STUDENTS IN TWO MUSIC PROGRAMS

Last Festivities of Year Are Presented at High School—Show Work Done.

The last song festivals of the school year were given Friday afternoon and evening by the members of the various musical organizations of the grade, junior and senior high schools.

The audience at the evening performance more than surpassed expectations while at the afternoon session the attendance was very good.

The night program was varied somewhat from the printed slips. An added attraction was a solo by Miss Esther Taylor, a graduate of South Bend high school and who at present is here on a short furlough from Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., where she is a nurse.

Show Accomplishments. Miss Effie E. Harman, supervisor of music of the local schools was gratified with both the afternoon and night programs. It is the intention of the music department at the end of each year to offer to the patrons of the schools an informal program, showing them what has been accomplished and also the material that the various music teachers worked with.

The afternoon program was featured with several selections by the junior high school orchestra under the direction of Miss Clara Hanke. It is the plan of the music department to add each year more orchestras until all of the grade schools have one.

NAVY BILL NOT ADEQUATE, VIEW

Admiral in South Bend Says 250,000 Men Are Not Enough For Ships.

"The present bill before congress stating that there shall be but 250,000 men in the navy after a peace basis has been established is surely inadequate," said Rear Admiral C. McR. Winslow, formerly of Boston, Mass., in an interview at the Oliver hotel Friday. "This number of men provided for by the bill, will surely not be able to man all the ships of the navy and a large number of ships will be idle, when they are really needed to satisfactorily carry on the regular work of the navy. I am of the impression that the bill will be amended to allow a larger personnel or it will not pass," said the navy official. On way to Culver. The admiral and his three daughters are on their way to Culver Military academy where they will attend the graduating exercises of C. McR. Winslow, Jr., next week. Following the graduation exercises the admiral will return to his duties on the coast. During recent months the admiral has been on inspection duty in the Atlantic coast district where the demobilization of the navy has been in progress.

Safety Board Has 'Nothing to Say' About Anything. The public be-damned policy of the South Bend board of public safety was again carried out at the meeting Friday night according to official reports given out by Harry Josephson, clerk of the board. The board went into executive session at 8 o'clock and Capt. James Shock was made outside doorkeeper. The purpose of the doorkeeper is to see that no newspapermen sit within hearing distance of the board of safety office. Here is the official report of the board meeting as given out by Mr. Josephson in answer to the following questions: "What did you do about the vice situation in South Bend?" "I have nothing to give out." "Did the operators of the roulette tables in the down town district pay their weekly taxes?" "I have nothing to give out." "Did the board decide to allow the police to conduct any more spasmoid raids on liquor dealers?" "I have nothing to give out." "Well, what else did you do?" "My instructions are to say, 'I have nothing to give out,' routine business occupied our time, and why don't you ask me where we got those roses over there?" Following the meeting of the board Nels Kiser, Frank Boone, presiding officer in the absence of Dr. Smith, and Chief Kline left the police station in the big Cadillac touring car. Mr. Josephson refused to state whether the members of the board were taking a joy ride or were on official business. At a late hour the Cadillac and driver were still at the services of the board.

News of the THEATERS

Stage and Screen. "DADDY LONG LEGS." "Daddy Long Legs," the delightful photoplay which has been running at the Oliver all this week, will close with tonight's performance. Mary Pickford has gained many friends by her clever work in this picture, which is by far the best production she has ever appeared in.

AT THE AUDITORIUM. "Regeneration," a sensational six-reel William Fox drama; the Pathe News; "Cupid's Day off," a two-reel Mack Sennett-Paramount comedy; and "The Village Smithy," a scenic, two-reel Mack Sennett comedy, are the pictures on at the Auditorium today. Tomorrow's bill includes "Birds of Prey," a sensational drama; Mutt and Jeff, those amusing cartoon characters; the Pathe News; "Cupid's Day off," a two-reel Mack Sennett-Paramount comedy; and "The Red Glove," the thrilling serial story featuring Marie Walcamp. The clever actress, Fannie Ward, comes Monday in her latest production, entitled "The Cry of the Weak."

"THE STILL ALARM." "The Still Alarm," the dramatic spectacle taken from the melodrama of the same name and which comes to the Oliver theater Sunday, was one of the strongest successes back in the eighties. Based on this immortal stage play, the screen version is said to set forth in a telling manner all the beautiful, romantic, thrilling situations and soul-stirring fire scenes in a manner far more graphic than the limitations of the stage could possibly permit. It is said that nothing more astonishing, more real, has ever been achieved in the making of a photoplay than has resulted in the filming of "The Still Alarm." Prominent in the cast are Thomas Santschi, Bessie Eytan and Fritz Brunette. The Dixie Jazz band and orchestra will add novelty to the engagement. Continuous performances will be given starting at 1 o'clock.

AT THE ORPHEUM. Eva Fay, the mysterious and amazing entertainer, is featured on the vaudeville bill which is giving final performances at the Orpheum today. Other entertainers on the bill are Ben Deeley and company in a comedy sketch "The New Bell Boy"; McLain Gates and company who present the laughable farce "Me and Mary"; Elsie Schuyler, a petite singing comedienne and Bert Wheeler and company of pantomime artists. Beginning tomorrow headline honors on the new vaudeville bill are divided between the Five American Girls, in a classy singing number, and Walter Fishler and company who present the comedy oddity "Baby Bugs." Alf Ripon, a ventriloquist; Paul Kleist and company in a fantastic novelty and Fox and Ingraham comedians round out the five act bill.

AT THE LASALLE. "Hearts Asleep" is the title of a crook romance at the LaSalle today. Lovely Bessie Barriscale, whose appearance in any picture always evokes a great deal of interest, is featured as a little waif who is reared by a band of criminals and then suddenly transplanted in a totally different environment. What happens under these unusual circumstances forms the basis of a most entertaining screen drama. The story proves once more that "fine feathers do not always make fine birds." Tomorrow "Daddy Long Legs," Mary Pickford's latest picture which has been pleasing large crowds at the Oliver all week, will move over to the LaSalle for the one day only.

AT THE CASTLE. "The Fire Flingers" is the unusual title of today's Castle picture which features that splendid actor, Rupert Julian. The story gives him a dual role to portray, that of two Pretty and petite Shirley Mason is tomorrow's star in an up-to-date romantic tale entitled "The Final Close-up" which deals half-seriously, half-humorously with the adventures of a little over-worked department store clerk, who takes a seaside vacation at the expense of an unknown rich admirer. Used to Serve 'em Over Bar, Now He Cultivates Farm. Stanley Baggs of 1217 Portage av. was formerly a saloonkeeper. Now he is a gardener and horticulturist. When visited by two friends Friday morning, he was sitting in a pair of khaki trousers, white shirt, and a hat resembling the ones worn by Englishmen in the wilds of Africa. He was pushing a one man plow about his farm, which covers almost an acre of ground, and perspiring profusely. After he had shown his visitors how his corn was sprouting up, how he had planted his potatoes, and why he expected his June peas in July, he looked around in a mysterious manner, and beckoned for them to follow him. "I'll show you my flower garden," he said, "got a new species growing back there." Pointing to a flock of full bloomed poppies, he whispered, "Those are my bolshevik buds, some signals, eh?" As his visitors started to leave, he called them back, saying, "Don't go away yet, I got something else to show you." So Mr. Baggs took a small piece of string and tied it to a hedge which runs around his garden, then stepped back to the house to await results. Soon a robin flew down, picked up the loose end of the string, and started to fly away. "Pass," said the visitors as they hurried off.
