VOTERS REPUDIATE TOWNLEYISM; LEAGUE CANDIDATES CRUSHED; DAVIS IS ELECTED GOVERNOR

NUGENT AND GOODING ARE IN CLOSE RACE FOR SHORT TERM IN THE SENATE

BURTON L. FRENCH WINNER

Entire Republican State Ticket Is Elected—Non-partisans Have Little Show

Non-partisan league candidates for state office in Idaho were decisively beaten at the general election held Tuesday, when the entire Republican state ticket was elected. The Non-partisans, who won over old-line Democratic candidates in the state-wide primaries in September, were successful in no instance, except John W. Eagleson, Republican, who received the Non-partisan endorsement for state treasurer, and whom the Republicans supported at the general election.

Senator W. E. Borah, who also had the league endorsement, was reelected for the six-year term beginning March 4, next. He defeated Frank L. Moore, straight Democrat, of Moscow.

Doubt remains as to whether John F. Nugent, Democratic incumbent, or Frank R. Gooding has been elected to the short term senatorship. Late reports gave Nugent a lead of 446 in 85,000 votes, while 10,000 more votes remained to be counted.

Burton L. French, Republican, was returned to congress from the First or northern district, defeating L. I. Purcell, Non-partisan, of Weiser.

Addison T. Smith, representing the southern district in congress, was returned to that body. Mr. Smith, who is a Republican, defeated C. R. Jeppeson, Non-partisan.

D. W. Davis, Republican of American Falls, was elected governor over H. F. Samuels of Sandpoint, by an estimated majority of 15,000. Samuels was the Non-partisan candidate.

Other state officials, all Republicans, elected are:

Lieutenant governor—C. C. Moore, defeating O. G. Zuck, Non-partisan.

Secretary of state—R. O. Jones, defeating W. A. Fife, Non-partisan.

State auditor—E. G. Gallett, defeating W. P. Rice, Non-partisan.

State treasurer—John W. Eagleson, Republican-Non-partisan, defeating E. L. Parker, straight Democrat.

Attorney general—Roy L. Black, defeating B. A. Cummings, Non-partisan.

Superintendent of public instruction—Ethel E. Redfield, unopposed.

Inspector of mines—Robert N. Bell, defeating William J. J. Smith, Non-partisan.

Taken as a whole, the results of the election are gratifying in all parts of the state. The chief concern seemed to be to defeat Non-partisan league candidates, most of whom were nominated on the Democratic ticket, when the Non-partisans boldly captured the Democratic primaries.

Loyalty was the paramount issue raised by the Republicans, who spared no effort to expose the Non-partisan league leaders and to show their connection with the I. W. W. and other socialistic organizations.

The campaign was unique, in that the customary campaign speeches and political rallies were not held, owing to prevalence of Spanish influenza throughout the state, and the state board of health's ban on all public gatherings. Newspapers were used almost exclusively by the candidates, and thousands upon thousands of dollars were spent for newspaper advertising during the campaign.

The Republican, it is declared, owe their election largely to Democratic votes, which went to the Republicans in preference to candidates of the Non-partisan league. Many Democrats refused to be swung into line to vote for the Non-partisan candidates, although in some quarters pressure was brought to bear to accomplish that end.

Senator Borah was reelected by combined Republican and Non-partisan votes. His opponent was Frank L. Moore, a Moscow attorney, whose support was confined almost entirely to that of straight Democrats. While it is possible that Moore may have received votes of Republicans who were dissatisfied with Borah, in view of returns from the election it is considered doubtful whether he received many votes of this character.

Senator Nugent and Frank R. Gooding have been running a neck-and-neck race for the short term senatorship, with Nugent slightly in the lead, according to latest reports. Gooding waged a fight on the Non-partisan league, which had endorsed Nugent.

Alfred Budge was proposed for justice of the state supreme court. Mr. Justice Budge at the present time is chief justice.

SCHOOL ON SATURDAYS AND DURING VACATION TO MAKE UP FOR LOSS

Pupils of the Grangeville public schools who thought, because of the closing order, due to Spanish influenza, they would escape the entire nine months of school, will be disappointed, for it is planned to hold school on Saturdays and during the Christmas vacation, in order to make up for four weeks of school lost because of the epidemic.

The public schools will not be opened before November 18. If conditions continue to improve, it is thought that the schools can be opened on that day. This would mean the loss of four weeks, or twenty school days, and in order to make up for the loss, plans already are being completed.

The schools before closing were five days ahead of schedule, because the annual teachers' institute was not held. This would leave the schedule only fifteen days behind, if the schools are not opened until November 18. School probably will be held on the Monday and Tuesday before Christmas and the Thursday and Friday following New Year's day, which would place the schools eleven days behind schedule. Five days in other vacations can be eliminated, it is pointed out, and if school is held on six Saturdays, the entire schedule can be made up.

Teachers, under the state law, are drawing pay during the time the schools are closed.

KEUTERVILLE WOMAN IS DEAD.

Mrs. Charles Beuttner Succumbs to Spanish Influenza.

Mrs. Charles Beuttner, wife of a well known rancher residing five miles south of Keuterville, died Monday evening from complications following an attack of Spanish influenza. She leaves her husband and five children.

Judge Wallace N. Scales of Grangeville was elected judge of the Tenth judicial district, comprising the counties of Idaho, Lewis and Nezperce, at the election, Tuesday, defeating Benjamin F. Judge Scales was appointed judge of the Tenth judicial district at the time the district was created.
