Two recent weddings of interest are those of Miss Anna Weiss and Arthur Ault, formerly of Lowell but now of Hammond. Mr. Ault is with the faculty of the Technical high school here in Hammond. The wedding took place at the home of Reverend J. C. Barrett on Waltham street on the twenty-ninth of November, with Alex. Rhind acting as an attendant for Mr. Ault. The Aults will live on Dyer boulevard.

The other wedding is that of Robert M. Smith of Galesburg, Illinois, also on the faculty of the Hammond Technical high school, and Miss Mary Johnson of Iron Mountain, Michigan. The wedding took place on the twenty-ninth of November in the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago. John Timothy Stone officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will live in Chicago.

The North Side Ladies' Club met with Mrs. J. W. Thompson at her home on Elm street yesterday afternoon and was welcomed by both Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Sullivan. The business for the afternoon was to elect officers and Mrs. Sullivan was made president, Mrs. J. W. Thompson vice president, Mrs. O. W. Hill financial secretary, Mrs. Lawrence recording secretary, and Mrs. Richard Jenkens treasurer. Mrs. Bush had charge of the entertainment which followed and in the contests Mrs. Ross Stevens and Mrs. J. Murphy won the prizes. At the close of the afternoon lovely refreshments suggestive of Christmas, even to the yule log at dessert time, were served in the rooms of the Thompson home, so lovely with bright holly. Mrs. R. Jenkens will have the ladies as her guests in January.

Several couples of Hammond people have planned an enjoyable theatre party for this evening, when they will go to see Al Jolson in his popular "Rouben". They are Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Eggers, Mr. and Mrs. William Love, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yohn, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Taitt, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Sillier and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wise. Following the theatre the crowd will have dinner.

The Presbyterian church was well filled last evening by people who wished to see their friends behind the footlights in the role of a veritable genius of the dramatic world. The Associated Concert orchestra played enjoyably from seven thirty until eight, and in between each scene of the play called "The Pill

"Bottle," which was indeed well received.

The first scene of the play found the college girls, Esther Cooper, Lola Clark and Katherine Oberlin, packing their belongings to leave school and go into their various walks of life. Barbara Lane, done remarkably well by Miss Mildred Mote, whose twenty-two relatives have been missionaries in India, is the popular girl of the school, who has chosen Interior-decorating for her career. Barbara goes to India to visit her parents, Dr. Lane, Cyril Bell, and Mrs. Lane, Mrs. E. Thibault. There she is suddenly impressed with the fact that there is a big work for her there among those ignorant deserving people. The suffering and sorrow needlessly inflicted is brought out to her clearly when three natives, Harold Stout, Bernard Gavitt and Edmund Bomberger come begging for medical attention, thinking that she will be able to help their sick mothers and wives at home. Time elapses and we find Barbara Lane turned doctor with an office full of patients. The first patient, Mrs. Jno. P. Wilhelm came with aches followed by Mrs. Harry Sheridan, the second patient, who had great faith in Dr. Barbara and her cures. The third and fourth patients, Mrs. John Watson and Mrs. Wm. Hatfield, furnished much amusement with their complaints about ear aches and an infected foot. The fifth patient, the child wife played by Arlene Davis, was a revelation in that this twelve year old child was bringing her child for attention who herself was suffering from our own deadly influenza. Mrs. A. J. Warner, one of the aristocracy, with her servant, Mrs. Roscoe Smith, representing the sixth and seventh patient, come to brush elbows with the Hot Polloi. During this office hour, the eighth patient, Miss Lila Kipple bursts in out of breath with fear and fever and the Bible Woman who spread joy everywhere, ably done by Mrs. Donald Metz, carefully led her way to receive careful attention. There was also an old blind woman who came for help. This part was taken by Miss Elmer Whitmore. Dr. Lane's fame had spread so far that four more patients had come from the far country to consult with her. They were Mrs. Bernard Gavitt, Lillian Johnson, Helen Waltzell, who all showed their interest in this Christian goddess. The thirteenth patient done by Mrs. J. T. Clark was well done in that she impersonated the rather difficult role of a very old woman "Who came" to seek truth and light which she knew Dr. Lane could give. The play ends with appearance of the outcast woman, Mrs. John McNeill, who splendidly showed in her own power lines how wonderful God's power is to even the feasts of us.

Much credit is due Mrs. John Wilhelm and Mrs. Kipple who worked so untrillingly to make this play a success. John McNeill and Mrs. J. C. Barrett should also be mentioned as splendid co-operators in this affair.

An exhibit of interest to those of us who have not passed Postoffice's for some time is the group of pictures in oil in Mr. Postoffice's window by Mrs. Erick Lund. These worthwhile paintings are of our own lovely Dunes and are some of the most worth while shown in some time.

Max Schneider of Forsythe avenue, who has been in Brooklyn, New York, for some time visiting his mother, is expected to return to Hammond tomorrow. Mr. Schneider also visited New York City during his stay.

The annual Christmas party of the Evening Hour department of Hammond Woman's club will be held at the home of Mrs. Giles Warner, 45 Elizabeth street, on Monday evening, December 10th. The chairman of the evening's entertainment is Mrs. Walter Bauer, who has arranged a most interesting program. Mrs. L. L. Bomberger will give two groups of songs, there is to be a Christmas story given by Mrs. Walter Bauer, and the members of the club will join in singing Christmas carols. At the conclusion of the evening's program, there will be a grab bag for the members, which has always proven to be a most fruitful and entertaining event. The assisting hostesses for the evening are Mrs. Claude Palmer, Miss Alta Adkins, Mrs. Edgar D. Crumacker, Mrs. Donald W. Metz, Mrs. Herbert L. Wilhelm, Mrs. Henry Mera, and Mrs. Kenneth Warner. It is earnestly requested that the members will not forget to bring the toys which have been promised for the children of Hammond institutions.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan H. Ault of 1244 Calumet avenue are announcing the birth of a daughter, Betty Jean, born on Friday, December the eighth. Mrs. Ault will be remembered as Miss Vera Shipley before her marriage. Both Mrs. Ault and the little girl are feeling splendidly.

Occasioned by the presence of Mrs. Frances Wagner of Chicago, formerly of Hammond, was a splendid dinner party with which Mrs. Julia Graham honored her last evening at her home. Dinner was served in the dining room made attractive by the use of carnations and red and blue ribbons draped nicely. In the evening the fifteen guests who had come to be with Mrs. Wagner enjoyed games and music.

Here is the musical program, given at the M. E. church on Sunday morning, December 10th, 1922, by the Associated Concert orchestra, under the direction of Dr. J. Arthur Davis.

1. "Away Down South" by Akst.
2. "It's a Wonderful World After All" by Alexander.

On Monday evening at eight o'clock, December the eleventh, the Business and Professional Women's club will have a treat in store for them when they will have their meeting at Brooks House. John M. Heistenes will meet the guests and see that the workings of the Brooks House be shown them. For anyone who is not familiar with the way to reach Brooks House it would be well to say that one takes a south bound car and gets off at Fields avenue.

On Thursday afternoon a number of the friends of Mrs. L. Schaller of Carroll street dropped in on her to pleasantly remind her of her birthday. The time was spent pleasantly with games and music and at the close of the afternoon a three course luncheon was served with a lovely birthday cake as an attractive feature. Mrs. Schaller was beautifully remembered with gifts from her Hammond friends and the following out of town guests: Mrs. Dewey Templeton, Mrs. Al Templeton, Mrs. Harrison Burns, Mrs. L. Shannon, Mrs. Peagles all of Whitefish.

LIVING ON THE FAT OF THE LAND.
Elizabeth Hellam Bohn

"Mrs. Jack Spratt cared little for fat. And Jack cared little for lean. 'Twas hard on their purse Matters daily grew worse Till they found oleomargarin."

Never has there been a time when people generally have shown greater interest in the right kind of food than the present. Food faddists spring into being daily. It is no longer unusual to see interesting posters in public places announcing such sentiments as the following: "Apple Week"—"Eat an Apple a Day"—"Cereals for Calories"—"Have you had your fuel today, remember that every two drops of fat make a calorie."

It is probably safe to say even with this growing interest in the food problem that the majority of consumers buy their food with reference to palate rather than with any definite idea as to its nutritive value. If we were more willing to accept the scientific findings of nutrition experts, we could save both our digestion and our dollars.

History shows that there have been fashions in the use of edible fats just as there have been changes in the mode of dress. In the old Roman days vegetable oils were prized for food and butter was used for cosmetics.

Until recently the people of this country obtained their fats, as fats, almost exclusively from cattle, hogs, and sheep in the form of butter, lard and tallow. Olive oil and coconut have been common foodstuffs for centuries in many countries of the old world. Cottonseed oil, peanut oil and corn oil have recently become common articles of food in this country, both as cooking fats and as salad oils.

One of the most remarkable results of scientific investigation has been the discovery of margarin—a combination of edible fats and pasteurized whole milk, skim milk or cream.

As soon as the public understands that margarin gets its flavor from churning fats and oils with ripened milk or cream, it will begin to appreciate the merits of this nutritious food.

Properly made margarin has a creamy texture and delicate flavor or as the product from the oil spring house and will defy the taste of the epicurian. Those of us who realize its food value and are familiar with the sanitary conditions and utter cleanliness which surrounds its production would not be without it. The chief difference in the composition of butter and margarin is that one contains milk fat and the other contains milk fat and animal or vegetable fats or combination of two or more of these fats.

And now for the explanation of Mr. and Mrs. Spratt's sudden rise to a more prosperous state. The price of butter remained high while margarin has remained cheap. By using the latter as an equivalent for butter they have been able to keep well and happy, as well as conserve their family income. Indeed, through the efforts of scientists in developing this valuable food it—margarin—the Spratt family has its full share of fat calories.

Quite recently a well known university, in its Food and Cookery department, conducted rather elaborate experiments on the uses of Fats and Oils. The laboratory tests showed that oleomargarin properly made could be used for the same purpose as butter, in all sorts of cookery, especially cakes, and that it was difficult to detect even in mildly seasoned sauces. One of the characteristics of a good cake is tenderness. Every housewife knows that the tenderness and fine texture of cake is the result of thoroughly mixing the ingredients, but how few of us realize that the finished product is also influenced quite as much by the shortening used in the recipe.

In making your Christmas cakes (butter, remember, is a pound of oleomargarin is equal to a pound of butter); it takes three level teaspoons to make a tablespoon and sixteen level tablespoons to equal one cup.

SATAN'S EMPIRE FALLING
"millions now living will never die."—Judge Rutherford

SATAN'S wicked influence has long been felt in every part of the world. Together with his associates, death he incites people to hatred, strife, murder, and induces war and anarchy, wrecking homes and driving millions to insanity and suicide. Satan caused the fall of man, and established his EMPIRE. His wicked influence has over-reached the denominational churches, causing many clergymen to forsake God and unite with profane and politicians to control mankind. But the end is here and his empire is FALLING; and Christ, the rightful king, though invisible, is beginning to reign. Hence the distress of nations, of which Jesus spoke. These troubles will soon reach a climax and disappear; followed quickly by peace and prosperity, as Jesus assumes control.
