knowing and does what is best worth doing.
