CHICAGO, ILL., FRIDAY, MAY 31,

WINS $15,000

DEMAND FIELD HOUSE IN

Case Hard Fought for Weeks

Argument Leads to Shooting

Henry Brown, 5040 Michigan ave., well known South side insurance man who was shot during an argument in Mark's Credit Clothing store, 433 E. 47th St., on March 28, was awarded damages to the extent of $15,000 Wednesday by a jury in Superior Judge Albert M. Crampton's court. The jury was out nine hours before it reached the verdict.

Brown sued the clothing company and the American District Telegraph company, the Illinois District Telegraph company, Ernest Gross and Jacob Traus for $25,000 damages for being injured maliciously prosecuted and falsely imprisoned.

Similar to the Turner case, the result of this case in which Brown was the plaintiff dealt another crushing blow to three highly reputed law firms of the loop district who had for their opponents, Attorney William H. Temple, senior member of the law firm of Temple, Winick and Jones and Attorney Henry C. Ferguson. The Marks company was represented by Kirkland, Fleming, Green and Martin; the telegraph companies and Ernest Gross employed West and Eckhart, while Sosson and Levitt acted as counsel for Jacob Traus.

Shot During Argument Evidence in the case revealed that Brown's wife had a dispute with an employee of the clothing company on March 28, 1932, and upon her arrival home she informed her husband of what had taken place. Brown went to the store seeking redress for what had transpired and it was not long before he was in an argument with Jacob Traus and Jack Rose. Brown asserted that both men had revolvers and pointed them toward him. Meanwhile, the above watchman services were called and when a watchman appeared on the scene he fired, wounding Brown in the leg. The store was being enlarged at the time and prior to being shot, Brown had held the other two men at bay with a carpenter's pinch bar.

Brown was confined in his home and in the hospital suffering from injuries which permanently disabled him. Four days after the shooting, however, he was arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. On August 16, 1932 Judge Francis Borelli dismissed the case against Brown.

It seemed that every move of the defendant's counsel during the seven days in court was clearly anticipated by Attorneys Temple and Ferguson. The technicalities which they resorted to and the subtle insinuations as to Brown's actions at the time of the shooting were broken down completely by the withering cross examination to which these attorneys subjected six witnesses.

The final argument to the jury was made by Attorney Temple, who in an eloquent and stirring plea clearly showed to the jurors the utter fallacies of the defendants in presenting their weak case.

Judge Scott Takes Seat Big Bridge Tournament Opens June 5th

Judge ARMOND W. SCOTT Washington, D. C., May 29—As his 86 year old mother proudly looked on in company with many other relatives and friends, Armond W. Scott, local attorney, took the oath of office Monday as judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia succeeding Judge James A. Cobb, whose term expired more than a year ago. The oath of office was administered to Judge Scott by Justice Peyton Gordon of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in the small court room on the third floor of a building temporarily housing the Municipal Court. Aside from the judge's family, persons prominent in government and fraternal circles were present at the ceremonies.

There will be three red letter days next week for all bridge lovers. The Metropolitan News is sponsoring a city-wide bridge tournament at Roseland, 4711 South Parkway, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, June 5, 6 and 7. You may play either in the afternoon or evening. But REGISTER NOW, if you wish to participate in the games. The last entries will be taken Tuesday, June 4th, until 5 p. m. Do not put it off, but be under the wire when the whip is cracked.

There will be a grand prize of fifty ($50.00) dollars. Perhaps it will be your lucky time. Do not let the other fellow think that he can play better than you. Have confidence in yourself. If you do not win the first prize, you may win the second of twenty-five ($25.00). You can use it, can't you? The third prize is not bad. Fifteen ($15.00) dollars is a nice sum to have in your pocket. Then there will be ten $1.00 consolation prizes and six valuable prizes will be awarded daily.

Enthusiastic interest is being shown on all sides. Players from all walks of life have entered the contest. It will be the greatest which has ever been held in the city. There are many clubs who have registered their entire membership. All the outstanding players are participating in the contest. Even the great teachers of the game are anxious for the time for the starter to say: "Play Cards."

Some of those who have entered the contest are the entries from the Palm Tavern, who are being encouraged by the owner, the Mayor of Bronzeville, James E. Knight, H. B. Turlough, Horace McDougal, Porter Davis, Claude Smith, Ira Grant, Miss Virginia D. Allen, J. J. Joseph, O. Frazer, A. B. Malin, E. Swan, George F. Baker, James Harewood, J. C.

TO HOLD HIGH MASS A solemn requiem high mass will be held Sunday June 2, at St. Thomas' church, 318h and Wabash ave., as a memorial to the late Father Henry Brown. Father Southern will officiate.

City Pays Tribute to War Dead All Chicago paid its respects yesterday to the nation's soldiers who fought and died for the principles upon which this country was founded.

The central feature of this ceremony was in the loop district, where more than 50,000 people stood in the rain to watch those gallant defenders of the nation pass in review. The thinning ranks of the "Boys in Blue," of '61, rode in machines as a precaution against illness which might befall them because of the inclement weather. However, one veteran of the war of the rebellion, R. D. Parker, age 89, trudged across the loop district in a one-man parade. The line of march was from Grand avenue to Michigan boulevard, south on Michigan boulevard to 18th street, the reviewing stand being at the Gen. John A. Logan monument at 8th street.

Knitting School

One of the most unique features introduced on the South Side in many years is the Knitting School now being conducted at the South Center Department Store. The school is under direct supervision of a competent instructor, who is well versed in all phases of knitting. You may choose your own article to be knit, and she will gladly assist you. To add even a greater feature of the new fad, the South Center Department Store has made a special purchase of yarn at a great savings to those interested in knitting, and which they are disposing of to those members of its school at greatly reduced prices, and in addition a "Kro-Knit" Metal Yarn Holder will be given away "Free" to those purchasing yarns at one dollar or more. If you are interested in making tailor-made articles at factory built prices, then you had better take up knitting—the new fad that is sweeping the country from coast to coast.

Police Arrest Youths, Fence

With the capture of three young boys and a man by the name of Block, at 3419 State st., police authorities at the Wabash avenue station believe they have broken up another lawless 'gang' which is responsible for much of the thievery and the selling of stolen property in the south side section of the city. Jack Rowe, 3607 Dearborn st., Walter Floyd, 3440 Wabash ave., and Lawrence Pinner, 3627 Dearborn st., were all taken in custody Wednesday by Officer Napoleon Sutton and his squad No. 11, Block, to whom the youths are said to have sold their latest loot was released on bond.

Police Seek Man's Identity

The bureau of missing persons is seeking relatives of Harry A. Alexander, a world war veteran, who was found dead on May 12, 1935, in front of 202 W. Cermak Road. Finger prints of the dead man were sent to the Veteran's Bureau in Washington and his identity was established. He enlisted on June 24th, 1918, Co. 71, 18th battalion and was discharged Jan. 28, 1919. He is said to have a sister living on the south side and a mother, Mrs. Mary Alexander, who at one time lived at 1 East 22nd street.

Cop Nabs Man Who Aids Youth

Going to the aid of an unknown youth who was being roughly handled by a watchman at the Indiana ave. and 40th st. elevated station, Friday, caused Julius Crockett, 210 E. 54th st. to be thrown in jail and charged with disorderly conduct. The case was dismissed against him, however, by Judge William Brooks who informed Crockett that he could file a civil suit for damages if he desired. According to what transpired at the hearing Saturday morning in the 48th st. court room, Crockett was standing on the elevated platform at 40th and Indiana ave., waiting for a train, when he saw the watchman, J. F. Christopher, manhandling a boy who had climbed up the structure so that he could ride the 'L' train free. Crockett told the court that when he offered to pay the boy's fare and asked the watchman not to strike the boy any more, the latter whom he believed was drunk at the time began calling him violent names and finally placed him under arrest. Several other witnesses appearing in behalf of Crockett stated that Christopher was drunk at the time he made the arrest. Christopher's statement that he had arrested Crockett's son for the same offense was completely disregarded when it was conclusively shown that young Crockett is an honor student at the Englewood high school and has never been in jail.

West-Siders Plan Gala Music-Fest

All loyal west side citizens and their friends from other parts of the city are expected to attend the giant West Chicagoland Music Festival which will be held in the new Union Park field house, Randolph and Odgen ave., Monday evening, June 3rd. According to Mrs. A. L. Walker music instructor for the festival, every detail of the program has been perfected and from advance indications of interest, there will be a great crowd in the new field house Monday evening. Dr. I. H. Holloway, D. Hunter and N. Bluet are directors of the affair and they too, expressed their opinion that the west side would lend its full support to the affair. Umbriana to Sing The program will feature outstanding groups of the city. The famous Umbrian Glee Club and its string ensemble, the Eureka Jubilee Singers; Walters A. M. E. Zion church choir; the St. Stephens A. M. E. church choir; Metropolitan Baptist church choir are on the program. The solo artists on the program Monday evening will be Mrs. Sadie P.
