

CUB REPORTER TELLS BOSS HIS TROUBLES

Says His Best Girl Is Too Gabby in this Campaign.

Dear Boss: Of course I don't suppose you're interested in my private affairs, but things are quiet today and I thought I'd tell you about the trouble I've been having trying to get my girl straightened out in politics.

This queen of mine doesn't go in very strong for political economy and the New Thought. She isn't even posted on current events. She thinks they hung Dan Brown to a sour apple tree and that Frank Martin is in the real estate business. She can't get it out of her head that Bill McAleer, him that is speaking for prohibition, used to be attorney for the saloonkeepers' association and that they used to call Floyd Murray "Skiddo" and yell at him to "hit 'em low."

This gal of mine is so full of ancient information that I wonder how she gets by. She can't ferret out why the republicans get criminal lawyers to defend the man who told Teddy Kloth to run on his record. This girl is all bawled up boss. She can sure doll herself up like Mrs. Astor's prize pony and would walk five miles in the rain to a jazz dance, but as a suffrage she's the limit. She even remembers the time when Bill Schulte was property man for "The Prince of Tonight" touring the country and used to button the leading lady's dress in the back during a quick change.

This twentieth century kid may have the low-down on all the movie stars but politics is way over her head. She's got the idea that all these candidates want is the salary that goes with the job and everybody knows that never enters their minds. She wants to know where the money came from to pay for the Dan Brown circus posters and who put up $500 jack to hire the Parthenon for his demagogue. And then she asked me when was it Charley Surprise started staying up nights to find out whether there was any cheating going on.

I'm down on this suffrage business, boss, from now on. I been trying to educate this woman but there's no use. She knows how to use a powder puff to perfection, but as for pulling the lever on elec-

HARBOR WOMAN ASKS FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Ora Lee Jones, 5923 Drummond street, Indiana Harbor, has been separated from her husband, Jesse Jones, since August 1920. After thinking it over for a year she has decided to get a divorce. Her complaint was filed in the Superior court at Hammond this morning by Attorney M. Hershovitz.

They were married in April, 1914, and in their six years of married life the woman says she was frequently beaten, choked and humiliated. On one occasion she says her husband attacked her with an axe. Another time he chased her down the street with a knife. He accused her of being untrue but she stood for all of the abuse until she found he had been intimate with one Mary Miller. Then she left him.
