INTERESTING BITS OF THE WORLD'S NEWS IN TABLOID FORM

Clockwork bombs were discovered in offices of grand vizier and minister of war of Turkey.

There's a suspicion the bombs were placed by some friend of Abdul Hamid, the deposed sultan, who thinks that gentleman's mysterious illness suspicious.

Anyway, Willie Hearst can prove an alibi. He was attending the big eats last night.

Mabel Taliaferro and Frederick Thompson, her theatrical manager husband, whose troubles are being aired in divorce court, met in elevator from which neither could escape.

The silence could be heard all over the building.

British parliament adjourned today after having passed two great progressive measures—the veto bill and the industrial insurance bill.

Persia has appealed to Turkey for aid against Russia, and rumor hath it that Turkey has promised to send her 400,000 troops if necessary.

Turkey seems to be worrying a lot about Italy.

Fresh fires have broken out in Briceville mine, and stopped search for bodies of the dead.

Somebody stole $14 right out of Governor Harmon's office in the Ohio state house today.

Robin Hook mills, Moosejaw, Sask., destroyed by fire. Loss one human life and $500,000.

Probably the company's thinking more of the $500,000 than the man.

Rev. C. J. Olsen, 55, pastor of Norwegian Baptist church, N. Y., cut his throat because he felt lonesome. Dead when found.

Ohio is to be center of Progressive Republican campaign against renomination of President Taft this next week.

Gee, but that's rubbing it in.

Captain Grahame Johnson, U. S. A., formerly attached to White House staff, has received hint to be on his way to the Philippines.

Apparently Grahame was kind of "shining up" to Miss Helen Taft.

Poor army officers have no business shining up to president's daughters.

Samuel P. Ayres, of Boston, shot and fatally wounded his son, Joe, and then committed suicide, in Los Angeles hotel.

State statistics show 33 hunters, 12,000 deer and 500 moose killed in New England states and
