LOWELL.

Neal Brown, the champion in the recent crusade that knocked the saloons out of Cedar Creek township and who is a marsh farmer near Shelby, is making some substantial improvements on his big ranch, which is between 5,000 and 7,000 acres. Claude Rumsey, the builder, and a force of men, have been steadily at work on Brown's place all summer. They have erected a big barn, 40x80 feet, 50 feet high, which is said to be one of the biggest barns in Lake county. The basement and ground floor are solid concrete, including stalls, managers, floors and ceiling. It will hold 250 tons of hay, 10 head of horses and 1,500 head of sheep. A sheep shed, 60x150 feet, a model concrete garage, 18x24, and several big concrete water tanks are also being built. These improvements will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000. Mr. Brown is a young man, who farms on scientific principles. A very short time ago a good portion of this land was under water a good part of the time, but a big ten-mile dyke, big ditches and a vast quantity of tiles has converted these wet unproductive wastes into rich farm lands. It has taken a fortune to throw up the dyke, dig ditches and drain the land, but today the results are shown. Twelve hundred acres are in corn, that will run 60 bushels per acre. Fourteen hundred bushels of wheat were harvested, besides a large quantity of oats, barley and hay. Twelve men are employed regularly on this ranch, besides the regular tenants, who are provided with convenient houses. Stock raising is Mr. Brown's specialty, and at present there are over 2,000 sheep on the place, which number will be increased to 5,000. Later a large number of cattle will be bought and fattened for the market. Mr. Brown has 2,000 pounds of wool, which he has held for two years waiting for an advance in price. This big ranch is a most interesting place, and Mr. Brown, surrounded by his wife and three children, in a handsome home, with their automobile and all comforts, is happy and contented.

Hard to attend to household duties With a constantly aching back. A woman should not have a bad back.

And she wouldn't if the kidneys were well.

Doan's Kidney Pills make well kidneys.

Here is a Hammond woman who endorses this claim:

Mrs. Maggie Heckelman, 414 Truman avenue, Hammond, Ind., says: "For years I suffered from kidney disease and weakness across my loins. At times I had severe attacks of back-ache and there was a dull, dragging down pain through my kidneys. My back was weak and in the morning when I got up, I felt so tired and languid that I could hardly begin my household work. Whenever I caught cold, it settled on my kidneys and made my condition worse. One day a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I accordingly got a box at Sumner's Pharmacy. I found prompt relief and I continued to improve until, I am now enjoying good health." (Statement given March 4, 1911.)

A SECOND STATEMENT.

On Feb. 19, 1910, when Mrs. Heckelman was interviewed, she said: "I still think highly of Doan's Kidney Pills. I am pleased to confirm all I have ever said about this remedy."
