A PRETTY DISPLAY OF KERN ENTHUSIASM.

"I am a republican myself, but John in my estimation, is one of the finest men that this country has today. He is my brother-in-law by a former marriage, my sister having been his first wife. He has a lovely family. Too bad I missed seeing him when he returned from Denver. This is the first time I have seen him in two years. I sent him a letter of congratulations, and my son, who is in Springfield, Mass., wrote to me saying that he would do all he can to get the votes for John.

THE LOVE OF CHILDREN AND A JUDGE OF LAW.

A DISTINGUISHED MASSACHUSETTS JURIST in granting a divorce to a husband, gave the two small children to the erring wife. The unusual decision was explained in these words: "A mother's love survives the deepest degradation of which the female nature is capable and it is capable of a lower state than man's nature. When a woman comes into my court claiming the custody of her child I always grant it. She may be a bad woman and yet a good mother at least, the best of not the only mother the child can have. In the way I have at times saved both mother and child. For the sake of the child the mother will at least strive to be virtuous. It is not a rare event for both father and son to be engaged knowingly to each other in crime; it is never the case with mother and child."

Norman Edward Mack, the well-known newspaper publisher of Buffalo, who served as chairman of the important committee on rules at the recent democratic convention in Denver, was born July 24, 1855, in West Williams, Ontario. His education was received in the schools near his home. When a young man he went to Buffalo to make his home and in 1879 he started the RAILROAD MEN IN POLITICS.

Omaha, Neb., July 24.—Leaders of both political parties are manifesting a lively interest in the meeting called for this city tomorrow of the Nebraska State Railway Employees' Protective Association. The association has been in existence six months and is said to have a membership of 15,000. It now proposes to enter politics as an organization and it is understood that the meeting called for tomorrow is to discuss what course the organization shall pursue in regard to the presidential contest. Whether the support of that association will be thrown to Judge Taft or to Mr. Bryan is a question to which the leaders so far have declined to return a definite answer.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE. Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

DON'TS—FOUR OF THEM.

Don't get out of your bed in the morning and go immediately to the window and "breathe deeply twenty times" or ten times. Don't stand at all in front of the window just then. Why? Because while you have been sleeping your blood has withdrawn itself from the skin surfaces and your nerve forces have concentrated themselves at inside centers. If you expose yourself under these conditions, unless you are very strong and robust, you are likely to catch your "death of cold."

Don't take a cold bath the first thing in the morning after you arise. Why? For like reasons—your blood is not in the surface. It has not been needed there. The bedclothes have kept the skin warm. And a cold plunge at this time, unless you are quite strong, will do you more harm than good. If you take a cold bath immediately after brisk physical exercise, which brings the blood to the outside, or if you take a cold bath following a hot bath, which produces the same effect, you may get some benefit.

Don't "drink a glass of cold water as soon as you get out of bed." If you drink anything before breakfast, take a little sip or two of hot water. Why? Because the stomach is not ready to do business before breakfast. The blood is withdrawn. If you douche it with cold water at such a time, you chill that organ and derange its functions; also, if you pour a lot of hot water into it, you wash out the gastric juices and impede digestion.

Don't take violent exercise before breakfast nor immediately following. Why? Because your vital forces before breakfast are low and need recuperating from within. After breakfast the processes of digestion should not be interfered with until the stomach gets a chance to begin operations. But you say— These don't contravene popular beliefs in some respects and the advice of "health magazines" in others. That may be true, but popular opinions may be wrong, and health magazines are not infallible.

We have gathered these truths from a hygienist who has given these matters a lifetime study. In his field he is a good authority. Besides— The reasons for these views are given, and they correspond with reason and common sense.

ASSAULTED BY NEGRO.

While on her way home from the Woodruff Central Union Telephone exchange, Indianapolis, about 10:30 o'clock last night, Miss Maude Lee, an operator, of 2342 Cornell avenue, was the victim of a bold colored highwayman, who dragged her a distance of fifty feet into an alley, snatched her purse and ran. Miss Lee lies in a serious condition from the shock at her home.

POODLE SAVES $100.

Harry Beal of Marion is giving his poodle dog full credit for saving him a loss of $100. A burglar, who evidently knew that Beal had the large sum of money in his house, attempted to gain an entrance, when the little dog made a big noise. Beal was awakened in time to hear the retreating steps of the frightened intruder.

DOG'S BRAIN SHOWS BABIES.

Following a microscopic examination of the brain from the head of a dog sent to the bacteriological department of the state laboratory of hygiene at Indianapolis, yesterday, a telegram was sent to Dr. Herman Freck of Evansville warning him that the animal suffered from rabies. As a consequence seven persons who were bitten by the animal are being hurried to Pasteur institutes for treatment.

MAD BEE'S STING SERIOUS.

While J. W. Krause, an aged farmer of Crawfordsville was cleaning a beehive of moths, a mad bee stung him on the thumb. At first he paid no attention to it, but soon he began to feel badly. His lips and tongue swelled. His tongue became so enlarged that he could not talk. After the physician had given Krause three hypodermic injections he rallied. This case is unusual, the physician stating that Krause was extraordinarily susceptible to the bee poison.

ing brought to bear to make the democratic ticket of the proper sort, according to brewery ideals.

Joseph E. Bell of Indianapolis, who is the right hand man of Thomas Taggart, arrived in South Bend last evening and has been busy ever since. He has had conferences with the local liquor interests and it is understood to have told them what is expected of them.

It is understood that two prospective candidates for the democratic nominations have been decided on. The names of the men have not been given out, although it is said that one of them is from South Bend and the other from Mishawaka. Mr. Bell is asserted to have approved both of the selections. It is understood that in the pursuit of his efforts for the brewers he passes upon all prospective candidates.

THE MANAGERS OF THE INDEPENDENCE PARTY EXPECT A LARGE AND REPRESENTATIVE ATTENDANCE AT THE PARTY'S NATIONAL CONVENTION IN CHICAGO NEXT WEEK TO NAME CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT.

SENATOR HEMENWAY OF INDIANA SPEAKER CANNON AND CONGRESSMAN W. B. MCKINLEY OF ILLINOIS HAVE BEEN SPENDING A SHORT VACATION AT MACKINAC ISLAND, RESTING UP AFTER THE ACTIVITIES OF THE RECENT CHICAGO CONVENTION AND INCIDENTALLY DISCUSSING PLANS FOR THE COMING REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN IN THE WEST.

Republicans of Tennessee are at a loss to find a suitable candidate for governor, though they believe the chances for republican success this year are better than ever before. George N. Titman of Nashville was prominently mentioned for the head of the ticket, but he has declined to become a candidate on account of ill health.

IT IS ANNOUNCED THAT THE SPEAKERS BUREAU OF THE DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE WILL BE OPENED NEXT MONDAY, WITH GILBERT HENDREN OF BLOOMFIELD IN CHARGE.

It is also announced that Bryan will not make a tour of Indiana in a special train and that probably the only time he will be heard in the Hoosier state will be on the occasion of the notification of John W. Kern, when Bryan will speak. It has not been decided where that ceremonial will take place, but the Coliseum at the fair grounds in Indianapolis is generally favored. The fact that Bryan cannot be had for a series of rear platform speeches in Indiana will be a serious disappointment in many sections of the state, where the loyal Bryan followers are hoping for a visit from their idol.

Not a Matter of Creed. A man addicted to walking in his sleep went to bed all right one night, but when he awoke he found himself on the street in the grasp of a policeman. "Hold on," he cried, "you musn't arrest me. I'm a somnambulist." To which the policeman replied: "I don't care what your religion is—yer can't walk the streets in yer nightshirt," says a contemporary.

THE JOURNALIST. What is a hero, in this modern age? No longer crowned autocrats are kings; The mighty warriors that old Homer sings Are dead—or live but in his deathless page. This is no time for prophet, seer, or sage; The tribute of a dream art vainly brings— For souls in thrall to earth's material things No oracle or idler can engage The hero of the conquest of today Is he who grasps the moment as it flies— The arbiter through strife and failure wise. Protagonist of all life's moving play The knight who curbs the wild barbaric Real And breaks it to the fight for the ideal. —Henry Tyrell in New York World.

IN POLITICS

Martinsville, Ind., July 22.—Edgar Swain of this city today shipped a pair of fine buff cochon birds to William Jennings Bryan, democratic candidate for the presidency, sending them by express to Mr. Bryan's home at Fairview, near Lincoln, Neb. Before the latter was nominated Mr. Swain wrote to him, proffering the birds as a token of his esteem for the high standard set by Mr. Bryan in his political and private life. Mr. Bryan was prompt with a personal letter of acceptance. The cockerel is named "Hoosier" and the pullet "Nebraska." The birds are fine specimens, six months old and beautifully feathered.

SOUTH BEND, IND., JULY 22.—THAT THE BREWERY INTERESTS ARE PREPARING TO MAKE A STRENUOUS EFFORT TO CONTROL THE NEXT INDIANA GENERAL ASSEMBLY IS ATTESTED BY THE TACTICS NOW BEING USED IN THE NORTHERN PART OF THE STATE.

The interests are trying to obtain the nomination of men for the legislature who can be relied upon as "friendly." A quiet canvass is now on in St. Joseph county. It is understood the republican nominees are both regarded as on the other side and influence is be-

Speeches of J. W. Kern Yesterday

John Worth Kern, candidate for vice president on the democratic ticket, who was introduced by Captain H. S. Norton, yesterday, on board the E. H. Gary, spoke as follows:

My Fellow Citizens: I accepted the invitation to come here today and take part in these interesting, doubtless memorable exercises expected to make any sort of an address, but only to indulge in a few informal remarks appropriate to this occasion.

I am here as a representative of the great state of Indiana to felicitate the people of this section upon the great industrial and commercial development of this part of the commonwealth and also to felicitate our friends from Chicago upon the fact that they are to be bound up commercially in the future with the great commonwealth of Indiana, that state has produced so many great statesmen, lawyers, authors, poets and soldiers and promises to go, as it seems, far beyond all the states in the production of vice presidents.

Indiana Already Great. Indiana was already a great state before this wonderful enterprise along the southern shore of Lake Michigan was inaugurated. I heard a gentleman say this afternoon that after this work was completed and these great mills were in operation, the Indians might well be able to hold up their heads. I want to assure him that Indians have always been proud to hold up their heads everywhere from the time that our sturdy pioneers raised the stars and stripes over the old fort as down at Vincennes; from the time when our pioneers fought under Harrison at Tippecanoe; from the time when our men went beyond the Rio Grande and planted the stars and stripes to wave in everlasting glory; from the hills of San Antonio; from the time that two hundred fifty thousand of our loyal sons imperiled their lives in the defense of the union, down to more recent time when her sons followed Theodore Roosevelt and Joe Wheeler up the hill at San Juan. Looking at all this she is first and foremost an Indian state; never anything but proud of the fact that they are from Indiana.

Great Work of Transportation. Gentlemen, a work of marvelous transportation has taken place in this part of the state within the past few years. I had the pleasure of riding over from Hammond to South Chicago with one of the pioneers of your city, my old friend "Tom" Knotts. He told me how but two years ago he had killed wolves in the jungles to the south here. In the discussion I raised the question as to whether or not they were native Indians. I think I have convinced him that they did not belong to this part of the country, but that they had escaped from their lairs in the neighboring city of Chicago.

Millions of people, all of the pioneers crossed this sandy end of Indiana, this marshy end of Indiana, uninviting and apparently unusable to go out and people the bread plains of Iowa, and further on Nebraska and Kansas, and as time went on to build the great cities. The sandy lands and the marshes of the Kankakee and the sand dunes of the Calumet did not present any alluring feature to them and they passed on. But now the great lands of the west are occupied. The available sites in these great states and territories have been used and it seems as though the pendulum is swinging the other way and this country is coming to its own and this city of yours is destined to become the greatest industrial and commercial center of these United States.

GLAD IT IS LOCATED HERE.

I am glad that you have located in Indiana this great city you have caused to be inaugurated, and this great enterprise. I understand that you came and settled on her shores because of the hospitality of her people who welcomed you to come here.

I am not going to detain you much longer. I see here the first work in the plant of this great enterprise. Let us hope as the work goes on that here spring up a modern modern city, a city in which the rights of capital and labor shall be carefully and honestly safeguarded so that justice may be done to all. Let's hope that here may spring up a city of homes and home-owners, and that the time may not be distant when the workmen who work in these factories and mills may be prominent and dominant in the government of their municipality.

HIS SECOND SPEECH.

The Second Speech of Mr. Kern, Was Made From the Plaza of Gary Hotel at Five o'Clock in the Afternoon and Was as Follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen: It is a very great pleasure to me to be able to be here on this occasion and to see for myself the wonderful development of this part of Indiana, to see that has sprung into existence as if by magic, and to see so many of my fellow-citizens who have come together to celebrate the inauguration of some of these great enterprises.

While I have been introduced to you as a candidate for a high office, I will not think of violating the proprieties of the occasion by saying a single word on the subject of politics, or a single word in so far as I may avoid it to mar the pleasure of the occasion.

DOESN'T HAVE TO TALK POLITICS.

Fortunately there are many things about which we American citizens may talk without talking politics. It is fortunate that we have so many things in common, besides have never seen very much sense in men quarreling because they happen to differ on matters of politics or religion.

I have always been more than willing to yield to my political adversary the same liberty of conscience and opinion as I take for myself and I take just as well the man who votes the other ticket, providing he votes it honestly and conscientiously.

There are more than a thousand different religious denominations in this country, all striving for the same home in heaven, yet all differing and differing honestly as to the proper construction to be placed on the word of God. It is strange then that in a great republic of eighty millions of people there should be differences of opinion and honest differences as to the best methods of carrying on the great machinery of this great government.

ARE ALL OF ONE BLOOD.

My exhortation has always been to the people when they come into a political campaign to remember that we are all children of one blood owing allegiance to the same grand old story banner; to remember that after the election we must continue to live side by side, our children must continue to play together and we must continue to be neighbors and friends. I have always exhorted the people to go through a political campaign remembering that our interests are precisely the same. The interest of a democrat is precisely the same as the interest of the republican neighbor on the other side of the street; that our political differences grow out of our environment, our associations, and our education but being citizens of the honor and glory of the republic, there is nothing for us to quarrel about as American citizens.

APPLAUDS SPIRIT PREVAILING.

If a man desires to vote for me because they believe in the principles for which I stand I thank them for it, but if they believe conscientiously that their own interests would be best served and the honor and glory of the country would be best promoted by voting for the other candidate I will leave them just as well. In this spirit I am here today and I am glad to find this spirit prevailing among you.

You people of Gary have a great work here before you in the building up of this city. As I stated today I hope that you may be successful. I hope that this may be a model city, a city of homes, and home-owners, a city of happiness and contentment. Let each man and woman here go hence determined to do his and her part and duty in the development of the resources of this city. Let each man do his best and in the end you will have here in a few years a city that from every point of view will be a credit and an honor to this commonwealth for the other candidate I will leave them just as well. I thank you. Let's hope that care will be taken for the guarding of the health of the people, for the education of the people, for the moral welfare of the people, yes, for the whole good of the people in the midst of these great enterprises. Let's hope that these men will show all things be men who will have at heart those things that go to make up that splendid citizenship of which we all hope to be proud in the years to come. I thank you.
