SEE VENUS IN DAYLIGHT

"He's foolish enough to go stargazing in the daytime," used to be a common way of saying a man's faculties were weak.

But stargazing in the daytime right now would produce results which probably would surprise those who used this method of description, for anyone can walk out on the street and see the planet Venus even at noon, without the aid of instruments.

Of course the atmosphere must be clear. It would be necessary for the observer to know where to look also to be successful. Venus is the very large star seen in the west during the evening at certain seasons. At present the star is found a little west of the sun.

INDORSES VOLA-TONIC

"I am glad to tell all my friends about Volatonic because it surely helped me in every way," said Miss Rose Bley, 1135 Fuller street, Cincinnati, O.

"For a long time I have been troubled with nervousness and indigestion and the past three months I have gotten worse rapidly.

"My appetite was almost completely gone. I'd feel hungry until I got to the table and then my appetite would leave. Mother would often fix up little dainties for me, but as soon as I saw them then my appetite would go and then I couldn't eat.

"I got so weak I could hardly get around. My head ached and pained severely nearly all the time, too, and I could hardly stand it.

"On account of the nervous trouble I couldn't sleep right at night or get the proper rest.

"Vola-Tonic was recommended to me so highly that I decided to take it, and before the second bottle was gone I could see wonderful results. My appetite came back and I could eat anything I wanted with any trouble.

"Since then I have kept on improving and now I am much better.

"My nerves are improved also and I sleep soundly nights. I'm stronger in every way also."

"I found Vola-Tonic excellent and I am glad to recommend it to others."

Thousands of people highly praise Vola-Tonic, "Builder of Strength," for the good it has done them. Vola-Tonic invigorates the entire system and builds up new strength and better health.
