Holed Out and Pulled the Hole In After Them.

Up to about 1800 the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky was widely advertised by its owner. But the owner died that year and left the cave to thirteen heirs scattered over the country. The lucky thirteen devoted themselves to dreams of spending the big income which the cave had been earning for many years because it had been advertised. But they forgot to keep up the advertising. Now the cave is visited by comparatively few persons instead of by many thousands annually, as in the days when it was advertised.

But the great cave conveys a lesson to every business man. If you quit advertising, your place will be ignored by the public even more than Mammoth Cave is ignored, because you are not even a natural curiosity. See the point?

THE TIMES COOK BOOK

TOMATO SAUCE.

For every half can of tomatoes, 1 cup water, 2 cloves, 2 allspice berries, 2 peppercorns, 1 teaspoon mixed herbs, sage, marjoram, savory and a bay leaf, 2 sprigs parsley, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 heaping tablespoon cornstarch, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/2 a salt-spoon of white pepper. Put tomatoes, water, spices herbs and parsley boil in a saucepan. Fry onion in butter until yellow, being careful not to brown or scorch; add cornstarch to it, stir until perfectly smooth. Simmer ten minutes, add salt and pepper, then strain, and it is ready.

Be sure to cut out this recipe and paste it in a blank book or on a card for daily use.
