MATCHLESS WEATHER AND IMMENSE CROWDS

Second Day of the Fair Shows Larger Attendance and Better Races than Ever Before

Beautiful weather, indeed one can not say more, could not expect more. Lewiston Inter-State Fair is fortunate that thus far the weather has been one of the pleasing encouragements that go toward making a happy crowd. The crowds again began to arrive early on the grounds and by the time the races came on the grand stand was packed. There was no unusual excitement on the grounds this morning, with the exception of a runaway of a horse attached to a small buggy belonging to Dr. Leak. Fortunately the horse picked the easiest way out of the grounds and was caught out on the commons.

The features in horticultural hall attracted large crowds this morning and

The decorations on this is very artistically done in colors, and the butterflies are hand painted.

Fort Lapwal is represented in the Asotin county exhibit by a miniature house built in the shape of a fort. The fort is made entirely of apples, the production of Clarkston. This was the especial work of Mrs. Edwards of Montana.

In the special floral exhibit of Mrs. Vining of Clarkston are plants of many varieties, banked up in monumental form, representing Bunker Hill monument in detail.

Another handsome illustration of artistic work is a butterfly four feet high and measuring six feet from top to tip of wings. This handsome work is by the hands of Mrs. Conway.

Other special features is a harp of grasses made by Mrs. Vining, Cleopatra's needle made of grapes, the work of Mrs. Edwards and a national shield in colors made from grasses.

Secretary Hasbrouck announces the following judges have been selected:

H. H. Collins of Tacoma, poultry department.

H. T. French, of Moscow, stock department.

A. Van Holderbeke, of Tacoma, horticultural exhibits.

Miss Allen Clarkston and Miss Eggman Lewiston, women's department.

The stock department is fast filling up and is attracting much attention.

G. A. Swanson of Waha arrived in the city this morning with eight head of Poland-China pigs which are a creditable addition to that department.

Among the cattle exhibits is the stalls occupied by "The Hillsdale Herd" owned by Metsker and Klemgard of Pullman.

This stock are all prize Short Horn cattle, seven in number, and have won prizes at Spokane, Colfax, North Yakima and Salem. Among this herd is a 2,500 pound four-year-old bull and 1,800 pound cow.

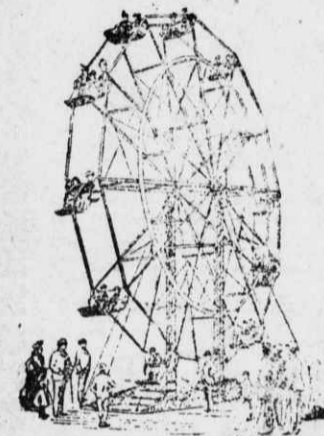

It is announced by the fair management that on Thursday next Professor Miller will make a thrilling balloon ascension and parachute jump.

The Methodist and Presbyterian church of Lewiston are both conducting restaurants on the fair grounds.

The Ferris Wheel Which Will Be Running Tomorrow Evening.

much favorable comment was heard on all sides.

Too much can not be said in praise of the management of the various exhibits who have worked untiringly in their different departments.

Among some of the sights to be seen in horticultural hall, one can not help but stop and look at the handsome exhibit of Asotin county. Among some of the special features is the liberty bell which has a prominent space on the north side of Asotin county's exhibit. The bell is made entirely from Flame Tokay grapes hanging in clusters the word liberty sets just above the bell and is also made from grapes. The grapes are of Clarkston production and the work was done by Mrs. Conway and Mrs. Porter.

Another very interesting feature the work of Mrs. Vining of Clarkston is the figure of Miss Alice Roosevelt, representing the Goddess of Liberty in a carriage drawing a span of butterflies.

His estimate is that the extension will cost $5,351. The matter was passed up to the contractors and a supplemental contract will probably be made with them at the meeting tonight.

Engineer Maxon was authorized to survey an extension of Snake river avenue from its present terminus south to the new boundary line of the city. Owners of property soon to be put on the market want to know the exact location of their street lines.

Bids were opened for contracts to build the Carnegie library on the revised plans and again all bids are rejected because they do not come within the $10,000 limit of the Carnegie donation. CARRYING MONEY AWAY FROM ST. LOUIS BANKS

Depositors Start a Run at Noon Today on Two of the Oldest and Strongest Banks of St. Louis

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.) ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.—Runs are in progress at noon today upon the Mississippi Valley bank and the Mercantile Trust company, two of the largest financial institutions of St. Louis.

The runs were occasioned by rumors from Chicago and New York to the effect that the banks were embarrassed. Nothing is known of the nature of the alleged difficulty nor whether there is any foundation of truth in the reports that caused the runs.

The clearing house associations held a specially called meeting as soon as the run began, and took steps to protect both banks if assistance was needed.

Neither bank has so far asked for aid, and are paying all demands as fast as the money can be counted out.

The Mississippi Valley bank has a capital of three millions, and its surplus and undivided profits exceed five millions.

The Mercantile Trust company is capitalized at three millions and has a surplus and undivided profits of six millions eight hundred thousand dollars.

ARMENIAN MILLIONAIRE BRUTALLY MURDERED

M. Sagouini, Active in American Relief, Fatally Shot by Leader of Rival Factions at Noon Today

(Special Telegram to Evening Teller.) LONDON, Oct. 27.—M. Sagouini, an Armenian millionaire and refugee leader, was brutally murdered in the streets of London at noon today.

After firing the fatal shot the murderer dropped his revolver on the sidewalk. The weapon was secured by the officers and found to have been purchased in New York city.

The officers believe the assassin to belong to a rival faction of the Armenian party which is charged with having been spies in the Sultan trouble.

The trouble between the two sections of the Armenians was occasioned over the collection of $20,000 in the United States in 1902 for the relief of the abused and murdered Armenian families.

Sagouini was charged by the assassin with confiscating some of the funds collected.

Editor Young publisher of an Armenian newspaper at Boston, Mass., precipitated a sensation by discovering the alleged misappropriation. Immediately afterwards an attempt was made upon the life of Editor Young but he escaped injury.

M. Nagarbek, an American leader in Switzerland, was assaulted here because he reiterated the charges recently published, and refused to retract. An incriminating circumstance is the fact that Sagouini had just returned from a trip to Nagarbek when the attempt upon the life of Editor Young was made.

The regular body of the Armenian faction charge the sultan campaign managers with carrying on a war of extermination upon all Armenians now in America and London.

Sagouini had just arrived in London from New York when the murder occurred. He was without doubt the foremost Armenian in the world, being possessed of a private fortune which was always at the disposal of the distressed Armenians.

His latest movement and the ambition of his life was to organize a peaceful revolution in the interests of oppressed Armenians.

Sagouini had many friends among distinguished men both in Europe and the United States.

After firing the fatal shot the assassin escaped in the confusion following.

PROVISIONS NOW SCARCE AT THUNDER MOUNTAIN

Flour Is Worth $8 a Sack, Bacon Is 35 cents a Pound and 700 Men Expect to Winter There

George Stonebreaker arrived on the Clearwater train this morning direct from Thunder Mountain, where he has spent the season in developing his properties. He brought his pack train of thirty-five horses as far as Stites and will later move them to Lewiston to winter.

Mr. Stonebreaker is very enthusiastic over the season's work on his claims and over the general outlook for the Thunder mountain district. Development work in the camps there this season has fully demonstrated that the ore bodies are permanent and run to depth carrying increased values.

The miners operating there are jubilant over results and as many people will winter there this year as can find food to carry them through. Provisions of all kinds are scarce and prices are high. Flour is selling at $8 a sack, bacon at 35 cents per pound, potatoes and cabbage at 12 cents, and onions at 15 cents a pound. Fresh beef is cheaper as the cattle were driven in during the summer, fattened on the bunch grass and will be killed as soon as the snow shuts off their feed. It is estimated that fully 700 people will remain in Thunder mountain this winter.

Mr. Stonebreaker has spent the summer in development work on the Juno group. He made a 100 feet of tunnel and sunk shafts at several points on the lead. The results show that the ore bodies increase in depth and that values are better. The same showing prevails all over the district and miners operating there are very enthusiastic.
