Mr. Phillipi remained in Bimidi, Minn., when the Whitney family came west, to dispose of business interests, and will now engage in ranching provided a suitable location is obtained.

There is an idea abroad that skunk oil is good for rheumatism, neuralgia, colds, and other ailments. This superstition probably arose from the fact that the Indians and early settlers thought that oils of any animal giving off such a disagreeable odor as the skunk must be good for something. Skunk oil probably is in the same class as rattlesnake oil, which was thought to be useful because the bite of this snake is so poisonous. Indian medicine men appear to have made use of skunk as well as rattlesnake oil along with their incantations. The best trained physicians, however, attribute no medicinal value whatever to these oils. No legitimate use can be made of skunk oil unless for oiling harness or shoes, or for making soap. Nevertheless there is a small demand for it as medicine.

Relatives and friends of W. L. Burton have felt great anxiety for a condition since learning of a serious attack of stomach trouble, which he was suffering. Recent reports, however, state that he is improving and hopes are strong for his recovery. Mr. Burton is with his son Lynn and family in Spokane, and though he assisted in nursing the entire family thru influenza, he escaped the disease.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gary departed Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Gary having resigned his position with the Pioneer Furniture Store to accept a position with a lumber company at Weed, Calif. Mrs. Gary went to her former home at Glenellen to visit her people before proceeding to the new location. This young couple have made many friends during their comparatively short residence in Emmett, who will regret their departure.

A large delegation of Emmett music lovers availed themselves of the opportunity to hear one of America's best loved singers, Madame Schumann-Heink, who appeared in Boise Monday evening. Among those noted were: Messrs. and Mesdames W. B. Baker, R. G. Newcomer, Lauren Dean, R. N. Cummings, H. C. Wilson, George D. Knipe and son Hubert, Miss Katherine Mann, Miss Katherine Davis, Mrs. George Burkhard, Miss Mae Klepper, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Allah Bullock, Willard Knox, Delmar Tarleton, H. T. Davis, Mrs. R. Cartwright, Mrs. W. C. Langroise and daughter Hazel, Mrs. Wm. Appel and daughters Gretchen, Ann and Bernice, Misses Lucy Kieldson, Freda Kessel, Melcher, Spalding, Lathrop, Rossberry, Cupp, Jones, Florence Skinner, Marvel Fowler and Lottie Canaday.

The school boys are still discussing the mighty Amazon, apparently. At least some one writes us, without signing his name, to know "why the Amazon is called the greatest river in the world, when the Mississippi River is still on the map," and we suppose the writer is a school boy. The Amazon is called the greatest river in the world, because it is. The Missouri and Mississippi combined form a river of greater length, but they do not drain so much territory and are not nearly so great in volume. The Amazon drains 2 1/2 million square miles of territory, and its estimated length is 3,500 miles—which makes a considerable river. As for its volume, there is nothing else comparable with it in the whole wide world. It is two hundred miles wide at its mouth. A thousand miles from the sea it is more than four miles in width. Two thousand miles from its mouth it is still more than a mile wide—wider than the Mississippi River at New Orleans. But still more startling, the Amazon and its tributaries are navigable for thirty thousand miles; that is, the total navigable length of the streams making up the Amazon is thirty thousand miles. And, better still, we are going to hear a great deal more about the river in the future than we have ever heard in the past. The great basin of the Amazon can be made to feed and clothe the world. It has never been developed, but it is known that there is no other such productive area in the world, and now that the world is hungrier than it has ever been; now that war is at an end, giving people a chance to think of something else, the great Amazon River basin is going to be explored and brought into use for the happiness of mankind.

I. W. Stoddard, the Sweet banker, was an Emmett visitor Tuesday.

Prices Soared in America
In America, from July, 1914, to November, 1918, the increase in the price of men's overcoats was 185 per cent. Women's blouses went up 64 per cent. Knit underwear advanced 130 per cent, percales 264 per cent, shoes 100 per cent, foods an average of 83 per cent, fuel 55 per cent, clothing 93 per cent. These figures are given out as authentic by the National Industrial Conference. One of the least of the increases is rents, placed at 20 per cent. The estimated average increase in the budget of a worker's family is 70 per cent. A 100 million people are wondering if there will be a return to the normal and when the decent will begin. There is no war now with which to explain prices that have all along been catalogued as "war prices." The future is contemplated with curiosity and perplexity.

O. E. S. Notice.
Members of Eastern Star chapter are urged to attend the regular meeting to be held the evening of Tuesday, February 11. Full attendance is desired, as there is important business.
