INDIANA CONSERVATION HEAD SPEAKS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec.—Geo. N. Mannfield, superintendent of the fish and game division of the State conservation department, will read a paper before the national game conference of the American Game Protective Association at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York City December 13 entitled "The Sportsman Fwy the Bill."

As an official of the Indiana conservation department Mr. Mannfield by his untiring work in behalf of propagation of wild and aquatic life has brought to Indiana recognition as one of the leading states in the leading States in the nation for hunting, fish and recreation. Fish and game attract many thousands of visitors and they annually spend several millions of dollars in Indiana. Much of which goes into the various channels of retail trade, records, of the conservation department show.

At the national conference in New York last year more than 500 men interested in game and fish conservation, attended.
