the matter in dispute before the Judge, Mr. Springer, one of the lawyers, asked this question of law: "If I believe that the evidence was one way, and the other believe different, does that justify any other jurymen in knocking me down with a chair?"

The Judge answered in general terms, that such jurymen must be punished by his own processes, in whatever method he saw fit to employ. The fact was developed later in the evening, that those twenty jurymen, who were seated in a line, & were those which provoked the sudden and desecrative action of the "Chickamaqua."

COOKING.—The season will be served up by the ladies of Trinity Church this evening. Supper will be ready from six to nine o'clock.

REMOVAL.—As will be seen by the advertisement in today's JOURNAL, Messrs. Roach & Torian, finding their business had extended so as to require a proportionate expansion of store room, have removed to the store No. 208 North Third Street, held building recently vacated by Messrs. Morgan, Reed & Co., where they are prepared to see the trade and supply them from a mammoth stock of hats, caps and furs.

HEAVY FAILURE.

The business community was considerably shocked yesterday, by the announcement of the failure of M. Cahs & Co., who were the heaviest liquor dealers in the city.

It was whispered about for some time, that there was danger of more failures in the liquor trade, but it seems that some of the best informed men in business circles, were unprepared for this failure, which it is said, will seriously embarrass several of their business friends. Their liabilities are reported to be $105,000; assets not yet stated.

THE CARNIVAL OF NOVELTIES.

Another good house greeted Professor De Caux last night, and all seemed highly pleased with the exhibition.

The talking band still continues to be one of the chief attractions of the show. Its graces and attentions being intensely amusing and laughable. The performances of the Royal Marionette Troupe were also very amusing, the dancing skeleton being considerably larger than that of the previous evening, was amusing in proportion.
