Caleb Johnson, who was recently appointed Collector for this District, declines to accept the position. At the time of the enrollment of the militia he entered opposite his name that he was conscientiously opposed to bearing arms, and thus could not, of course, conscientiously fill an office created for military purposes.

We have not yet learned who has been appointed in his stead.

Gen. Dumont has been nominated for Congress in the Sixth—Indianapolis—District. Hon. Albert G. Porter declined a re-nomination.

Col. Carrington, General Superintendent of Indiana volunteer Recruiting Service, has recommended to the War Department the draft of reserve a of 400,000 men, to be drilled at home, on half pay, and to draw full pay only when ordered into camps.

The name of Colonel Mason, who surrendered Clarksville, has been stricken from the roll. Right.

"The Invalid Brigade." Occurrences somewhat amusing have transpired since the draft was talked of, but during the examination for exemption certificates the "slit-rax" has been capped. A large number of men presented themselves for examination—some of them really disabled, but most of them "white-livered," a disgrace to themselves and their race.

On Tuesday we had alarming news from the War Department, but still the crowd besieged the Examination office. Cincinnati and all the border cities were threatened, even our own Capital was in danger. But still stout, able bodied men who had been "flea-bitten" or "grasshopper-kicked" wanted to be excused from fighting for their homes, their wives and children. But at 3 o'clock p. m., a shower-bath was administered from a window in the second story of the jail. It was announced that a dispatch had been received from Gov. Morton, stating the alarming news, and ordering the Enrolling Commissioner to enrol applicants for exemption from the draft on two lists, and draft half of them at once. It was stated that they would not be required to make forced marches or do heavy work, but that they could defend our cities and operate on breastworks as they were able.

The despatch went on to say that a train would be at the Depot at 5 o'clock p. m. to convey the drafted to Indianapolis, and would be commanded by Captain Henry Carter.

About this time a promiscuous skedaddling commenced. Some, who a minute before were lame, halt and blind, suddenly received sight and were made every whit whole, judging by the facility with which they left town.

One man standing near the west end of the jail building, made his way to the north side and then raised the "lope." He was met south of, but near, the railroad, going in a tired, "turkey trot." On being asked "what wae up," he raised his hands and exclaimed, in the most woe-begone manner: "We are all tuck!"

Another swore, "by the lightnings," that if they took him on that train, they "would have to catch him," notwithstanding he had "the blind piles." Others of the cowardly miscreants who had crowded the purlieus of the examination office suddenly remembered their promises to be at home by 4 o'clock and mizzied. Those who understood the joke cheered vociferously, and the more they cheered the faster the "white-livered" scampered. One man, who "wan't stout," fled so precipitately that he fell from his horse. Report says that his usual "shortness of breath" has greatly increased.

We approached another man who was patiently biding his time to lay before the M. D.'s the nature of his physical incapacity. We asked him for his excuse. "O," said he, "any body would know that I was sick." Again we asked him what was the matter. "O, 'bout fifteen years ago I tuck a dose o' doctor's truck—guess it wasn't all calomel—and it eat up all my bowels, and I've been hard there ever sense!" We wondered what physic pills or croton oil would do for him. During these fifteen years that he has done without bowels he has cultivated a good farm with success.

Wednesday brought quiet to our little city, minus the "afflicted."
