

NATIONAL CLOAK AND SUIT MAKERS ARE OFFERING AUTHENTIC NEW STYLES FOR EARLY SPRING WEAR

At a recent convention held in Cleveland the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association met to hear the style recommendations made by their style committee and to see models of the new spring styles which have been stamped with approval by critics and designers. Some fifty models were exhibited and the indications are that the spring styles will be many and varied whatever else they may be. These three garments here all illustrate some features recommended by the association

By Frank Savage
STAFF CORRESPONDENT I. N. SERVICE
NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The hearts of New Yorkers are as tender as their feet think the "busharros," "conspicuous" and other exponents of Wild West art connected with East New York's rodeo, which closed recently at Madison Square Garden. Austin imported an aggregation of "bulldozers" and bronco riders, men and women, from the ranges of the Middle West and prepared to offer a "regular Wild West show."

But New Yorkers were moved to compassion for the steers, who seemed to be getting the worst of the deal. Representatives of the Police Department, Humane Society and S. P. C. A. swooped down on Mr. Austin with divers and sundry summonses. Finally Judge Max Levine was called upon to decide whether the steers were bawling "for sheer joy of living," as Austin characterized it, or from pain, as New Yorkers thought. He decided the steers were not suffering.

"Beach combers" are busy again at Coney Island and other stretches of sand, salvaging lost trinkets and jewelry left in the sand by careless bathers. Annually the beach combers pan for treasure along the most frequented beaches. They are said to retrieve several thousand dollars' worth of valuables each season.

Greenwich Village is going to move to Flatbush—so we are told to many would-be Bohemians, with more money than artistic talent, have eagerly leased all of the studio apartments and caused an increase in rentals that has driven the poor artists and literary folk out of their wonted haunts, the victims charge. So a popular member and leader in the colony has picked up bag and baggage and moved to the Brooklyn section, inviting others to follow. Can prosaic, residential Flatbush, so often the butt of Manhattan fun-poking of a distinctly rural trend, rise to the occasion?

Three New York boys whose age range between 11 and 13 years, visited the Bronx Zoo. They decided they would like to have a tiger. The keeper couldn't be persuaded to sell, but in response to their inquiries as to where one could be obtained, advised them to go to Jersey, where there were "plenty of blind tigers."

a deserted sawmill they found a watchman. He persuaded the boys to go to sleep, notified the police, and the young hunters of Jersey blind tigers were returned to their distracted parents' arms.

It may have been the "Cat's Pajamas" to its Greenwich Village patrons, but it was bad "baza knock" as viewed through the eyes of the police department. Passerby feared a frightful fire was raging at No. 118 East Eleventh Street recently, when the portals of Webster Hall opened to belch forth a surging multitude of men and women attired only in silk robes de nuit. They learned, however, that it was merely the breaking up of the police of the "Cat's Pajamas Party" given by Greenwich villagers. The police explained that it was "orders from headquarters."

Fake rabbis who withdraw wines from storage obviously for sacramental purposes but actually to circumvent the prohibition authorities are contributing much to intensifying the "humility" in New York, according to Prohibition Director Yellowley. The official has appealed to the patriotism and religion of the law-abiding Jewish element to intercept these law evaders.

(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 11.—This is a tale of winter and summer love, in which summer almost made a bum out of winter. It charges put force in the suit of John Hurley, 58, for annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Gertrude W. Hurley, 26, and recovery of property valued at $50,000 are substantiated.

She demanded a fine home in the city's most exclusive residential district, Hurley declared, and it became necessary for him to sell his prosperous undertaking business to complete it, at a

A rich manufacturer, well known in business circles throughout the United States, speaking before a business men's dinner in New York a few days ago said:

The Life Insurance Feature OF The Hobart M. Cable Co-operative Piano Club

And What it Means to Club Members!

There is a life insurance feature connected with our Co-operative Piano Club. This feature provides against the possibility of the Piano being lost to the family in the event the head of it should die before the Piano is fully paid for. This unexcelled feature is imbedded in the contract and reads like this:

"If the signer of this contract should die during the life thereof, and all payments shall have been made when due, the remaining installments will be cancelled forthwith and a 'receipt in full' for the Piano turned over to the family of the deceased."

This is a simple statement without any "frills"—that covers the whole story. We want this Club to be Co-operative and helpful to each Member in it. We want the saving to each and every Member to be the greatest possible. We want every protection we can think of to go to its Members. In short we want this big Club to be a lasting advertisement and this life insurance idea is its crowning feature.

If the head of the family dies—if the bread-winner dies—if the source of income is stopped by death—the Piano is not lost to the family. The family does not have to work and worry to meet the remaining payments. They are immediately canceled—and a clear "receipt in full" is given to the family of the deceased. Isn't this a comforting and reassuring idea?

Player Pianos, Electric Reproducing Pianos and Baby Grands

Thirty Days Free Trial. With Your Money Back if Not Satisfied

This is the "spirit" as well as the "letter" of this Hobart M. Cable Co-operative Club. If the Piano is not just exactly as represented, we do not want you to have it. This is not an ambiguous assertion. We mean it—we MEAN to give you your money back. Just telephone us and we will simply send and get it and that will be the end of the affair.
