Thornbrough, and to say she carried out the affair successfully is but to say the affair was in her hands. The party was given in honor of James and Anna White and, incidentally, to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Mrs. James White. It was a complete gathering of the entire family circle, five children being present. All of Mr. White's brothers and their families were members of this happy gathering, and on Sunday afternoon, from 2 to 5, about sixty-five of the old friends and relatives called to offer congratulations. It was the first time in years that this substantial family have gotten together, which made the occasion one long to be remembered.

Mrs. Thornbrough, whose culinary art was never questioned, on this occasion outdone all former efforts in her endeavor to entertain all in a royal way, and she certainly succeeded, to a marked degree.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles White of Detroit; also Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Kiskadden, Miss Ellen White, Mr. Seldon White; Miss Hettie White, Mr. Preece Fisher of Grinnell, Iowa, Mr. John D.
