AMERICANS CHECK BOLSHEVIK TROOPS

DRIVE BACK ATTACKERS IN A BATTLE FOUGHT IN SNOW AND FROZEN SWAMPS.

Gallantry of American Soldiers in Capturing Kadish Evokes Admiration of the Allied Command.—Comparatively Small Casualties.

New York.—News has been received here from the allied army in Russia that American troops, fighting desperately near Kadish, have driven back Bolsheviki troops which made an advance there. The Bolsheviks also launched attacks on the Omega sector and bombarded the allied front. The Americans came into battle along the Petrograde road and in the frozen swamps that border it. The battle was fought in snow from two to four feet in depth.

American forces captured Kadish after a display of gallantry that evoked the admiration of the allied commanders. Special care has been taken of the American wounded, and the body of an American officer was taken back 100 miles by sled and then shipped to Archangel for burial. There were some casualties, but they were small in comparison to those inflicted upon the enemy.

Later the Bolsheviks opened a terrific fire from three and six-inch guns, and launched a counter-attack against the buildings held by Americans in Kadish. So hot was the artillery fire that the Americans were withdrawn temporarily from the village. The line, however, was not taken back very far, and the new positions were firmly held. The enemy did not occupy Kadish, because the barrage fire from the American guns made the place untenable. Shells falling on the frozen ground spread their zones of destruction twice as far as they would under normal conditions.

The following day, under the protection of artillery fire, American detachments again swept forward and re-occupied the town. The men engaged in the advance were from infantry and trench mortar units.

UTAH BOYS COMING HOME.

Hundred and Forty-fifth Back From Battlefields in France.

New York.—With every man of the command well and happy, the United States army transport Santa Teresa arrived here January 4 with the 145th field artillery aboard. Colonel William C. Webb and his regiment sailed from Bordeaux, December 24. The trip consumed twelve days, and all but one day the weather was springlike and most delightful, the course of the ship having been well to the south, out of the path of the wintry storms.

The members of the regiment have been moved to the debarkation camp at Camp Merritt, N. J., where they will be quartered until every article of their equipment and clothing is fumigated and preparations are made for their move westward by railroad. They will remain at Camp Merritt several days.

Somewhere In Germany

TO HONOR FRANKLIN HUNDRED MILLION TO HUNGRY EUROPE

U. S. TO CELEBRATE 213TH BIRTHDAY OF PHILOSOPHER. Purpose of Observance Is to Encourage Continuance of National Thrift.

Washington.—Benjamin Franklin, whose picture adorns the 1919 issue of the War Savings certificates, will have on January 17—his 213th birthday—one of the most unique birthday celebrations ever undertaken in honor of a distinguished American. It will have the full backing of the United States government.

The event will be celebrated through special exercises to be held in the public schools throughout the country and by various children's organizations. More than 150,000 War Savings societies will make the day a special one. In these and many other ways the nation will join in paying a gigantic tribute to Benjamin Franklin, whose words of wisdom on thrift and saving are familiar in every American home. The purpose of this birthday celebration is to encourage the continuance of national thrift. Americans, pre-war wasters, became notable savers under war's pressure. Nationalizing this newly acquired thrift habit is the task undertaken by the United States treasury. Wise buying, sane saving and sane investment are the watchwords of the 1919 thrift program.

In Franklin's day the almanac was one of the most popular forms of literature. For years Franklin himself was the author of an almanac bearing the signature of Richard Saunders, popularly known as "Poor Richard." Many of Franklin's wise sayings are as applicable now as then.

"Money can beget money, and its offspring can beget more, and so on," said "Poor Richard" in his "advice to a Young Tradesman."

"He that waits upon fortune is never sure of a dinner," again said Franklin. "Look before or you'll find yourself behind. Beware of small expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship."

These and many other of Franklin's sayings will be utilized as texts in special birthday anniversary events on January 17.

Officials of the United States government point out the necessity for continued thrift. There are many tasks in Europe to be completed; the army of occupation must be maintained, and many hundreds of thousands of American soldiers are to be returned to their homes. The treasury department has therefore launched a program of education of the American people in thrift and saving. This program will reach every line of endeavor.

ANARCHY PREVAILS IN HUN CAPITAL

CIVIL WAR BREAKS OUT IN BERLIN, FURIOUS FIGHTING OCCURRING IN STREETS.

Thousands of Armed Workmen of Spartacus Faction Are Joined by Independent Socialists in Fight Against Present Government.

Copenhagen.—Berlin is in a state of complete anarchy and civil war has begun there, according to the Munich correspondent of the Politiken. His information, he says, is based on telephonic messages from the German capital.

All the banks are barricaded and a great number of the public buildings are in the hands of the Spartacus, or extreme radical group.

Thousands of armed workmen of the Spartacus faction, the correspondent reports, are crowding the streets and at several points firing has begun. The sound of machine gun fire could be heard from all parts of Berlin.

The Independent Socialists, whose leaders were recently dismissed from the government, are reported to have gone over entirely to the Spartacans. These two groups have issued a joint proclamation, declaring that the final fight to preserve the revolution must now be fought.

The message reported the intention of the government to make an effort to storm the building of the police guard later in the day and take possession of all the machine guns and cannon there.

Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Spartacan leader, has been seen about the city organizing his troops for the final fight which, the correspondent says, is expected to begin very soon.

Hundreds of persons are reported fleeing from the city.

FOR CONTROL OF UGLINESS

Science Should Be Capable of Remedying or Preventing Defects, Either Physical or Mental.

Why is it that one member of a family is ugly or imperfectly developed, while all the others are practically perfect in form and features?

Nearly every family has its ugly member. If the defects happen to be physical the sufferer will be known as the runt of the family, or if the defects are of the morals, as the black sheep.

There are good and sufficient causes for all physical and moral ugliness and there is no reason why these causes may not be discovered and controlled.

Why should one member of a family be made sick by eating the same food the others eat and that he has often eaten before?

To say that it doesn't happen to agree with him may be satisfactory to some, but to the intelligent, inquiring physician it is not. There is something wrong with the human machine or it would produce proper results. To the mechanical engineer improper results are suggestive either of a lack of or a perversion of energy. The organ or portion of machinery that has failed to do its proper share of work has not been supplied with its proper share of nerve force.

May we not apply the same rules to the building up of the body and of the mind also?

BOHEMIA LAND OF PATRIOTS

Popular Idea Concerning the Country and Its People Has Been Far From the Truth.

When Shakespeare wrote of "the seacoast of Bohemia" he showed no cheerfulness disregard of fact than most of us now do when we think of that richly storied country as a land of gypsies forever bent upon gay and wildsome adventure. "Bohemian" has stood for many an age as an appellation for carefree wanderers; yet as originally applied by the French it probably referred to the expatriated disciples of the Bohemian martyr, John Huss. Spiritual and patriotic fervor rather than lightheartedness are the traditional marks of this people, who after long generations of subjection to Teuton Austria are coming into their own.

Bohemia was the home of the Czechs for hundreds of years before Germanic invaders broke in upon its happy freedom, as early, indeed, as the sixth century before Christ. The Czechs' love of country and of liberty and their sense of Slav kinship with their oppressed Slovak brethren dwelling near by never died or dimmed. Despite tyranny and persecution they have clung to pride in their past and to hope for their future; they have cherished their language, their literature and customs, their common faith and ideals.—Atlanta Journal.

Canton's City of Canals.

At Canton, the oldest city in southern China, the river is, in effect, canalized, and the shipping is heavy and varied. The water is deep enough for ships of 1,000 tons burden as far as the city, but foreign boats come up only as far as Whampoa, nine miles to the southeast, where there are extensive docks. Here the loading and unloading is done by native boats. Vessels of deep draft lie outside the bar. Forty miles below is the Boca Tigris (Mouth of the Tiger), and the water widens into a wide estuary. Water divides the old from the new town and surrounds the island and the suburbs, where the Europeans live, so that Canton has an abundance of picturesque water life, including a big houseboat population.

According to the Title.

A well-known artist tells of an amusing colloquy which took place in an art gallery between two young women about a copy of Millet's "Gleaners." One of the young women was carried away by her enthusiasm. "How beautiful! How wonderful. How beautiful!" she exclaimed. "Above all, how natural!" Then, after a pause, "But what are those people doing?" Drawing nearer to read the title, she was enlightened. "Oh, now I see! Gleaning millet! How wonderful! How beautiful!"
