

How Would You Like to Harvest Two Crops of Corn a Year as They Do in the Philippines?

No, reader, this corn was not grown by one of our local farmers! It wasn't grown in the United States, even. It was grown in the faroff Philippine Islands by Filipino schoolboys. Two fine crops of corn a year are produced in the islands.

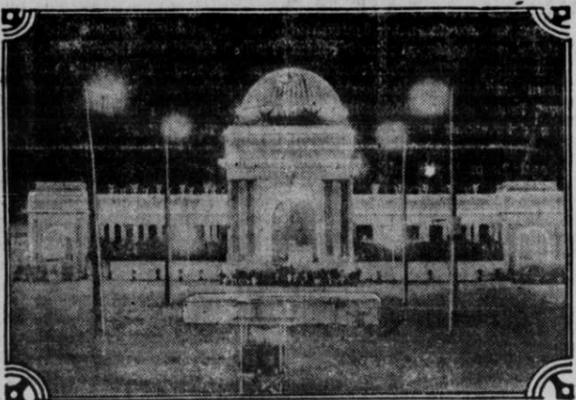

The Philippines are doing some wonderful things in the agricultural line. The Philippine government has fine agricultural schools throughout the islands, and the Philippine legislature, composed entirely of Filipinos, is each year making larger and larger appropriations for this important work.

The staple food of the islands is rice, but corn is coming right along in popular favor. Its use was given great impetus in the last year because of a rice shortage. Other important Philippine crops are hemp, sugar cane, coconuts, coffee, tapioca and pineapples. Lumber is also an important industry.

There are hundreds of thousands of acres of land lying idle in the Philippines, which have a greater area of fertile land than Japan—in spite of the fact that the population of the Philippines is 11,000,000 while that of Japan is around 55,000,000. There is every reason to believe that some day the Philippines will have a population as large as that of Japan today. The Filipinos are the only Christian people in the orient, and their young men are working night and day to prepare themselves for the responsibility of citizenship in the Philippine Republic, which they believe to be near at hand.

MANILA CARNIVAL BIG ATTRACTION OF FAR EAST

This is the season of the year when the Philippines become the playground for the entire orient. It is carnival season in Manila.

In 1908 the first Philippine carnival was held on historic Wallace Field in Manila in February, when the climate of the islands is at its best, and each succeeding year there has been a larger and more elaborate celebration. The 1920, or Victory Carnival, will be the greatest event of its sort ever held anywhere in the Far East.

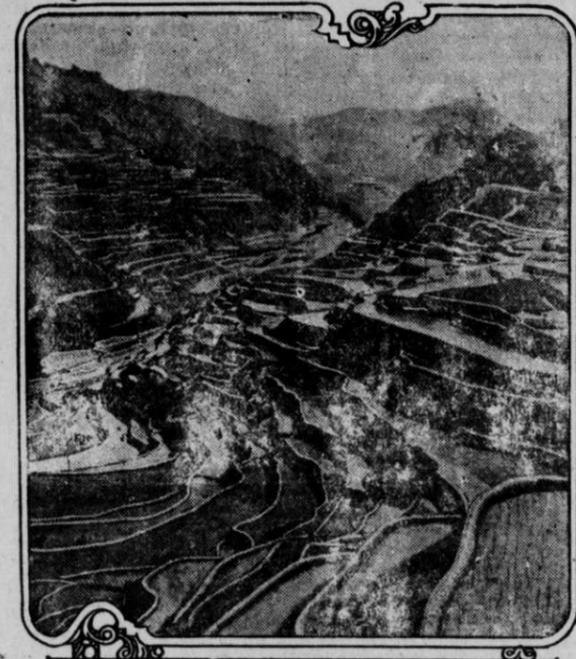

There are commercial and government exhibits in connection with the carnival, and on no other occasion is it possible to gain at once such a comprehensive idea of the production and development of resources of the archipelago as that which is offered the visitor at the carnival city.

In the evenings the carnival becomes the center of Philippine and oriental social activity. A huge open air auditorium serves for the elaborate nightly balls, and on its mammoth floor thousands of couples swing together to the strains of music furnished by the famous Constabulary and other military bands. Probably at no other place in the world will one see an equally impressive cosmopolitan spectacle.

The Manila visitor who can plan his trip to arrive at the Pearl of the Orient for carnival time may well deem himself fortunate.

Rice Terraces Are World's Masterpieces

This is a photograph of the Ifugao Igorrot rice terraces, which are among the most remarkable of their kind in the world. They are one of the many marvelous sights for the tourist to see in the Philippine Islands and are to be found in the Ifugao district of the Mountain province, Northern Luzon.

The height of these terraces, which are held up by stone walls, is from 4 to 18 feet, averaging 8 feet high. It is estimated there are 12,121 miles of eight-foot stone walls in the Ifugao terraces, which is approximately half the distance around the world.

These terraces are skillfully irrigated by water brought in troughs along the precipitous mountain sides over long distances.

FIRST OF FEATHERED THINGS

Archaeopteryx Must Have Been a Remarkable Looking Bird From Accounts of Its Appearance.

Today the birds are all quite different than they were years ago. The first bird that was ever seen on earth was called the Archaeopteryx, which is a Greek word, meaning "ancient wing." It was a very odd bird. It had a long, thick tail, with bows of flesh and with feathers growing from it. It was not like a bird's tail is now, but more like a lizard's tail. It had two legs, with which it could walk and perch in the trees. It also had two other limbs like hands, which it probably used to climb about the trees, instead of flying from bough to bough, as birds do now. Its eye was fitted with a sort of armor shield, as the reptile's. Its beak was armed with strong teeth.

Of course there is no such bird as this now, and it is not surprising that such a bird should pass away. Even in these days two or three strange birds have died out.

Men have killed many birds and animals, but in making the world what it now is, nature has killed far more. Whole races of animals have been destroyed by earthquakes and floods.

In time nature changes all things, and so she did the birds.

Rough Roads for Wheels Are Smooth Roads for Passengers

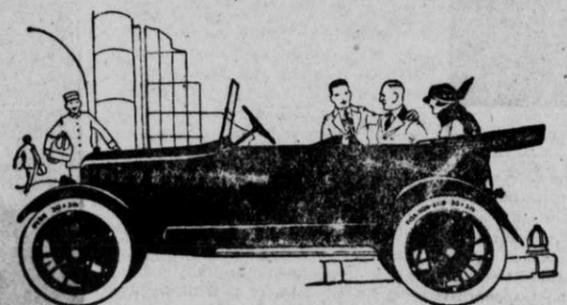

WATCH Overland 4 on rough cobble or unpaved roads. The wheels follow surface inequalities, but the new Triplex Springs give car and passengers remarkable riding steadiness.

They give 130-inch Spring-base to a car of 100-inch wheelbase.

This makes for the gently buoyant road action of a large, heavy car with the economy in upkeep, fuel and tires, and convenience of handling of a scientifically designed light car.

Auto-Lite starting and lighting, door-opening curtains and dash light give you a hint of the completeness and quality which characterize everything about Overland 4.
