

THE EMMETT INDEX

Published every Thursday by ED SKINNER

Entered in the Emmett postoffice as second class mail matter. Subscription Rates: One year $2.00, Six months 1.00, Three months .50

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Look at the printed label on your paper. The date thereon shows when the subscription expires. Forward your money in ample time for renewal.

CURRENT COMMENT.

IN connection with the good roads proposition, The Index suggests that roads through irrigated sections be lined with trees.

AS we get it from the telegraph, the Teutons, who were convicted some months ago, are to be sentenced tomorrow, April 25.

THERE is little occasion for you to worry. In due time things will be patched up and some sort of peace concluded.

REDUCTION of taxation will be the cornerstone of the platform which the Republican congress will build during the extra session and next winter's regular session.

SOMEONE has taken the trouble to send us an alleged scientific magazine published in St. Louis, supposed to be devoted to research of spiritual phenomena.

cause that is part of his punishment. In other words that is the hell of it.

SAM BLYTHE, old time newspaper correspondent and one of the principal contributors of the Saturday Evening Post, has spent a good deal of the time since the war began in Europe, and has picked up some mighty interesting stories of experiences among the soldiers.

we would. Say! Let's get closer to somebody's side. See what his dream is and know how he tried.

TALES OF TOWN

LET'S FORGET IT.

Say! Let's forget it! Let's put it aside! Life is so short and the world is so wide.

Curious, isn't it, that the Loan should start just after it's Lent. If "the good die young" lots of old folks in the world are in a mighty embarrassing position.

Another thing husband can't understand is how wife can tell anything on earth about a pattern. The difference between a fighter and a knocker is the difference between the affection of a dog and a mule.

The crucial days for the peach, the prune and the other fruit crops is here, and the peace conference hasn't any monopoly on crises.

It is said goldfish eat mosquitoes. If this be true, we know where a goldfish of good character can find a steady job this summer.

People who find so much fault with this good old world had better be careful. There is only one other place to go and there are no return tickets.

The time is coming, and it is not far distant, when a man who indulges his taste for tobacco will draw a jail sentence in connection with his fine.

Far be it from us to suggest anything, but we read in an eastern paper the other day that a woman found a dollar while spading up the garden.

The burning issue is not what variety of a league of nations to adopt, but whether father should take an afternoon off to make garden or go fishing.

He walked into the jewelry store with a bashful air, and murmured: "I—ah—er—um." "Bring that tray of engagement rings here," Joe called to his clerk.

All that the German peace delegates need to take along when they start for Paris tomorrow is a fountain pen apiece and the price of a night's lodging.

Well, there is this nice thing about national prohibition: After July 1 a man can go away from home and return with a suit case without being under suspicion.

A little fellow said the other evening to his mamma: "Isn't it funny how the days go by, one after the other, just like a train of cars, with Sunday for the engine?"

We would like to know how a boy who has to pay a luxury tax of 10 per cent on baseball bats and masks and mitts can ever be expected to grow up into a man and a soldier?

Little Billie was looking at Elijah going to heaven in a chariot of fire. Pointing to the halo about the prophet's head, Billie exclaimed: "See, mamma, he's carrying an extra tire."

"How many of you boys," asked a Sunday school superintendent, "will bring another boy next Sunday?" Nobody answered for a few minutes, when Willie's hand went up.

A Louisville & Nashville box car went through here the other day with the letters L. & N. covering nearly the whole side of the car.

A farmer and wife recently lost their last hog. They agreed not to say anything and they would know the first person mentioning the fact would be the thief.

A boy who stuttered badly was standing in the Grand Central station one day in New York. A stranger came up and asked him how to get Cash Bazar. DRY GOODS NOTIONS NOVELTIES. Ready to Wear MILLINERY CORSETS. WHITE FOOTWEAR. For the Sweet Girl Graduate. MATERIALS FOR GRADUATION GOWNS. WAIST SPECIAL. SHOES For Ladies and Children Boys and Girls' School Shoes.

Kentucky Double Disk and Fluted Feed Grain Drills. Most simple feed known. There is no complicated cog driving mechanism on this feed; sprocket chain from the main axle to the feed shaft does the work. We Are Exclusive Agents for All McCormick Tillage Implements. Hawkins Hardware Store.