BLACKFOOT, IDAHO, MARCH 24, 1894.

A convention of recesses is like a ship in shallow water. Both take soundings every few minutes to see where they are at.

THE President has taken no action on the seigniorage bill yet, although it was sent in for his signature Tuesday. The supposition is that he will allow it to become a law by limitation.

BUTTE has a murder case on hand that bids fair to rival the Coughlan case of Chicago. It has held the attention of the court for four weeks, and something like one hundred witnesses have been examined.

THE Breckenridge-Pollard breach of promise case is drawing immense crowds to the court room in Washington where the trial is in progress; all the capitol people are deeply interested in the racy testimony presented from day to day.

ONE thing has developed during the present Democratic administration which is now plain to everybody: Vice-President Stevenson is not giving out many fat federal offices to his country 'cousins.'

THE Democratic party expects every member in Idaho to do his duty this year. Those who drifted in the 'dead calm' sea two years ago must put on sail and pull out. No member is worthy to be a captain or a pilot who skulks in the hole while the ship is maneuvering for action.

New York goldbugs were surprised Wednesday when they received a telegram from Mr. Cleveland telling them it would be useless to send a committee to Washington to argue with him concerning the Bland silver bill. The president evidently has all the pointers he needs in this matter.

THE nomination of ex-postmaster Ben Beane for mayor of Pocatello over Attorney Blickensderfer reads like an old gold colored optic for Governor McConnell in that town. They do say that the attorney occupies a perfumed and upholstered niche in the governor's heart.

THE New York legislature proposes to pass a law forbidding the raising of any flag but that of the United States upon public buildings. This is a proper measure. Those who prefer some other flag to the stars and stripes should be permitted to emigrate to a country where it floats to the breeze.

THE demand for money at financial centers has considerably increased during the past week, owing to the resumption of many large manufacturing establishments. Business men feel encouraged by the outlook. It is confidently expected that the activities of the summer will counterbalance the stagnation of the past few months, and that industry will again be on its feet before the advent of warm weather.

THE Salmon City Recorder will no longer do service for its old party. It was silenced and captured by a gun of the Populist. Hereafter it will be turned on its old friends. This is too sad. Think of it! a gun shooting down the men who had rallied and fought around it in many hard fought battles.

There is a common superstition in army circles that a gun captured from the enemy and turned upon the men who had handled it, petted it and fought with it, never does good service any more. A spirit of bad luck hovers about it which can never be driven away. But THE NEWS trusts no evil spirit will ever hover about The Recorder which has been run with so much merit.

FRED GEBHART'S novel bridal gift to his bride—a silver bath tub weighing 3,200 ounces—opens a new field to silver. It goes in the direction of putting the country on a silver basis. This new fad is the triumph of an idea and may be caught up and carried to an extent never before dreamed of by Mr. Gebhart himself. In a short time THE NEWS expects to see novelty dealers flooding the markets with miniature silver bath tubs in trinkets and kindred charms.

BOISE CITY Republicans are talking Peter Souma for governor, but the 'ins' have it McConnell for governor, Frank Coffin for lieutenant governor, and Bruner for attorney general. But Blackfoot has not been heard. Her Republicans may name a man who can make a Nancy Hanks record in the convention hall. While you are building air castles in Boise, gentlemen, don't overlook the little town by the clear running waters of the Snake river; you may find more along the banks than golden sands.

It requires a man with a long head to find out just what the Idaho building at Chicago was sold for. At one time it was reported that several parties were anxious to buy, some offering as high as $7,000 for it; then came the report that it had been sold for $5,000; later a telegram was received at Boise City stating that the building had been sold to a Cincinnati lady for $4,000; this was thought to be final. Now comes Commissioner Wells and says the price paid was only $3,500. One thing is sure according to the commissioner's report, that is the indebtedness yet outstanding against the state is $1,932.

IDAHO Democrats should be the last to fall in the line of kickers against the administration touching federal appointments. Mr. Cleveland has done well by Idaho. In the presidential offices he has made two-thirds of the changes demanded and in the miner offices more than three-fourths. This taken in comparison with other states of greater population and in consideration of the opposition he has met in his own party ranks is doing remarkably well.

But while the party is indebted to Mr. Cleveland it is under obligations to National Committeeman Frank W. Beane for his indefatigable work in keeping the matter before the president and the departments in Washington. Mr. Beane has gone to Washington as many as three times at his own expense since the administration came into power, and by his persistent fighting on one line has obtained many favors for the state. The party should not, it cannot overlook such services and it will not countenance any effort to discredit him for what he has done and for what he is doing from day to day.

He Deserves It.

Every Democrat cannot endorse every act of a Democratic President, but no Democratic voter, and no Democratic newspaper, can be loyal to the party that criticises everything a Democratic President does, and seeks to belittle, besmear and drag down a Democratic administration. Grover Cleveland is a Democratic President, and despite the terrible material depression of the country and the demoralized morale of the Democratic party, for which he can not justly be held responsible, he to-day holds the confidence of the intelligent masses of his countrymen more than any living American.

The Populist of Helena, Montana, have nominated John Huseby, the tallest man in the city for mayor. He only lacks one inch of being seven feet in height.

The eastern farmers are now busy putting in their grain crops. A large acreage will be seeded.

Pessimist's Predictions.

LA CROSS, Wis. March 18.—Rev. G. W. Wilcox and son began to build a cave on one of the bluffs east of the city yesterday, in anticipation of a cyclone and flood, which he predicts will come to this vicinity on April 4. Himself and friends have been holding spiritual meetings every night for some time, the sessions sometimes lasting all night. The ministers of the city were invited to his home, and when they appeared were informed that they should notify their people of the approaching day of doom. Hundreds visits his home, and with maps he presents the matter in such convincing way that many go away believing in the day of fate. He says that the storm will be 100 miles wide and that the cyclone and flood will destroy the whole city. His family and friends are making final preparations.
