September 6, 1913.

Resolved, in accordance with the spirit of our form of Constitutional government, the political power shall never be so centralized in any one man that he will be able to use it for the benefit of the few at the expense of the many.

Resolved, that we are opposed to every form of taxation which falls unequally upon the laboring classes.

Resolved, that we are in favor of such modifications of our banking system, as will extend the right to issue currency to all citizens who are willing to furnish the guarantee.

will not labor under the conviction that a palace modeled after Apey's House, carpets from Persia, lions, or coat and knives like Diamond's Young Duke, will make him more of a man. The grocer will not plumb his house as though he were a millionaire, nor the carpenter feel that his best aims are fulfilled in cheap plumbing on the floor, and sleeky silks and phines upon his wife. Plump eloquence, will drop its sensational trickery, and deal with the terrible problems of commonplace life. Popular literature will no longer mean clatrap popular play cant, nor popular stationery a talent for money-making. But until these latter signs appear, we are not sanguine of the Summer, in spite of the prophecy of this single swell-low.-N. Y. Tribune.

A Dabny Woman.
A hot-tempered Dabny woman, who finds considerable trouble in persuading her husband to furnish kindlings, and she is obliged to do it herself, read in a religious paper, Monday, of how a wife induced a wicked husband to become a better man of the most affectionate and hopeful of men, by being invariably calm and loving with him.
The story made a deep impression upon her, and when she made the fire that noon she put a pair of rubbers among the wood.
