HERMAN GAME; RECORD GOOD

Has Been Defeated But Comes Back Later on With the Goods.

HAS FOUGHT GOOD MEN

Students of Fight Dope Believe Past Work of Ghetto Champion In His Favor.

Monopah, Nev., Dec. 24.—Students of fight dops have taken some notice of past performances of Kid Herman and betting men in Monopah look upon the Chicago fighter as more than a possibility in his coming match with Gans.

During his ring career Herman has shown his class on several occasions by coming right back and defeating men that have defeated him. In his first fight with Clarence Forbes, who at that time was considered the best in the business, the ghetto champion lost in six rounds by the decision route.

Meeting several lesser lights in the ring Herman easily carried off the honors. He next tackled "Kid" Abel. This fight was most vicious from the start to the finish, Herman having both his jaws broken in the first round. Notwithstanding this fact he managed to stand off his opponent for six rounds and secured a draw.

Herman Shows His Gameness. That Herman's grit and determination cannot be doubted is shown from the fact that, after receiving these terrible blows from Abel he fought on, protecting his head and jaws especially, and then earning a draw decision.

After this he met and defeated many of the best boys in the feather weight division. Charlie Neary came along about this time and put a crimp in Herman's aspirations for the championship, knocking him out in April and securing a decision over the Kid a few months later. Nothing daunting, Herman pegged along, knocked out Clarence Forbes and checked the career of several promising youths. He tackled Charlie Neary for the third time and gave him a beating that will ever be remembered by the Milwaukee man, securing the decision in the tenth round.

His next fight of importance was with Tommy Mowatt, the fighting conductor of Chicago, whom he easily defeated in six rounds.

Gets Even With Benny Yanger. Then came his contest with Benny Yanger, which he lost after one of the most bloody one-sided contests seen in the arena. Herman was his master and to prove it issued a challenge to the Tipton Slasher and easily disposed of him.

During Herman's trips to California he met three men who were topnotchers in their class. In two of these, one with Herrera, who gave Battling Nelson the hardest fight of his life, the referee gave a draw decision which was claimed unjust by practically every man in the pavilion at Los Angeles. In the other one with Abe Attell the public also thought Herman should have had the decision. His disposal of Eddie Hanlon is still fresh in the memory of the fight fans.

A big factor in Herman's favor is the fact that he has not been defeated in nearly four years and has been consistently climbing upward during that period.

CHICAGO SATISFIED WITH RULES; WANTS NO CHANGE. Stagg Says the Maroon Team Will Be the Best in the West Next Season—Everything Favors Midway Team.

Undergraduates of the University of Chicago see a big boon to maroon fortunes by the decision of the football rules committee to make no changes in the football code for next season. They believe Captain De Tray and his men will forge to the front, head and shoulders, with another year of the forward pass and more open game.

"Mr. Stagg got more out of the new game last fall than any coach in the west, and I think he will more than surprise the football world next year," said Walter Eckersall. "Everything favors Chicago, and with the material on hand for the 1907 team I look for a team that will have no equal in the west."

"I feel quite pleased with the decision of the rules committee not to make any changes in the code. There is only one criticism which I could make, and that is in regard to the forward pass. I think the substitution of a penalty of fifteen yards for loss of the ball when a forward pass strikes the ground would lessen the risk and make the play more popular."

"Chicago should feel decidedly well pleased with the result of the rules committee meeting," said Captain De Tray. "Things favor us very much, and I think we will be able to make a giant stride in another season. Mr. Stagg has many new players to present next year, and I think the game will be better than ever before."

Humor and Philosophy

FERT PARAGRAPHS. A woman is young as long as she weeps.

Reprocessed affection, like reprocessed food, is liable to ferment and explode.

A consistent man is very often a plausible fool.

Anybody will admit getting the worst of it if by doing so he thinks he can get the best of it.

It is safe enough to insult a prize fighter. Professional etiquette would prevent him from fighting without first arranging for the gate receipts.

Gratitude has no more to do with reason than sentiment has with goodness.

We place the greatest value on the thing that some other fellow has, but never will tell him so.

Imagination is the seat of both pleasure and pain, but it won't stop a hole in the wall nor draw in a load of coal.

It doesn't follow that because a man continually makes thoughtful remarks that he is remarkably thoughtful.

The only time that a thing that you thoroughly understand is interesting is when you have a chance to display your attainments regarding it to an admiring audience.

Youngsters Are Fool. Oh, sweet and gentle schoolmarm, you have a winning way. To which the bashful grownup boys must fall an easy prey.

The man of four and twenty who looks into your eyes thinks you're an angel walking round in your thin disguise.

But, oh, the little youngster, The rough and tumble lad, He thinks you are the limit Or something quite as bad.

And there may be some reasons For those diverging views—Why one should view you coldly, The other should enthuse. One sees your disposition, When it is light and gay, The other bumps against it In quite a different way.

But, oh, the little fellow Who to your charms is blind, And only sees your fallings, Will some day change his mind.

But if he will not love you This season do not fret, Because his older brother Is safe within your net.

Flying Is Near. Santos-Dumont is the latest of the inventors who are around asking the world to stand still for a moment while they measure it for wings. In six months he promises us that we will be tossing our automobiles on the scrap pile and investing our savings in light, serviceable wings warranted to fly or the money refunded.

Several experts in times past have looked at man and pronounced him a bird, but heretofore when he has attempted to fly the corner has been obliged to issue a report on the matter in a few well chosen words. Of course it may be optimistic to say that in six brief months the impatient lover will only have to bring around a new pair of wings when he asks the girl to fly with him, but nevertheless we are bound to come to it some day. Is mighty man going to forever sit around and admit that he is less than the mosquito? Not much!

The Mighty Instrument. You do not need a hatchet when For good men you stand pat. Just split the ticket with a pen And let it go at that.

How Did She Know? "Mr. Wilkins, who called tonight, has rather common tastes," said the pretty girl. "Why did you say so?" asked her homely sister. "He has been eating onions," returned the p. g. "I did not notice it," answered her b. s.

Pardoxical. "What are the roses for?" "To square myself." "For what?" "Cause I wasn't round last night."

He Was a Dead One. "What is a dead letter anyway, Miss Edith?" "The letter I when it means you, Mr. Mindles."
