Actions speak louder than words, but they do not speak as often.

The Russian navy would be a joke if it didn't happen to be such a nuisance.

Another distressing feature is that the Standard Oil Company has no use whatever for the advertising.

Air ships get bigger, but it is not clear whether the increase of size will make them fly longer or fall harder.

Rich Americans residing in England have begun to marry their wealthy countrywomen who live over there. Nobody seems to know why.

A New York girl has been driven insane by the pictures on the billboards. The wonder is that so many other people have escaped a similar fate.

The day may come when men will simply out of consideration for their sons, decline to be great.

A girl can never again feel just the same toward a man who drops in after she has been eating onions.

People who think this world isn't good enough for them are not likely to be very well satisfied with the next.

This new kissing disease will not scare any young man who has plenty of sand in his craw craw.

Pointed shoes are coming back into style. This will enable the corn doctors to quit viewing with alarm and again point with pride.

It is easier for a woman to mix the ingredients of a cake than it is for her husband not to mix the instructions she gives him.

It is now proposed to establish training schools for chauffeurs. It would be more sensible to start training schools for pedestrians.

It is Dr. Gumbulus who remarks that the day of the boy orator has gone. But there is nothing in this statement to arouse any deep regret.

It is up to Grover Cleveland to evolve something as a companion piece to Mr. Hay's "fortuitous concurrence of unrelated prejudices."

A lawyer's fee is due to the other chap's ignorance of the law.

The suggestion that the State should give mothers pensions for each child ought to be submitted to a referendum right away.

One reason why the people of the United States are anti-Russian is because the grip comes from that country.

"Philippine forgetfulness" is reported to be spreading in army circles. Owing to peculiar effects upon them of the climate of the Philippines, soldiers who marry Filipino women forget all about it when they return to this country. The government at Washington thinks, however, that it knows of a cure.

The Standard Oil Company positively denies that it is running America, and a large majority of the people hope its denial is based on facts.

Daniel Webster once said: "Wherever there is work for the hands there is work for the teeth." Daniel was probably reaching for the dentist vote at the time.

A resident of Division street, New York, is said to make a business of fitting men to become beggars. What's the matter with Wall street?

In point of moral deformity there is not much difference between the man who makes iron life preservers and the man who makes impure vaccine points.

A crying need of the Russian navy is officers who think with their headpieces.

If you want to flatter a man tell him he is working too hard.

Steam vessel inspectors are to test a new metal life preserver, the metal, however, not being iron bars concealed in compressed cork.

"Do angels eat?" asks the Cincinnati Enquirer. If the editor is in doubt, let him invite one of them to an after-theater supper.

The only people who are ever fooled by hair dye are the ones who use it. This teaches us the difference between hair dye and piety.

France will not approve of automobile racing until it can be made as harmless as dueling.

By the looks of the court dockets this must be the open season for divorces.

Somebody has invented an umbrella that can be folded up and put into the pocket. If it proves to be practical the rain may have to quit falling alike upon the heads of the just and the unjust.

A good many people who think themselves wise jeer at the persons who turn their fortunes over to Dowdy. Then they go and try to break the stock market when a little boom is manufactured.

Why should rainbow-chasing be so frowned on? It fills the hearts of the chasers with a joy keen enough while it lasts and it doesn't fade the colors on the rainbow in the least.

George Demetewekowles and Mary Gemakopoulous got a marriage license in Chicago the other day. Evidently the lady married for love alone.

Algernon Sartoris, grandson of General Grant, ridicules the establishment of the jury system in the Philippines, where he says the lower natives are too easily corrupted. So? Noticed something of the same sort here.

A woman seldom loves her husband enough to refuse to work him for the benefit of her relations.

The study of the westward movement of the geographical centers of American activity is highly interesting. The movement has been steady and natural. The centers of population, of manufactures, of farm values and areas of the productivity of the various leading crops of the country have all moved westward. The Mississippi Valley is now the center of the nation's wealth.

Uncle Sam must be something of a farmer when the statistics show that the railroads received more than $403,000,000 for simply moving his 1904 crop.

A Pennsylvania man has applied to the court for a guardian to protect him from gullible women. Why doesn't he marry one with a projecting chin?

Nikola Tesla has emitted the statement that the New York subway is nothing but an elevated road stuck into a hole in the ground. What is he going to do about it?

A man of the name of Letters has been appointed postmaster at Putnam, Conn. It is only fair to suppose that he will find life to be one continuous joke during his term of office.

As if the eye were not a weapon with which every young woman is already expert, certain rules for an eye drill have recently been promulgated. It seems that the beauty of a woman's eyes lies not so much in their shape and color as in the way she uses them. Hence a long list of directions for rotating them so that the muscles may be best trained. Man never knows when he is safe.

The comparative rate of deaths and accidents on British and American railways is startling. On British railways only one passenger in something less than 200,000,000 is killed, while on American railways the fatal casualty is one in less than 2,000,000. One in less than 100,000 passengers is injured on American railways to one in more than 1,000,000 on British. An eminent railroad president explains this by saying that "under certain conditions the human brain refuses to work." And we seem to have the conditions.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., exhorted on the parable of the leaven before his Bible class, and said: "There is nothing in the dough itself to make it light and wholesome. The dough itself is harmful if taken internally." When it comes to talking about "dough" young Rockefeller speaks with authority, for he should have inherited sufficient information on the subject to entitle him to the entire bakery.

Woman was woman 2000 B. C. Arthur Evans, the Oxford archaeologist, has found in Crete a subterranean sanctuary containing the statue of a goddess. The goddess has on corsets exactly like those of modern date, and now the splendid physique of Greek women has to be explained on a wholly new theory.

What is doubtless the largest meteorite "in captivity" is now on exhibition in the Museum of Natural History in New York. It weighs about fifty tons. Commander Peary found it in the arctic regions and brought it south a few years ago. Until recently it was stored in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Since alighting on the earth after its wild career through the heavens it has become completely domesticated, and no guard is required nor is an iron cage needed to keep it from breaking loose.

According to official Japanese reports, one regiment which went into one of the most desperate assaults upon the defenses of Port Arthur with more than 2,700 effective men, lost 2,500. Only six officers and 200 men came back from one of the most terrible struggles in the history of war. Such fighting as this is discouraging to the most stubborn antagonists which any army can encounter. It reveals a willingness literally to conquer or die, which is appalling to officers commanding opposing forces.

Bully for Colorado Springs! It made three tourists from Nebraska come back and obliterate their names from rocks in the Garden of the Gods under threat of worse punishment. It has a big stick after the advertisers, also, who deface scenery by their signs. The news is enough to make lovers of beauty want to emigrate to the charming city at the foot of Pike's Peak.

Divorce is one of the white man's tricks the Indian has been slow to learn, for the first application by children of the forest for legal separation of man and wife has recently been made to the United States district court at Vinita. The woman in the case seems to have advanced rapidly in the ways of civilization, however, for no sooner was the decree granted than she married a waiting swain. 'Tis the simple days of the noble red man and his squaws have gone forever, then.

From a Kansas paper we learn that the girls of that State have a new way of entertaining. They give "slumber parties." At these the girls stay up most of the night and then stay in bed the next morning until they are sure that their mothers have the breakfast dishes washed. Come to think of it, there's nothing so very new in that, except the name.

Already the New York subway is being disfigured with unsightly advertisements. Some people will think it a pity when they get to heaven—if they ever do—that they can't line the streets of the New Jerusalem with billboards.

The Baldwin flying machine lighted in a tree. The only genuine and original flying machines also light in trees.

Small men do not gain great truths and great men do not retain them. Dr. Brooks' faultless tooth powder is the best preservative and beautifier of the teeth yet found.

Lightens Woman's Work. You can save her time and worry by buying her a world-famed Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine. If she has a sewing machine now that runs hard, breaks thread and needles and is continually getting out of order, exchange it for one that never fails to serve you, and seldom needs repairs.
