CLEARWATER COUNTY BAR PASSES RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, the Ruler of all our Destinies has seen fit to call from all earthly activity Honorable Charles L. McDonald, whose death occurred at Portland, Oregon, on Sunday, February 16, 1919; and,

Whereas, in the death of Honorable Charles L. McDonald the court and bar of this judicial district has sustained a loss of one of its ablest practitioners, and a congenial and lovable friend, and the communities have in his death lost a worthy citizen who was ever ready to give counsel and help to his fellow man.

Therefore, be it resolved that by the promulgation of these resolutions we express our sorrow at the untimely death of our associate and friend, that we revere his memory as a man who was honest, courteous and fair in the practice of his profession, a man whose life was a glowing example of morality, kindness and consideration for the welfare of others and whose patriotism and love of country was of the highest character, and who gave unstintingly of his ability and time and means to the service of his country in its last dire extremity.

Be it Further Resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this court, and that a copy thereof be mailed to the widow of the deceased, and copies also be furnished the press of the city of Orofino.

HELLO!

"Hello!"
"Yes—"
"Oh just fine—did you get home before it started storming?"
"Weren't you lucky?"
"Yes—"
"Oh...did you?"
"Oh no, I washed yesterday! Isn't it?"
"I hung mine inside—the place looked like a Chinese laundry."
"Yes we—Johnny, stop tormenting that cat."
"Oh, I certainly do. That's why I'm baking today."
"No, I made rolls this time."
"Just delicious? Oh yes—"
"No, it's a new kind. I don't think they handled it here before."
"Yes—"
"Gold Standard—"
"No, it's a Lewiston flour, put out by the Neperce Roller Mills."
"No, at the Orofino Trading Co's. Yes, do—Johnny do you hear me?"
"Yes—Gold Standard."
"I'm sure you will—yes—all right. Let me know."
"Yes—goodbye."

A Truthful Grocer.

"I presume these eggs are strictly fresh?" suggested the housewife as she poked around in her pocketbook for a dollar bill.
"Well, they were strict in their youth," responded the truthful grocer, "but eggs is like a great many people, you know. Some of 'em kinder relaxes as they gets older, ma'am."

WHO SAYS IT?

Slogging through the mud of France,
Camping in the rain;
Hiking in a frozen trance
Down some German plain;
"Fall in!"—hear the sergeant yell,
Far from home and clover;
Tell me, who the bally hell
Said the war "was over?"
Chow for breakfast—stom for noon—
Who says men are free
While the bugler's foolish tune
Plies the reveille?
"Right dress!"—hear the sergeant buzz
From Mainz across to Dover;
Tell me who the hell it wuz
Said the war "was over?"
Cleaning up a mass of wire,
Stained with clotted blood
Where the big trucks bog and mire
In the winter mud;
Full of filth and fleas and fuzz—
Cannoneer and drover,
Tell me who the fat-head wuz
Said the war "was over?"

The Razor in History.

In tracing the history of shaving it should be sufficient to go back to the Greeks and Romans, upon whose civilization our own is based. Beards were highly esteemed among the former up to the time of Alexander the Great, who was smooth shaven. One reason for the abolition of the beard among soldiers was the fact that it afforded the enemy something to lay hold of. At an earlier period the wearing of certain types of helmet and gorget had protected the beard. The Romans wore beards down to the time of the Gallic wars, while the Gauls, albeit barbarians, were smooth shaven save for the mustache. The antiquity of barber shops and razors in Rome is variously given by historians. Some have claimed that the first barber shop, at least in that part of the world, was opened in Sicily in 300 B. C., while other authorities make this date far earlier or later. The Scilian seems to have been the first barber.

Beware of Stocking Bank.
Tarentum, Pa.—Grocers who feared thieves and had little faith in their strong boxes were sometimes known to hide their receipts overnight in the beans, but it took a local man to disclose that dry goods merchants sometimes use stockings for the purpose. As usual, the stocking as a bank proved a failure. The store doors were thoughtlessly opened too early one day recently and a customer made away with a real Christmas stocking with $117 concealed in the foot.
The big night of the season—the lyceum musical number at the Rex March 15.

EURERA RIDGE.

Winter again, with a foot of snow.
Fred Mooers has bought the band of sheep owned by J. Shannon; also the Judy homestead on Indian creek, which he will use as a sheep ranch.
Cecil King and his mother boarded the train Sunday morning for Colfax and other Palouse country points to visit relatives and old friends.
Mother Cloud gave a Sunday dinner in honor of the return of her grandchildren, Cecil King and Glennie Pittwood, from the U. S. service. The boys say she hasn't forgotten how to dish up the eats.

Kamiah.

Kamiah Progress:—Bert and John Lomax, who operate a bakery at Orofino, have rented the Mote Ferguson building and will start in the business here. The building is being fitted up for their use and they expect to be ready to open up the latter part of this month. The brothers have had excellent success with their business at Orofino and will continue to operate that plant. There is a good opening in Kamiah for such an institution and it ought to prove a paying venture. In addition to the bakery, light lunches will be served; but we understand it is not the plan to run a regular restaurant business, serving only the bakery products with coffee.

South Fork Road Boosters.

The pressure brought to bear for a good trunk road up and down the Clearwater river from Lewiston to Elk City has not only hearty endorsement of the people of Battle Ridge, Clearwater, Harpster and the people of the mining district. When we sounded J. H. Mitchell, one of the heavy taxpayers of Camas Prairie, he simply voiced the following expression: "Let us forget talking about building laterals to the river; but build a good road up and down the Clearwater river first. If such a road is built that makes it an object for us all to want to use that road, and with these conditions it will make it an easy matter to get together and build the laterals." Lee Sellards, another heavy taxpayer of the prairie, voiced the same sentiments.—Stites Enterprise.

Pacific Northwest Roads.

The following press dispatch dated at Portland, Ore., Feb. 18, is the most encouraging news we have seen in reference to government appropriation of postal road construction:
"The Pacific northwest will receive $37,549,970 as a grand total for road building from federal and state funds during the next two years according to figures prepared here by District Engineer L. I. Hewes, in charge of the United States bureau of public roads in Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho. Oregon's total will amount to $9,186,888, he declared, half of it from the federal government and the remainder from state funds for highway work.
"The dirt will start to fly within 90 days," said Engineer Hewes, "for most of the money will be available at once, now that the senate and conferees at Washington have agreed on the post-office appropriation bill."
Don't forget the lyceum ticket. You will want it badly March 15, and worse than ever April 21.

RAILROAD SURVEY WILL

BE MADE ON BEAVER CREEK

Preparations are being made for a railroad survey down Beaver creek from its headwaters to the North Fork. Supplies are now being taken in from Headquarters to Beaver camp, a distance of about eight miles. The surveying crew, now working in the neighborhood of Lewiston, will most likely be soon moved to Beaver camp for surveying operations.
