I WILL smash the German line in France if you will smash that Damnable Hun propaganda at home.--General Pershing

General Pershing is making good on his part of the above pledge. Will you vote to sustain him next Tuesday or will you vote with the Townley crowd of Hun propagandists? If you don't like to rest under suspicion don't flock with suspicious characters, criminals, traitors and I. W. W's.

HONOR ROLL IS YOUR NAME WRITTEN HERE?

The following is a list of the names of the subscribers, and the respective amount of each subscription to the 4th Liberty Loan in Shoshone, North Shoshone and Dietrich.

It is published under the authority of the Liberty Loan Committee and the Council of Defense.

In canvassing for this loan the committee found a few slackers who refused to subscribe anything and a few near-slackers who subscribed less than their circumstances justified. A list of the names of such is in preparation and will be published in the near future.

This is a roll of honor which will be highly prized by the boys in the service and will be preserved for future reference.

SHOSHONE.

INFLUENZA SERUMS.
Every one hopes that some serum or other preparation may be discovered which will prevent or alleviate the dangers of the influenza. The Journal of American Medical association is the highest authority in existence on such matters and the following report on the subject of vaccines or serums, in the issue of Oct. 19, 1918, will be of interest to our readers:
Vaccines in Influenza.
With the appearance of the epidemic of influenza, reports began to appear, chiefly in newspapers, as to new serums, vaccines, drugs and other methods for checking and even for curing the disease.
A few samples of such as have come to the Journal appear in our Tonic and Sedatives department this week. In Massachusetts Commissioner E. R. Kelly appointed two committees to investigate the value of influenza vaccines as a preventive agent and as a treatment of the disease. The first committee, a special board for scientific investigation, consisting of Dr. M. J. Rosenau, chairman, and Frederick P. Gay and George W. McCoy, was appointed to consider the evidence available on the prophylactic and therapeutic use of vaccines against influenza. This committee presented the following conclusions:
1. The evidence at hand affords no trustworthy basis for regarding prophylactic vaccination against influenza as of value in preventing the spread of the disease, or of reducing its severity. The evidence from the present epidemic, though meager, suggests that the incidence of the disease among the vaccinated is smaller than among the nonvaccinated. The board, therefore, concludes that further experimental evidence should be collected.
2. The evidence at hand convinces the board that the vaccines we have considered have no specific value in the treatment of influenza.
3. There is evidence that no unfavorable results have followed the use of vaccines.
The second committee, known as the Special Board of Statistical Investigation, consisted of Dr. George C. Whipple, chairman, William H. Davis and F. C. Crum. This committee reported:
1. The weight of such statistical evidence as we have been able to accumulate indicates that the use of the influenza vaccine which we have investigated is without therapeutic benefit. Exceptional cases where apparent benefit has resulted from the use of the vaccine can be matched off by other cases where similar recoveries have been made without vaccination.
2. The statistical evidence, as far as it goes, indicates a probability that the use of this influenza vaccine has some prophylactic value.
3. There is also some evidence to the effect that other methods of protection, such as open-air treatment and the use of proper masks, are effective in protecting exposed attendants, and the use of vaccine should not be taken as an excuse for omitting such safeguards.
As a result, the following recommendations were made:
That the state encourage the distribution of influenza vaccine intended for prophylactic use, but in such manner as will secure scientific evidence of the possible value of the agent. The use of such vaccine is to be regarded as experimental.
That the state shall neither furnish nor endorse any vaccine at present in use for the treatment of influenza.
These reports are conservative, and offer to other health commissioners and their communities a reliable guide as to procedures that should be adopted before subjecting or trying out on the public any method of prevention or treatment that may be offered. These matters are the domain of medical science, and medical scientists of recognized ability should be called on to make the decision.
OF INTEREST TO NURSES.
Word comes from Red Cross headquarters to the effect that some nurses have refused to sign and return the questionnaires sent out to them, fearing they might be called to service they did not desire. The Supervisor of Nurse Survey requests the Journal to state that the questionnaire sent to nurses is sent at the request of the Surgeon General of the army and the information is desired purely for statistical purposes and places the nurse answering the same under no obligations whatever. She will be at liberty to do as she pleases as to accepting service.
