CHALLIS HAS A BOY SCOUT BAND

The people of this section of Custer county were most agreeably surprised last Friday night when they were most delightfully entertained at the picture show with several selections by the Boy Scout's Band.

The boys, ten in number, are progressing rapidly in their musical work and the band not only promises to be but is already a credit to the town when the length of time consumed in practice is taken into consideration.

The need of such an organization has been felt greatly during the past and especially so during the period of the war when so many public gatherings were held in the interests of war movements.

The personnel of the band is as follows: J. L. Ebberts, to whom sole credit is due in organizing and training the boys; Julius Aleson, Merle Hosford, Joe Brasseur and Loyd Blume, cornets; Jesse Bradley, tuba; Lewis Fox, Floyd Bradley and Lawrence Chamberlain, altos; and Kenneth Bradley, tenor.

A movement is on foot to secure funds to purchase uniforms for the boys and to also finance their organization and those in charge do not anticipate any trouble in raising sufficient funds to make the boys realize that their efforts are appreciated.

We Print Butter Wrappers

In behalf of these boys who are advancing time, energy, ability and money we make a personal appeal to all to "come through" liberally when the committee waits on you.

These boys, ranging in years from 11 to 14, have set the pace in public spiritedness which we elders will do well to emulate. The first opportunity to present itself is the financing the organization.

Don't be a slacker!

When the Fat Years Return

By F. C.

Ambulance 1-86, Western Front.

When the fat years return, and, rich and free,

You half forget, as men have ever done,

The price once paid for your security, Thinking too much of fortune lost or won.

Too much of pride and laughter, food and ease,

Or of some public favor cheaply earned,

Oh, then turn back the page and think of these

Who gave their bodies for freedom to be burned—

For these lived, too; they, too, loved ease and laughter,

Sunlight, the green earth. All that you still keep

They had, and more—vision. If you come after

And dare forget them, buried so young, so deep,

And dare forget this faith for which they stood—

Ah, but you will not, being of their blood! —The Outlook.

Start figuring now on your personal quota of Victory Liberty Bonds. If you don't, start figuring on increased taxes.

SOLDIERS' WELCOME FRIDAY

By ones, twos and threes our boys are returning.

Some of them are carrying badges which a hun bullet made in their hard young flesh as it screeched its way in an effort to stem the irresistible tide of pure, red American blood which finally overwhelmed a barbaric and treacherous foe. We bid these heroes welcome.

Others there are whom Providence ordained should serve the cause of Freedom in their own land, which they did, faithfully and well. While their comrades fought and fell in Flanders' Fields they stood ready, at a moment's notice to take up the fight where their martyred comrade was forced to leave off. We bid these heroes welcome.

And in this glorious and happy hour of reunion, when we pour out our hearts' burden den of gratitude to these glorious boys—these Minute Men of 1918, we must not forget the gallant lads who have not yet returned, the boys who are still on duty for humanity and freedom. A hearty welcome awaits them.

Even though the occasion of welcoming our heroes is a glad one, yet does a strain of deep and reverent sorrow mingle with our happiness as we think of our boys who cannot return. The lads who are peacefully sleeping 'neath the lilies of France. The deep sorrow occasioned by their death is only assuaged by the knowledge that they did not die in vain.

Elsewhere we publish the program of the exercises of welcome which program is intended to honor both the living heroes and the dead heroes.

But somewhere around 25 per cent of our boys have returned as yet and when all of our living heroes have returned we hope to have a big day of rejoicing.
