BLACKFOOT, IDAHO, JANUARY 21, 1892.

Home Chimney Sparks

Travel eastward over the Oregon Short Line is not overly crowded.

Judge Brice, late of Boise, is going to open a law office in Pocatello.

The W. C. T. U. gospel services are to be revived.

Hon. H. O. Harkness, of McCammon was in Blackfoot Tuesday.

Pocatello shop men's time has been reduced from 10 to 8 hours per day.

Secretary of State Foster is soon to resign and go abroad.

Miss Lula Sill has so far recovered as to be able to sit up in her room.

Three hundred families at Homestead, Penn., are reported on the verge of starvation.

Peter Melling, an Idaho Falls rancher, made a business trip to Blackfoot Saturday.

Washington county has a magnificent display of fruits and cereals on exhibition in Boise City.

Jimmie Stevens is well pleased with his position as supreme court stenographer.

The rolling mill men at Laramie, Wyoming, have had their wages reduced 50 per cent. If they do not accept, new men will be employed.

Delegate Cain, has introduced a bill in congress for an enabling act for Utah whereby it may be admitted into the union of states.

Operator Melton, of Blackfoot station, has gone to Red Rock, Montana, where he becomes both station agent and operator.

There are three pronounced candidates for surveyor general of the state. Two for attorney general and four for assayer.

An exchange says that the old-fashioned "kissing bee" is to be revived this winter. Good enough, but be careful which end of the bee you kiss.

When two men can trade horses and think just as well of each other as before, it is not necessarily an evidence that they are both good men, but the horses were both good.

Lobbyists are numerous and frequent in Boise City. Of course nearly every one thinks he carries the legislature in his pantaloons watch pocket.

Sheriff Woodin came in from Horse Prairie, Montana, Monday morning, with Duncan Waddum, charged with horse-stealing.

Rich coal fields have been discovered 16 miles north-west of Boise City. Claim holders are arranging to place the coal on the city market. Fourteen men are working in the pits.

Capt. Billy Clemens, of the Clemens House, Soda Springs, is spending a few days at Boise. He was in Blackfoot, Monday. He favors the non-division scheme.

The largest known diamond is called the Braganza, which is among the crown jewels of Portugal. It is uncut, weighs 1,680 carats, and is valued at over $28,000,000.

You will note that this was not taken from the diamond fields of Idaho.

The first term of the United States court for Blackfoot will begin first Monday in May. It will follow close upon Judge Standrod's April term. In truth Judge Standrod may hurry up to give way to Judge Beatty.

The bills in contemplation for the division of Bingham county by the present legislature will make good patch work of the territory. Some of the lines proposed divide men's ranches, mining claims, separate his dwelling from his stables, and make the roosting places of his chickens in one county and his ducks in another.

J. F. Pribyl, formerly editor of the Corinne City, Utah, Calliope; William D. Duncan, of the Ogden Daily Post, and James P. Sprunt, a prominent real estate man and banker of Ogden, were in Blackfoot Saturday on business.

Not many people stop to think about it, but the outside of a lemon is anything but clean. If you will look at it you will see some tiny spots, like scales, all over it. These are the eggs of an insect, and if the lemon is not washed they are likely to become an ingredient in what ever dish the lemon is used for.

Cassia county has a candidate for United States marshal. They say about Boise that his letters are as numerous as the sands by the seashore.

A good looking, well-to-do, and popular young bachelor of an interior town was being teased by the young ladies of a club for not getting married. He said: "I'll marry the girl of your club, whom, on a secret vote, you shall elect to be my wife." There were nine members of the club. Each girl went into a corner, and used great caution in preparing her ballot and disguised her handwriting. The result of the vote was that there were nine votes cast, each girl receiving one. The young man remains a bachelor; the club is broken up, and the girls are all mortal enemies, united in the one determination that they will never speak to that nasty man again.

PERHAPS!!!

Prof. Andrew F. Seymour, of Rockford, Ill., a mind reader, has begun preparations for a feat he proposes to accomplish next summer. He will, June 21, throw himself into a state of insensibility and be buried. The grave is to be watched by a committee, day and night, while a crop of barley is sowed, ripened and harvested over it. Mr. Seymour will then be disinterred and will return to life. His feat, it is claimed, has been performed by the fakirs of India under conditions which prevent imposition, and Mr. Seymour says he has such control over his mind and nervous system that he is confident he can perform the act.

THE DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM.

Hon. W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, concisely and accurately outlines the purposes of the incoming Democratic congress and executive as follows:

- The readjustment of the tariff.
- The establishment of a sound currency upon a stable basis.
- The revision of the enormous pension rolls.
- To these labors the party stands pledged. It should not halt by the way to bother itself about less important matters of policy or patronage until these things shall have been accomplished."

Governor McConnell's Appointments.

The North Idaho Star, published at Moscow, in an editorial on the State University, concludes the same with the following:

"Rumors are abroad that Governor McConnell will not re-appoint any one of the regents who has not been his personal or political friend. That in the distribution of patronage in this and other directions it will be bestowed only upon those who are likely to be able and willing to help him in his aspirations to succeed Senator Shoup in the senate.

It is said that the predilections of parties in the matter of the treasurer of the University, who is appointed by the board, will be considered.

We sincerely trust that this is untrue, and for ourselves do not credit it in the slightest. Governor McConnell is too wise ever to make such an error—it would be disastrous to the enterprise and the entire blame would be his. Indeed his political enemies would want nothing better than a bubble of this kind in order to attack him and ruin him politically in his own town and county."

Yes, THE NEWS believes Governor McConnell will do nothing of the kind; indeed, we feel sure he will not. Everybody knows that he cannot turn the institutions of the state into political machines without bringing disaster to himself, to his party and to the institutions themselves.

The governor won't do it. We believe he has the ambition to make the best governor the state has ever had, and if he were to attempt such a partisan move as that, in two years' time, his proclamations would be worth no more in the market than the election proclamation of his predecessor.

A Historical Parallel.

There is an interesting parallel—the only one in the history of the country—in the approaching retirement of President Harrison and the experience of his grandfather.

William H. Harrison, like his grand son Benjamin, was twice a candidate for President, and his opponent in each election was the same man, Martin Van Buren, as Grover Cleveland was of Benjamin Harrison.

In the election of 1836 Van Buren received 170 of the electoral votes cast and Harrison but 73. In 1840 Harrison received 234 of the votes and Van Buren but 60.

In the election of 1858 Benjamin Harrison received 233 of the electoral votes and Grover Cleveland but 168, and in the election of 1892 Cleveland will reverse the result, receiving 276 of the votes, against 144 for Harrison.

History at times plays queer freaks in American politics.—New York Herald.

THE PRESIDENTIAL SUCCESSION.

Correspondent is informed that should Mr. Cleveland die before the second Monday in January next the electoral college would have to elect some other person to the presidency. They have a legal right to do that in any event, as there is no restriction upon their choice except in regard to the qualifications laid down in the constitution. Should Mr. Cleveland be elected president by the electoral college in January, and Mr. Stevenson vice-president, and the former should die between that time and the first of March, Mr. Stevenson would be the president. This contingency is provided for in the 12th amendment to the constitution, which declares that in case of a failure to elect a president, or in case of a vacancy in the office from any other cause, the vice-president shall act.

Article 2, section 1, of the constitution, confers upon the congress the right to declare what officer shall act as president in case of vacancy in both the offices of president and vice-president. This was done by the act of congress approved February 3, 1887, and the succession is in the following order: Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War, Attorney General, Secretary of the Navy, and Secretary of the Interior.—Baltimore Sun.

CLEVELAND'S BLACK LIST.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat pretends to say that Mr. Cleveland has a black list of those who opposed his nomination at Chicago, and they may look for nothing at his hands in the way of appointments. This is what the Globe-Democrat has to say in part:

This black-list includes some very prominent names, along with many others of smaller importance. The country can easily recall the bitter things that were said by certain leading Democrats concerning the man who now has them at his mercy. Some of the observations were more disparaging than any ever made by Republican critics. Cleveland remembers them all, we may sure, and will take particular delight in resenting them. The offices will be given to those who stood by him from the start. No man whose name is on the black-list can bring sufficient influence to bear for the removal of said disqualification. The new president will coolly dismiss all applicants of that sort with the information that they have no claims which he is bound to regard. It will be useless for them to talk about what they did for the party during the campaign. That will not be recognized as a test of fitness where a man stands convicted of participation in the anti-Cleveland conspiracy before the Chicago Convention. Thus a considerable number of persons who might otherwise expect to be handsomely provided for will be cold-shouldered in a most emphatic and humiliating fashion. They took the chances, and they will have to take the consequences. Cleveland is a boss with a big opinion of his own personality, and with ample facilities for gratifying his private grudges. The black-list he has prepared is a long one, but there is no probability that he will consent to rub out a single name on any account; and thereby hangs a tale of coming disappointment and retaliation that will make very interesting reading."
