REVENGE HIS PURPOSE.

Pieper, the Would-be Train Wrecker of Davenport, Has a Record.

The capture of the man, W. H. Pieper, in the act of attempting to tamper with a switch so as to wreck a Rock Island passenger train in Davenport Saturday night, brings back to the Democrat's memory some of the history of this man. It is right in line with the character that a great many railroad men have imputed to him, the Democrat says, and goes far to strengthen them in the belief that they have held ever since the Rock Island's No. 2 was derailed in the edge of Des Moines one night about three years ago—the belief that Pieper did that piece of work.

About that time the Rock Island had a little trouble with a few of its employees, and among them was Pieper. He had worked for it as baggageman and brakeman, and for some reason, the road claimed for good cause, he was discharged. It was known that he was bitter against the road, and it was reported that he had talked of revenge, or intimated that he would seek satisfaction. None of his acts were especially suspicious, however, and no watch was kept on him.

One night the train mentioned was thrown from the rails at a switch in the edge of the city of Des Moines. The place was a lonely one—like the location of the switch Pieper was fooling with in Davenport Saturday night in his fiendish effort to cause a derailment and wreck—and it was not at all impossible that the switch might have been fixed. At any rate the train left the rails there and piled up, and when the trainmen and jostled passengers got together to pick up the pieces they found Pieper, this same Pieper, it is said by men who know, in the near neighborhood of the switch where the derailment occurred.

Acquitted Him.

He was badly hurt, and as the incident is recalled now, was insensible when found, but became conscious soon after. He was asked how he came to be there, for it was claimed that he had not been in any of the cars on the train previous to the wreck, and his presence in the midst of the scraps seemed suspicious and the more so in view of his well known antipathy to the Rock Island road. He said that he had been riding on the platform, between the cars, and that he had been thrown off and hurt when the crash came. He was held as the cause of the wreck, but after a trial was acquitted. His story could not be fairly refuted by the company, and there was no positive evidence against him.

Daughters of the Revolution.

Rock Island is likely to have a society of the great patriotic order of Daughters of the Revolution. A preliminary meeting has been held of those eligible to membership and so far 12 to 15 have signified their willingness to become members. The object of the society, which is similar to the Sons of the Revolution, is the perpetuation of family lineage springing from the revolutionary fathers and the purchase and maintenance of places of historic renown are collected.

Rev. and Mrs. Allen Receive.

Rev. and Mrs. Ira W. Allen entertained the Central Presbyterian congregation at their home, 1210 Third avenue, last evening in honor of the reception of several new members into the church Sunday. Ladies of the church assisted in entertaining. Coffee, cake and sandwiches were served. The parsonage was tastily decorated.

Incipient Fire Squelched.

While engaged in tarring the roof of the Huber malt house on Third avenue this afternoon the heat from a small furnace, which was being used, ignited the tar and it blazed up. A still alarm brought the hook and ladder truck and the Central company, and the fire was quickly subdued without resulting damage. Louis Siemon, in tossing the burning pot of tar from the building had his hands burned somewhat, but not seriously.

New Telephone Line.

The preliminary work has been done for a new telephone line running from Milan to Andalusia. The firm of Marshall & Tody has charge of the work and the poles will be erected and the wires strung in a few days. The purpose of the projectors is believed to be to connect with the wires of the Central Union Telephone company at Milan from Andalusia and such other points as are now not in telephonic communication with the three cities.
