

inspector's office again. Davies, curiously, was not in. His chief deputy, Barney Cohen, who also had denied all knowledge of the complaint, was in.

Cohen said that there was no record of the complaint in the office, and that he could not understand how, if the complaint had been made, it had been mislaid.

Mrs. Franks then repeated her story. Barney Cohen professed to be much shocked. He promised to send three inspectors to the factory immediately.

The three inspectors were sent. Their report is not yet in.

Just how Inspector Davies happened to forget the visit of Mrs. Franks on Thursday is very mysterious. Possibly he has been too busy getting publicity out of the case he brought against the girl playing the part of "The Littlest Rebel" at McVicker's to remember it.

PARDON FOR M'NAMARAS?

Los Angeles, Sept. 7.—"The business interests of Los Angeles have broken the pledged word they gave when the McNamaras pleaded guilty.

"They promised to give union labor a fair deal and to work for industrial peace. They have done neither the one nor the other."

So said Lincoln Steffens in Portland today, adding that since the business interests had broken their word he would appeal to Gov. Hiram Johnson to pardon the McNamaras.

There is much excitement here over Steffens' declaration. The business interests are uncomfortable. They don't know what attitude Johnson will take.

WHAT HAPPENED IN CHICAGO

Following an argument in the fruit store of Nicola Nicolai, Lincoln and Harrison sts., Adam Heyer, 21, 744 S. Western av., bookkeeper, fired three shots in air while drunk.

Said he went to dentist, who put cocaine in his tooth. Made him thirsty and he drank several rounds of beer. Discharged.

Robert Thompson, butcher, 5108 W. Madison st., mistook poison for tooth wash. Undertaker.

"Some woman stole $10 out of my pocket and my plan was to stop every woman I met on the street to find the one who stole it," said Charles W. Valentine, 2920 Prairie av.

Fined $10 for accosting woman on the street.

Curtis Burd claims himself stung. He tried to rob Detective David Boitoni while he was asleep in Lincoln Park. Arrested after a half-mile chase in which five shots were fired.

"I'll never attempt to rob a man asleep again unless I know who he is," he said.

Miss Rose Schnoor, 19, 4320 Princeton av., domestic, attempted to commit suicide by turning on gas in stove. Despondent because she could not get relief for her rheumatism.