Will Drill A New Well.

Joseph Uhlenkott, who has been drilling for some time on a well for the city water company, has abandoned the old well and will drill a new one. Owing to the amount of water in the old well it was found to be necessary to rim out the hole and put down casing to shut off the flow of water so that the well could be sunk to a greater depth. After going down about 25 feet the rim bit struck a hard boulder in one side of the drill hole and could go no farther as the bit kept sliding off and making a crooked hole. Mr. Uhlenkott then decided to abandon the hole and forfeit all the work done on it. He moved his drill and engine across the creek Wednesday and started a new well about 150 feet from the railroad bridge, where he will continue work until a sufficient flow of water is secured.

With good luck it is expected that the well can be finished during March so that the pipe for the water system can be delivered here early in May at the latest.

Forest Store Sold.

M. S. Hendrickson, who returned the first of the week from a visit to Forest, informs us that the store at that point has been sold by the Idaho Store Co. to Clyde Clovis, who has had charge of the store for the past few years. Mr. Clovis is a young man of ability and has worked up a large trade for his store in the country surrounding Forest. That he will continue to make a success of the business is a certainty.

It is reported that the company above named contemplates putting in a store at this point early this spring.

Roy McKinney is at Grangeville this week assisting at the Bargain Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Crawford came up the first of the week from Palouse City to attend the funeral of John Blackburn.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS

Measures of Various Kinds That Are Now Before Our State Legislature for Consideration and Passage.

A Boise dispatch of Monday has the following to say regarding bills being considered by the present legislature:

The bill giving the state of Idaho representation at the Alaska-Yukon exposition in Seattle passed the house today with a single amendment attached to it. The change stipulated that the board of commissioners to be appointed by the governor should be non-partisan. It carries an appropriation of $50,000.

The following were among the bills introduced today in the house: Declaring it unlawful for any company supplying water under a municipal franchise to collect money of any water consumer for making connection with the mains.

Regulating the sale or delivery of deadly weapons to minors under 16 years of age, providing penalties for violations and exempting persons threatened with bodily harm.

Fixing the salaries of county officers: Recorder, $800 to $2000; assessor, $800 to $2000; treasurer, prosecuting attorney and probate judge, $500 to $1500; superintendent of education, $1000 to $2000; surveyor, $50 to $800; coroner, $50 to $300.

Providing for the issuance and sale of state bonds of $200,000 to continue the construction of the capitol building.

In the senate: Extending the time of lease on state school lands to accommodate dry farm communities; permitting corporations to change their names when too long or otherwise not suitable.

Two legislative documents were today placed in the hands of the governor for his signature. They are the senate joint resolution by Whitaker of Bonner, which provides for preservation and publication of the history of Idaho written by John Hailey, and house joint memorial by Anderson of Nez Perce, petitioning congress for the immediate improvement of the Columbia and Snake rivers. Both will be approved.

Dies From Cancer.

L. S. Ellis, father of Bert Ellis, the local blacksmith, died at the home of his son in this city Saturday morning from the effects of cancer of the face, aged nearly 63 years.
