STATE CANDIDATE AWED BY GARY

Gary politicians were all on the alert last evening when Richard Schaaf of Hammond, chairman of the Republican county central committee appeared arm in arm with Edward V. Fitzpatrick, clerk of the state supreme court.

In company with Ralph Ross of Hammond they attended the Eagle's carnival where the two politicians were obliged to hold an informal levee. Mr. Fitzpatrick is a candidate for re-election and he lost no time making votes and Chairman Schaaf was not slow in introducing the Garyites to the supreme court logical.

"I am not in Gary for any political purpose," declared Mr. Schaaf in answer to a question to that effect. "As for me," said the Hon. Fitzpatrick, "I came up here thinking I would find a village lighted by a torch."

Instead I find the most brilliant illuminated city in the state. I had intended to go back home tonight but Gary is so great and big and pretty that I am going to stay around here a few days. I am simply awed with its magnitude and when I go back home to Portland they will think I am telling fairy stories if I tell them even half of what I saw here."

Today Fitzpatrick will visit a number of the local politicians and will try to go through the steel plant if he has the time.
