YOUNG GIRL SAYS SHE WAS FORCED, BY POLICE OFFICIALS, TO SWEAR FALSELY ON THE STAND

RUNAWAY GETS KILLED

Zoe Priddy, 18, of Cartersville, Ill., Lulu Johnson, 16, of Galesburg, and Vida Thompson, 15, also of Galesburg, escaped from the Geneva State Industrial Home for Girls early today.

Two hours later, Zoe Priddy was dead, Lulu Johnson was fatally injured, and Vida Thompson had a miraculous escape from death.

The girls set out to walk the tracks of a suburban line to Chicago. One of them suggested walking the rails. The Priddy girl stepped on to the deadly third rail. She was instantly killed. The Johnson girl was fatally burned, and Vida Thompson still is unconscious.

"L" LINES MAY SETTLE

President Britton I. Budd, of the L lines, said today he would meet a committee of the men at 10:30 o'clock Monday.

Budd says he doesn't want the difference between his company and the men submitted to arbitration, and that he is sure a settlement can be reached without outside interference.

A remarkable story of the attempt of a city prosecutor and the police to "get" a man was sworn to before Municipal Judge Heap by Florence Waters, of 1045 West Forty-seventh street, today.

As a result, Judge Heap has summoned Assistant City Prosecutor Brothers, Police Captain Ryan, Lieut. Costello and Officers McKenna and Scully, all of the Englewood station, to appear before him Sept. 14.

Florence Waters left her home at 5893 Emerald avenue to make her own way in the world last March. Soon after she got a job in the restaurant run by John Johnson and his son, George, at 6317 South Halsted street.

On July 4, the younger Johnson had Miss Waters arrested on a charge of larceny. He said she had stolen money from the till. Miss Waters was taken to the Englewood station, where Capt. Ryan is in charge.

Miss Waters swears that while she was in jail she was visited by Assistant Prosecutor Brothers and Ryan, and that Brothers then said to her:

"You've got to swear that this young Johnson fellow assaulted
