

STANDARD

A Progressive Weekly

VOL. 1, NO. 8

Published Weekly 618

Chicago, Oct. 30, 1948

5¢

Coming next week!
POST ELECTION ANALYSIS OF
 NOV. 2 VOTE

To vote for Wallace:

VOTE STRAIGHT PROGRESSIVE— NO 'WRITE-IN'!

No "write-ins" when you take your ballot behind the screen to vote Tuesday! One X on each of the two ballots — no more, no less — is all that's needed to cast your vote for Henry Wallace and the Progressive Party candidates.

This fact was emphasized in a final pre-election statement by the Progressive Party of Illinois. The Party emphasized "the one and only effective way to vote for Henry Wallace and the Progressives is not to write in his name or any other name, but to vote a straight ticket."

Wallace's name will not be on your ballot, but, as the Progressive Presidential candidate explained at the Wrigley Field rally last month, "a vote for the Progressive Party is a Wallace vote."

The "No Write-in" warning was issued to Cook County voters only. In downstate counties, where the party's name does not appear on the ballot, voters were advised to write in the name of Wallace.

When you enter the election booth Tuesday, you will be given two ballots. The first is called a "Candidate Ballot." It contains the names of all candidates for county and city offices, except those running for judge. The second is the "Judicial Ballot." It contains the names of candidates running for the municipal bench.

At the top of both ballots party names are listed. The name "Progressive" will appear over one column. Simply mark one X in the circle to the left of the column headed "Progressive" on each of the two ballots you cast.

This is straight ticket voting. Any attempt to write in the name of Wallace or any other candidate may be utilized as an excuse to invalidate your ballot completely, it was explained.

A straight ticket vote amounts to a straight punch at the sell-out artists of the two old political machines now dominating Cook County and the nation.

Straight ticket marks in the Progressive circle are expected to create even bigger political upsets than the original Progressive vote in last year's judicial elections. Then, while political bosses and newspaper observers scoffed at the new party, voters avalanched the polls to smash every prediction and roll up the almost unbelievable vote of 313,000 for the top Progressive candidate.

Heavy straight ticket voting on Nov. 2 is expected to advance the prestige of the Progressive party enormously. It will strengthen the foundations upon which ordinary people can build their own party into the first party.

Many state and local Progressive candidates have strong chances of being elected. This is especially true among candidates for the State Legislature. Here, you have three votes. You can scatter them among three candidates or you can plunk all three on the Progressive candidate by the simple X at the top of the column. Thus, your straight ticket vote will provide three votes for the state legislative candidate of the Progressive Party.

Radio hints U. S. future Nov. 2nd

Don't get confused Tuesday night by the babel on your radio.

There are only a few really significant election returns for which you should watch.

Space does not permit The Standard to print a complete guide to the election returns, but here are some of the most important things for which you should watch on election night:

One of the more significant questions how many eligible voters will go to the polls. Although an estimated 96 million are eligible, only 50 to 55 million are expected to cast ballots. Where liberals are running, a large vote will help them.

The candidacy of Henry Wallace should help boost the vote Nov. 2. And the number of votes cast for him will surprise many a doxter, despite the extreme campaign of intimidation against Wallace and his followers.

In Cook County, Progressives will be paying special attention to four races. Watch the size of the vote for congressional candidate Earl B. Dickerson in the 1st district.

At least three Progressive contestants for state representative should draw a heavy vote. They are Oscar C. Brown Jr. in the 1st senatorial district, Albert Janney in the 17th, and George R. Cermak in the 19th. The vote

Continued on page 9

To the people of Illinois:

A message from Henry Wallace

You people of Illinois have proved that the Progressive party is going to be the strongest political force in this state and that you can finally smash the corrupt Republican-Democratic machine which has poisoned the well of political democracy.

Your outstanding success in the judicial elections last year and your sweeping petition campaign frightened the political bosses and their gangster friends into the desperate act of attacking the sacred right of franchise in order to keep the Progressive Party off the state ballot

By this act of political sabotage the Wall Street parties overstepped the limits of tolerance. Americans may be careless sometimes in how they use their ballots, but they rise in righteous wrath when someone tells them they cannot use the ballot to vote for candidates of their own choosing.

You people of Illinois, like the people of America, are not a cowardly people. You are standing up to the fight. Carry on Tuesday.

Your X in the Progressive circle on the Cook County ballot will mark the spot where bipartisan reaction and corruption begin to die.

Progressive votes will count more than any other vote you have ever cast. They will guarantee that the Progressive party is here to stay — to grow into the first party of Illinois as a force for peace and prosperity.

The future belongs to you.

Hear Wallace, p.3 Campaign issues, p.6, 7 Sample ballots, p.11
 Progressive goals, p.3 Youth fights back, p.11 Att: Poll watchers, p.8