OFFICIAL FOOD NEWS
By Dr. Harry E. Barnard, Federal Food Administrator for Indiana

There is still enough sugar in Indiana to meet the canning requirements and housewives are to be encouraged to can all they can without sugar, but to can even if sugar is needed. The sugar distributor estimates that there is a very considerable supply of "invisible sugar" which has been secreted irregularly by Indiana housewives.

The food administration's policy to support an increased price for sugar beets applies only to 1919 and 1920 crops. The 1918 crop price was fixed by agreement last spring. An effort is being made to induce an unusually large acreage of beets for next year's sugar requirements.

Mrs. Frances Fender, a wealthy woman residing in Centerville, was found to have hoarded seventy pounds of sugar in her home. Harry W. Gilbert, federal food administrator for Wayne county, accepted a penalty of $250 from her and confiscated the sugar, which has been turned into trade channels. The money went to the Red Cross.
