Wm. Harpt motored over from Boise to visit at the home of his brother and family.

Edward and Dick Harpt, are having a very strenuous time harvesting melons and other fruits this summer, for their father, these boys are up at 4 o'clock ever morning, some times taking a big load on the way to Freeze-out hill and then on the way to Boise, while Mr. Harpt makes one trip into the city with a truck load of melons and back to meet the team.

As soon as the boys reach home again, its a "hustle" until dark overtakes them, picking up two more loads for the next morning. For faithfulness, and perseverance at their ages, day after day, wins them much praise, from their neighbors and friends and Mr. Harpt is mighty proud of these boys too, you may be sure.

Mr. Harpt intends to put up a fine new house at his ranch this fall and with prunes coming on there is a great amount of work to be accomplished and it results in a good tired family when night comes, every day in the week, for ripening fruit waits for no man.
