SAN JAK.

For sale by all druggists.

Read what Dr. Snyder, formerly of Freeport, says:

Chicago, March 7, 1893

Dr. Burnham, 84 Adams street, City:

My Dear Doctor—My attention was first called to "San Jak" last year in the case of Captain J. M. Brosius, of Atlanta, Ga., who was attacked in this city with acute nephritis (inflamed kidneys) and cystitis (inflamation of bladder). After prescribing the usual remedies without avail, "San Jak" was suggested, and the improvement was so marked after the first dose that a complete cure followed so speedily, that I at once commenced an investigation of its merits, and have since prescribed it in almost every known form of kidney, bladder, urethral, vaginal and catarrhal troubles, followed in each instance by the happiest results.

In my own case (cystitis) the relief it gave me in a few days was simply marvelous.

A case of enuresis in my own family was very much improved by a few doses, and radically cured in less than a week. From practical experience in a number of bad cases of leucorrhoea, I am free to say that I have found no remedy that is equal to "San Jak."

And while I have never before given a professional endorsement to a proprietary remedy, I say unhesitatingly and without reserve, that I consider "San Jak" a veritable boon to humanity, and after applying it to the surest professional tests, can say with confidence it is better than it is recommended to be.

I shall continue to prescribe it in all cases of genito-urinary or catarrhal troubles in preference to all other known remedies.

As a nerve tonic, especially in the cases of weak, anaemic children, "San Jak" can be relied upon fully and entirely. The delicious taste of the medicine is also in its favor, in prescribing it for children. I am at present using "San Jak" as an alterative in skin diseases and several cases of chronic eczema having yielded so readily to its influence that I shall continue to use it in similar cases, feeling confident that it will meet all the indibations in such cases.

Very Sincerely,
(Signed) GEO. W. SNYDER, M. D.

What a ~ Lovely COMPLEXION!

Struck by the surpassing fairness of some quickly vanishing Beauty, how many hundreds of times you, my sister, have made the above remark to your friend as you passed along the street; but did you once stop and ponder how that complexion which you so greatly admired was acquired, and how a similar one might be secured for yourself?

A lovely complexion can only be obtained by the use of that incomparable preparation for beautifying and preserving the skin—

Empress Josephine Face Bleach.

It removes wrinkles and sallowness and imparts to old and faded complexions the tint of the Blush Rose.

It cures Freckles, Pimples, Tan, Sunburn, Eczema, Acne, and all other diseases of the skin.

INDIANA POLITICS.

Hoosier Republicans Hold Their State Convention.

OVATION TO COL. DICK THOMPSON

And Another to the Ex-President, Who Pays a Warm and Glowing Tribute to the Old Man Eloquent and Tells What He Thinks Is the Matter With the Country—A Ticket Made Up of New Timber Except in One Instance.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 26.—In a hall liberally decorated with red, white, and blue, around the walls of which were the portraits of the leaders of the Republican party, and hanging over the stage a heroic size portrait of the party candidate for president in 1892, the nearly 2,000 delegates to the state convention met and nominated a ticket to be voted for next fall. The building was packed upon the floor, in the galleries, and on the stage, and the Republicans of this state probably never held a more enthusiastic gathering. There was a vein of sadness in the enthusiasm, however, for the chairman, Colonel "Dick" Thompson, was probably presiding for the last time at such a gathering, and all Indiana Republicans love "Dick" Thompson.

Gave the Old Leader an Ovation.

This was apparent when he appeared on the stage. Did the convention whoop? Why it was like the roar of many waters and the rafters tugged at their fastenings as the swelling sound of welcome. The ex-secretary is 80 years old, and hearty as he now is it would be phenomenal if he should again preside at a similar convention. His speech was brief when he rose as the presiding officer to address the delegates. He said that his work was nearly done—that he was no longer a boy. He urged the state Republicans to work zealously for success in November; advocated a protective tariff and deplored the present condition of affairs and charged it to the misgovernment of the party now in power, and then he announced that General Benjamin Harrison would address the convention.

Harrison Warmly Welcomed.

It were possible to have eclipsed the storm of applause given to Colonel Thompson, the audience seemed willing to have done so when it saw the stout figure of the ex-president at the front of the platform, and when he could obtain a hearing he paid an earnest tribute to the presiding officer. He said:

"MR. PRESIDENT: My venerable and honored friend, I congratulate you; I congratulate the Republicans of Indiana that you are permitted on this hopeful day to preside over a gathering of the Republicans of this great state. [Applause.] You have battled for the principles of the party for many years; you have been the able, dauntless champion of those great principles which called the party into existence and which have won for it so often and through a series of such brilliant years of administration the confidence of the people. [Applause.] As you have been faithful to the party in the hours of weakness and darkness we are glad that you are here this morning when the country is awakened to the fact that a restoration of Republican principles in administration is essential to the prosperity and happiness of the people. [Great applause.]

Ready to Help the Cause.

"To you, my friends, I come this morning with an acknowledgment of my grateful obligations for these undeserved and accumulated favors which you have heaped upon me. I will not undertake this morning, it would be inappropriate, any full discussion of Republican principles. I will not stand between you and the important work which you have assembled to do, and which you are eager to be about. At some time during the campaign which so auspiciously opens today—if it be the pleasure of my fellow-citizens—I shall hold myself at their service for a fuller discussion. [Great cheering.] I cannot allow, as I have said before, that an ex-president has lost his citizenship. [Laughter and applause.] Nor can I admit that a calm and temperate discussion of great public questions is undignified in any man. [Applause.]

The Tariff Is Always With Us.

"We have had, beginning with those years when as a champion of the Whig principles Colonel Thompson spoke to us fellow citizens of Indiana, down to the last national campaign, a continuous debate upon the question of the tariff. The people have now accepted one view of the question, and now turning, have adopted the other. [Applause.] The debate seemed to have worn itself out. Every your silvery eloquence, sir, was hardly equal to stirring a great interest in the question. Our people became so prosperous, so rich; labor was so universally employed at good wages that men ceased to appreciate the danger and disaster that was involved in an abandonment of the protection principles." [Applause.]

CAUSE OF THE DEPRESSION.

As Viewed by the Eminent Indianian—Ticket Nearly All New Timber.

The ex-president paused a moment and then went on: "No orator was equal to the task of maintaining their interest. What the orator and the pamphleteer could not do, a bitter experience that has intruded itself into every home and into many brought starvation, has done and is doing today. Our friends may endeavor to persuade the American people that this period of depression is one of those periodic panics that they say at intervals more or less certain necessarily fall upon us. Some may endeavor to persuade you that the influences that have brought it about were climatic or seismetic. But I believe I do not state it too strongly when I say that the common mind has settled upon the cause of the present disastrous depression.

"They find that cause in the attempt to wipe out protection legislation and to substitute for it the doctrines of a revenue tariff. They find it in that uncertainty which has intruded itself into every man's business enterprises, which has paralyzed his energies and which has compelled the wheels to stop while this great issue was being concluded." The speaker enlarged upon the subject from a Republican standpoint and then said that the solution of the silver question lay in an an agreement between the commercial nations on the subject and that the Republican party was always the friend of the proper use of the white metal as money. He believed that England and Germany were becoming more friendly to silver, and it would not be long before they would be in accord with us on that subject.

After some reference to state matters, a word in favor of non-partisan civil service in state institutions, and a plea for every man to work for the ticket when nominated, he said: "Every man, I have always contended, has a right honorably to seek office and that a president had no right to complain that his time was somewhat occupied in attending to them. [Applause.] But there is one contention that goes with all this that must not be forgotten. When a man has honorably, earnestly, by appeal to his friends or to the appointing power, sought a nomination and failed, he is altogether to be reprobated if he carries his grievance home with him and deserts the party.,'

The next thing on the boards was the selection of a state ticket, and in this matter the convention succeeded in knocking out the "old ticket." The combined strength of the new applicants for honors was too much for those who led the party two years ago, and with but a single exception all were turned down—F. J. Scholz, of Evansville, was renominated for treasurer of state. It took four ballots each to select W. D. Owen, of Logansport, for secretary of state; A. C. Dailey, of Lebanon, for auditor, and E. J. Scholz for treasurer. A bitter fight was waged for attorney general, but the nomination was captured by W. A. Ketchum, of this city.

WORK OF THE DEADLY GASOLINE

Two Children Burned to Death and Two Adults Fatally Injured.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—A terrible explosion caused by gasoline took place at the home of Casimir Nigg, one mile below Carondelet, in which two children were killed, two adults fatally injured and one seriously burned. The dead are: Leonora Nigg, aged 2 years, burned to a crisp; Rosa Nigg, aged 7. Fatally injured—Caroline Vogel, aged 10 years; Casimir Nigg, aged 45 years, severely burned. Mrs. Caroline Nigg seriously.

The gasoline can broke open while being carried through a summer kitchen and, becoming ignited, the vapor caused an explosion that shook houses for some distance around. Nigg's house was burned and his two children perished in the flames before they could be saved. Casimir Nigg and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Vogel, were fatally injured while trying to rescue the little ones.

Victim of a Misunderstanding.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Congressman Outhwaite of Ohio is the victim of a misunderstanding. He explains that he did not say, as has been reported in dispatches from Columbus, that he will not accept a renomination, but that he will not seek it.

Tramp Robs a Railway Station.

CROWN POINT, Ind., April 26.—While the Panhandle operator and agent were at dinner a lame tramp entered the office, broke the lock on the money drawer, took $40 in bills, and then started toward Chicago. A deputy sheriff is on the trail of the tramp.

The Weather We May Expect.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The following are the weather indications for twenty-four hours from 8 p. m. yesterday: For Lower Michigan—Fair weather; southeasterly winds; slightly warmer. For Illinois—Fair weather; southerly winds; warmer in eastern portion. For Upper Michigan—Partly cloudy weather and local showers; variable winds. For Wisconsin—Fair weather, except local showers in northern portion; southerly winds; warmer in southeastern and in extreme northern portions. For Iowa—Generally fair weather; southerly winds.
