SCATENAS AND FRIARS PLAY TIE

Whiting Team's Playing is A Revelation of Thousands of Fans

(BY IRVING CHAYKEN)
The Whiting Friars who have been cleaning up on everything in Lake county met their match at Forsyth field yesterday afternoon, when the craggy Hammond Scatenas played them to a scoreless tie, before a crowd of 8,000.

Footballers of the gridiron game saw a wonderful contest and incidentally witnessed an exhibition of drop kicking that ended in a failure for both elevens.

The Whiting kickers who have shown much class all season in putting them over between the bars were off on his boots. This was probably due to the slippery field, but Galavin, Ashford and Schillo did some fine putting during the game and the field cannot be blamed.

Kickers who play on the so-called professional teams are supposed to possess redoubtable class and some times they do, but even pro players sometimes go wrong and this is exactly what happened when Hammond and Whiting had their chances to win. Twice, with the ball in the shadow of the Scatenas goal posts, Whiting attempted to win by kicks, but in each instance the oval sailed to the wrong distance. Hammond had a lone chance in the last quarter, but an attempted kick was easily blocked.

The Friars showed plenty of class all during the heated argument. Whiting somewhat outplayed Hammond by a small margin, but the fact that they were unable to score easily indicates the class of the local team. Time and again Galavin, the shifty fullback of the Friars, would gain on end runs, line plunges and off tackle plays. The Whiting player was the individual star of the game, and without him the Friars would have lost.

The Whiting players were a revelation to the many onlookers. The Old City crew looked to be the best coached team in the county and Mister Milligan has certainly earned a name for himself in county sporting circles.

There was little gaining through the Friar line, as that showed up like a mountain of strength on the defense. Schillo, who played a dandy game for Hammond, brought the large crowd to their feet once when he ran around right end for twenty yards with the entire Whiting team trying to stop him.

Whiting opened up several times with forward passing which netted them much yardage. Had the Friars continued the over-head game the score might have been different. The Friars because of Coe's mighty efforts thought it well to attack the Hammond line at central points, and when the Whiting aggression were in a position to no further the Hammond line held as they did against Steger and Hiegevlach.

Hammond was crippled at the start by the absence of Tim Nelson, the regular center; Smith, the regular tackle, and Cearing, Hammond's best open field runner and tripple threat man, but in spite of this the Scatenas put up a dandy front. The last minute addition of Seliger and Oitz to the line was a complete success as the Hammond Alderman and the former purple and white put up a strong battle.

Galavin, Ashford, Rust and Wick-horst starred for the Whiting team. Daniels, as usual, was a marked man as was Schillo, but the pair was able to feel Whiting time and again. There was no individual stars on the Scatenas team, every man was in there to win, and it was a corking battle.

The officiating at the game was the best of the season, and amply showed that local officials can take care of a game far better than the ones that are imported every year from Chicago.

The Scatenas will probably play in the Windy City against Oak Park before a winner for the Cermak cup is decided.

CLABBY AND ROCCO TO FIGHT DEC. 18

Ring Scholar is Matched Against Ambitious Youth.

Scholarship will be matched against raw youth in the ring at the Indiana Harbor Auditorium, Dec. 18 when Jimmy Clabby, the general meets Easy Rocco, an ambitious kid of East Chicago.

Rocco will attempt with enthusiasm, youthful vigor and nerve to overwhelm the veteran.

Pools rush in where angels fear to tread and our prediction is that Patsy is going to learn a lot of things about boxing. It will be the finest lesson he ever had and will reduce his conceit considerably. The N. O. won't hurt him, either, because he is just starting in the game, and a trimming is what he needs.

Make it a good one, Jimmy, for the lad's sake.

Clabby has returned from Denver with his wife and is training for his fight with Rocco. Indications are that there will be a capacity house at the Clabby-Rocco fight because both fighters are local men.

CALUMETS CLAMORING FOR GAMES

(G. A. C.)
Three cheers for the white and green, the last year's champs of the lightweight basketball teams, of Lake County.

The strong Calumets are getting into shape for the coming basketball season; they will come out as strong as they always have in the past years.

They will use their old line-up, it is expected, with a few new ones which will make the team much stronger than ever before.

The Calumets defeated every team there was in Lake County, and they are expecting to do the same thing this year, "which they will." They will do much traveling this year, and they will play some of the hardest teams in Lake County.

The big center, Spudic, who is now captain of this year's team, is now in training and will be better than ever before; also the big, long, slim kid who will play at guard.

They also put his nose down to hard training, the two forwards who will take their place will be Bendish and Gaskick, who are the best forwards in Lake County. The four guard will be Bagens who plays a wonderful game last year, will take his place. The Calumets have three other men whose names will not be mentioned, as they will be the three men this year.

The Calumets would like to hear from any lightweight team in Lake County, from 135 to 145 pounds.

The team this year is under the leadership of their coach, Bahli, that famous center of the East Chicago Gopher football team. For games, call 72 and ask for Wells. Come on you 135-pound teams!

NEW MAJOR LEAGUE IS PROBABLE

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(STAFF CORRESPONDENT I. S. SERVICE)
NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—Anticipation of the future by a matter of ten years perhaps less, base ball men declare the day is not too distant when the Pacific coast will cut loose from the present obligations and operate independently on the basis, if not the status, of a third major league. This is ordained, inevitable, they say.

The coast league occupies a unique position in organized baseball, rich in playing strength and playing ability, which has never been in other minor league parks, it was straggling along with the rest of the field or go it alone, any time the spirit so moves it. Just at the moment it seems satisfied in sipping along under the chaperonage of the major league, its compliance is due by the fact that they have come to the point where paying $75,000 for coast league players is, seemingly, quite the accepted procedure.

If the majors do not care to pay the tariff, it simply holds the player for another season and is just as well satisfied. This attitude was never better emphasized than at the recent meeting of the national association of professional baseball leagues when Connie Mack, the Philadelphia spendthrift, was shaken down for a matter of $20,000 in the purchase of Sam Hale from Portland. That is not being done by Connie Mack seven days in the week. He thinks less of his lengthy windpipe than he does of $20,000. However, three other clubs were in the field for Hale and it was necessary to outbid them or lose the player. In either case, the coast league was only mildly interested. It doesn't have to sell ball players to make money.

In many other ways during the meeting, this league was the dominating factor. Some few of the smaller leagues showed a tendency to waver every time the subject of the draft was brought up but not the coast league. The draft, so far as it is concerned, is a very thicket bush, and of right should be. If the draft was in operation, some fortunate major league club would have fallen heir to Willie Kamm, the $100,000 baby for something less than $5,000 and the same thing would apply to the cases of Jimmy O'Connell, Hale and other expensive individuals.

The league is further fortified by the fact that its president, William H. McCarthy, is one of the biggest men in baseball. His power is supreme through the Minor League field and even the majors lend an attentive ear when he voices a desire.

They know that they cannot get along without McCarthy and his

FRESHMEN INTERESTED IN THIS NEWS

Indiana football may be introduced to freshman intercollegiate competition next year as well as varsity games. According to the vote of the Western Conference, freshmen are not allowed to represent their school in any intercollegiate competition. This rule has been adopted by the Indiana-conference meeting at Indianapolis today that the rule may be modified to prevent freshman intercollegiate competition between freshmen teams and at the same time prohibit the playing of freshmen on varsity teams.

If this modification is made, Indiana and Purdue, both members of the Indiana Conference, and only those members of the Western Conference, will be prohibited from playing freshman intercollegiate football by the Western Conference rule. Nevertheless, Indiana and Purdue, it is understood, will not stand against this proposed modification.

Notre Dame has had a freshman team in intercollegiate competition for several years. Butler, Wabash and DePauw are planning freshman intercollegiate schedules. It is understood that Iowa, Princeton and other eastern universities and colleges have both freshman and varsity intercollegiate schedules in several sports.

IMPORTANT BASKETBALL MEETING

493 Broadway
December 7, 1933.
Sporting Editor Times.
Dear Sir: There has been considerable confusion among the players and spectators regarding the new rules for basketball, and I thought it would be a good plan for all officials, directors, managers and coaches of this district to have a meeting whereby these rules and change of rules could be fully discussed and a better understanding and interpretation of the rules could be had.

With the kind permission of Mr. George Pinnas, director of the Y. M. C. A., I have thereafter taken the liberty of calling such a meeting for Wednesday evening, December 13, at 8:30 at the Gary Y. M. C. and I cordially extend you an invitation to attend, and trust you will not only come but invite others interested as well.

It may also help to secure a list of competent officials for the season as a result of this meeting.

The following will be the schedule for the evening:
8:30—Cafeteria luncheon, Dutch Treat.
9:00—Discussion of new rules, led by George Yeunker, Coach Emerson High School, assisted by Coach Hart, Whiting, and Coach Orsborn, Prosel.
10:00—Discussion of officiating and general conduct of game, led by Ralph Braessmle, director Emerson School, assisted by Coach Crown, director Jefferson School.
11:00—Game in gymnasium open to public where all words and technical playing mistakes will be fully explained as they happen.

Please send a card to 493 Broadway if coming.
Sincerely,
J. K. GILROY,
Director Physical Training,
Gary Public Schools.

GEORGIA BOOKS YALE AND CENTRE

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—The United States of Georgia eleven will play Yale at New Haven, Oct. 12, next year. It was announced here last night. Georgia also will meet the Centre college next year, the game to be played at Athens, Oct. 13. Other games including Tennessee at Knoxville, Oct. 19; Auburn at Columbus, Ga., Nov. 8; Virginia at Athens, Nov. 10; Vanderbilt at Nashville, Nov. 17; and Alabama at Montgomery, Nov. 21.

Too Many Women Spoil Tourney, U. S. G. A. Finds

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(Special.)—The problem of reducing the field of contestants in future championship golf tournaments has arisen in women's golf just as it has in men's. Announcement is now made by Cornelius Lee, secretary of the United States Golf association, that in addition to the present qualifications, entries for next year's tourney will be restricted to women players having a handicap of 1 to 14.

O'DOWD DRUGGED IN LEE BATTLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The state athletic commission today suspended Harry Segal, manager of Danny Lee of New York, and Mickey Curran, manager of Phil O'Dowd of Columbus, O., for alleged irregular practices in the recent bout here between the two boxers-rights. The commission stated in its findings on the bout in which O'Dowd was knocked out in the fifth round that although no positive evidence had been brought to light, they were convinced that the Columbus boxer had been drugged.

ANNUAL BASEBALL GAB STARTS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE)
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Even while the worthy inhabitants of Louisville, Ky., continue to go about their accustomed tasks with a strange sighing in their non-acustomed ears, the annual long distance conversational test has been transferred to New York for its final four days. The contest is open to all and no recognized mode of expression is barred. It is simply a case of talk first and explain afterward.

The resumption of the contest is scheduled for today at the hotel Commodore, with the annual meeting of the International League. The members, however, are minor league talkers and cannot hope to compete with those who will take part in the national league activities at the Waldorf tomorrow and in turn both must capitulate to the wider experience and established finesse of the American league managers who are due to convene on Wednesday at the Commodore.

The rumor that Eddie Collins is coming to the polo grounds to spend his declining years in the cheerful company of Miller Huggins will be expunged and perhaps officially re-buried. The Yanks, of course, want Collins. It is also possible that the White Sox feel the same way about. At any rate, Gleason will want more than Aaron Ward and a few bushers for Eddie. Meanwhile, a Chicago story has it that the Cardinals are planning to sign Sam Rice and Roger Peckinpaugh in the same deal, but neglects to state just what the inducements might be. The Yanks and Verdon probably will settle their little difficulties over the transfer of Jake May, and it is further claimed that Bob Meusel, the lion lily, will go elsewhere.

The Cardinals are in the market for Joe Boley, Baltimore shortstop, and an outfielder; the Dodgers are seeking anything with Zack Wheat as bait, the Phils and Cubs are prepared to do business with Lee Meadows, and the Reds and pirates are said to be on the verge of a deal, the axis of which is Sam Bohne, infielder. It is also possible that Cadore and others will be sent away from the benign chaperonage of C. Heats in lieu of Joe Geschler.

The subject of the draft may come up at major league meetings, but all sensible men will shoot it down. Johnson, it is understood, wishes to break the major-minor agreement and at the same time expects his players to honor their contracts. Interestingly fellow, Mr. Johnson. This matter will be discussed, if at all, at the joint meeting of the leagues at the Commodore on Thursday. Another proposition would make all contracts operative for a full twelve months so that magnates might control the barnstorming complex. The barnstorming business is head for the rocks.

The old bugaboo of gambling in the ball parks, is also due. While they are about it they will talk earnestly of baseball pools, and proceed to forget them.

TENNIS GOSSIP

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—According to local tennis authorities, it is possible that Great Britain will forswear its monopoly to the world's singles championship, awarded to Wimbledon by the International Tennis Federation, when the British body meets this week.

DEMPSEY WILLARD CHATTER AGAIN

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—According to reports current here today, Tom O'Rourke, matchmaker for the Republic A. C. operating at the Polo Grounds, plans to bring Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard together in a fifteen round bout some time in May.
