

whereon the people may, if it seem good to them, begin immediately to "tinker" with the tariff.

Just as the colonists "tinkered" with the late, but not lamented, King George.

New Carnegie library and town hall of Preston, Minn., collapsed while under course of construction.

Probably some of those speakers at the National Business league could prove this was due to the present "tinkering" with the steel trust.

Jury decided that 50 cents a piece was enough for kisses stolen from Margaret Bender by William T. Maget, wealthy Missouri farmer. Margie wanted $20,000 for 7 kisses.

James Howe, bank robber weighing 290 pounds, escaped from jail at Nortonville, Kan., by soaping his body and wriggling through hole 12 inches square.

There's room for James in vaudeville.

New York city is a den of thieves, according to Hetty Green.

Hetty had had some experience with our leading financiers, but she shouldn't condemn a whole city because of that.

Two-year-old child of Frank Young, Trinidad, Colo., lay between ties on railroad while locomotive passed over her. Wasn't hurt.

Wedding cake baked in 1873 was eaten at wedding of Florence E. Dinehart to Harvey S. Holt at Slayton, Minn.

Poor guests!

"The type of unionism represented by the American Federation of Labor and advocated by Gompers and Mitchell, is as great a menace to society as was the kuklux klan."—John Kirkby, jr., to National Business league today.

Who is Kirkby?

Oh, he's president of the National Association of Manufacturers.

When d'you think they'll get a jury to try the packers?

Well, there wasn't any need of get sore because you were asked a civil question.

Seems like half the United States is burning with anxiety to nominate Colonel Teddy for the presidency—in preference to some other man.

House committee on foreign affairs recommended abrogation of 1832 treaty between Russia and U. S.

It's funny Willie Hearst printed views of rich Jews on this question, but forbore to mention those of poor Jews, as voiced by the Chicago Jewish Courier.

But there's a lot of funny things that Willie Hearst does.

"Mexico faces prosperity."—Head in Journal.

"American trade in Mexico is on threshold of greatest development."—Story underneath head in Journal.

We fail to get the connection.

At least, a large number of our beloved "sister republics" to the south have complained bitterly that prosperity of American trade
