YOUNG MEN WHO DESIRE
AN AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

Many of the young men who have finished the course in agriculture at the Tuskegee Institute are commanding salaries ranging from $50 to $100 per month. The graduates of this department of the school are successfully employed as instructors, or as managers of important agricultural operations. The school has an agricultural faculty of twenty instructors; men who have received their training in the best agricultural schools of the country.

Young colored men and women who desire to take courses in practical and scientific agriculture are now offered the best opportunity to pursue such courses in one of the largest and best equipped schools for practical and scientific agriculture to be found in the South. The following courses are offered:

DENEEN OF ILLINOIS

The Governor Has Been a Strong Force on the Good Side of American Life.

WHAT THE NEWSPAPERS SAY.

Fame of the Governor Has Gone Abroad in the Land.

What is Said of the Candidacy of Adlai E. Stevenson for Governor of the State of Illinois
—The Primary.

Illinois is the largest of the states west of the Alleghenies in population and commercially the most important. It is the chief railroad state, on account both of its mileage and the basing of freight rates at Chicago and East St. Louis. All of the consolidated systems, including the Southern and the Louisville and Nashville of the southern group, cross its territory. In its relations with the Illinois Central railroad the state charged it was a duty of closely studying practical railroad problems. Chicago's troubles have drawn the state into an equally close study of municipal questions. Of all the executives of the Union, none, except the president of the United States, has more to do with the welfare of the whole country than the governor of Illinois.

Governor Deneen has been a strong force on the good side of American life. During his administration the principal questions have been the administration of state institutions—constituting a potent patronage and a large finance—the railroads, municipal improvement and highways. His active and courageous labors on these lines have been accompanied by efforts which have put new life into departments like the geological survey, the agricultural experiment station and the waterways commission. In the "constructive" work, which will be felt by future generations, Governor Deneen's services place him at the head of the list of executives who have held office in Illinois and among the most useful men of the country. He has been personally clean and aggressive in it all. The indicated nomination of Deneen by his party at the state primaries Saturday is a cause of satisfaction everywhere. In the ordinary course of political decisions this year he will be again elected, and the far-spreading influence of Illinois will be directed for the uplifting of government standards throughout the country.—Philadelphia (Pa.) Ledger.

Stevenson Four Years Late.

The statement of Mr. Stevenson that he would place the state charitable institutions on a non-partisan basis if elected governor by the Democrats appears to appeal to some of the Republican editors as a joke. The Rockford Register-Gazette reminds Mr. Stevenson that he is at least four years behind Governor Deneen and the Republican party in the following editorial:

"The offer of Mr. Stevenson to place the state institutions of Illinois on a non-partisan basis if the state will only elect him governor has been already anticipated by the present Republican administration. The institutions are today on a non-partisan basis. Governor Deneen not only secured the enactment of a civil service law for the institutions but he respected the spirit of the law before it was placed on the statute books, by declining to fill the places in the state service with his own appointees. He respected the men and women already in the service as long as they showed their fitness and efficiency in their duties to the state. That is the very spirit of the non-partisan basis. Mr. Stevenson could not do differently if he had the power, without violating the civil service law in letter or in spirit.

"It would be well for Mr. Stevenson to read the civil service law. A careful perusal would convince him that he, as governor, would have nothing to do with the appointment of employes for the state benevolent institutions. He would have to keep his hands off."

Appoint Non-Partisan Senator?

"Hon. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for the governorship says that if he is elected to the office he will conduct it on a strictly non-partisan basis. But supposing that there should be a vacancy in the United States senatorship? Supposing that one of the present incumbents should die? Then it will fall to the lot of Mr. Stevenson to appoint a senator. It is not within the bound of reason to believe that he will be non-partisan enough to appoint a Republican. He will still believe that a Democrat is better fitted for that position than a Republican and he will act accordingly. It is believed that he will take the same position regarding the state appointments. Uncle Adlai has been a Democrat all his life. He was such in the palmy days of old when Stephen A. Douglas and Abraham Lincoln were stumping the state. It is not believed that he ever saw the time when he believed that a Republican could fill an office better than a Democrat. Can the leopard change its spots? Nay. Neither then can Adlai Stevenson change the tendencies of a lifetime. If the Republicans of this state want in the gubernatorial chair a man of Republican convictions who will stand with his party in emergencies and who will give support and encouragement to Republican principles they will not vote for Adlai Stevenson or join any of his non-partisan clubs."—Galesburg Republican-Register.

Got Good Governor; Keep Him.

The Galesburg Republican-Register believes in keeping a good governor, when he has shown that he is master of the details of the office. In discussing the election of a governor the Republican-Register says:

"When Deneen became governor of Illinois he came from the office of state's attorney of Cook county which he had creditably filled. He knew all about the duties of that office but he knew comparatively little about the duties of the office of governor.

"It must take a governor some time to familiarize himself with all the duties of his office, with all the details of the institutions committed to his charge, with all the minutiae of all the departments under his supervision. It takes some experience to acquire the needed efficiency. Mr. Deneen has four years of experience. For four years he has been acquiring skill and knowledge. He began an apprentice; he is now a master of the details. He discloses this in his treatment of state affairs.

"Why then dispense with him? It is not the policy of the good business man. It is not the practice of the average man when he finds a trustworthy worker to part with him."

Democrats Not Interested.

The Southern Illinois Herald thinks that the primary vote itself is about the most convincing thing that can be brought to the attention of the voters of the state, as it illustrates the deep interest the Republicans have in their candidates and the apathy shown by the Democrats. The Herald in summing up the result said:

"In the Illinois state primary the Republicans had two candidates for governor and the Democrats seven. The nominations for the head of the ticket were hotly contested and there were equal inducements on both sides for a full vote. The total Republican vote in Illinois on governor was 413,528 and the total Democratic vote was 175,000. Mr. Deneen was nominated by his vote of 213,315, and a Democratic vote of 73,000 gave Mr. Stevenson the nomination. Mr. Deneen had a majority; Mr. Stevenson fell considerably short of getting half the Democratic vote cast. The Republican primary vote in Illinois was more than twice as large as the Democratic vote."

Logan County for Deneen.

The Deneen forces are claiming 75 of the 101 counties of the state. In the list of counties assigned to Deneen, Logan is classed as a Yates county. Logan county ought to be with the governor in this contest, and the probabilities are it will be.—Lincoln Herald.
