Correspondence solicited from every township in Rock Island county.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1895.

ISLEBOG, Maine, has neither a doctor, a lawyer, nor a pauper within its limits, according to the assessor's returns.

PIMPINS are just now worth $3 a ton to the Pennsylvania farmers, who raise them in large quantities for the canning factories.

SAN JOSE, Cal., is planning to hold a carnival of roses next May, and already $7,000 has been contributed toward paying the expenses.

"Horseshoeing Parlors" is the sign over a blacksmith's shop in Traverse City, Mich. And culture, not factiousness, caused the inscription.

To be smothered in food was the odd fate that befell two fine horses on a stock farm near Wells, Minn., the other day. In the bin over the stalls in which these horses were stabled were 1,400 bushels of oats. The bin broke and the horses were smothered under the oats.

DENNIS SCOTT, reputed to be 107 years old, died at his home near Shieldsville, Minn., recently. His age was said to be well authenticated. His hair had never turned gray, and until a few weeks ago he had always had good health, and had daily worked about his farm. Less than a year ago he rode 10 miles on horseback to the city, transacted some business there, and then rode back again. He was born in County Clare, Ireland.

Leaders of Democracy.

Men who organize a party on the line of a great principle and lead it to success do not cease to be leaders when success is achieved. Rather should their leadership be confirmed and exalted.

William R. Morrison, of Illinois, Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, and John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, gave the democratic party the inspiration of a principle of action and a policy of coherence and aggression. There were other men, valiant in service and ripe in counsel, but around these three raged the battle which was fought against foes without and foes within the party. There was a host of Israel before the walls of Bethel-hem, but only three mighty men of valor who braved the Philistines to bring back the life-giving water from the well at the gate.

And they are democrats. There is no taint of mugwumpery in their blood. Mills, of Texas, has reached Washington and declared that the extension of a law designed to force life tenure in public office and the creation of an official aristocracy is undemocratic and un-American. Now, as ever, he stands and speaks for democratic feeling and opinion. He was never closer to his party than when, in denouncing a law which means so much of danger to free institutions, he declares that it is subversive of the principles of a free government. He sees as clearly now as ever in the years of his war against tariff plutocracy that the danger is too great to admit of temporizing. He demands the repeal of the law of force and fraud. He raises the issue. Let the republican party meet it if it dares.

The Republic has had frequent occasion to commend the patriotic and democratic attitude of Secretary Carlisle, who has stood alone in the administration in resistance to the arrogance of the Pharisees. With the cant and false pretense of mugwumpery raging around him, invading the departments with inquisitorial processes and aiming to strike down the safeguards of successful business administration, he has maintained his democracy and his Americanism inviolate. He has challenged the Roosevelt to a judicial interpretation of his powers under the law which, in every branch of government service outside the treasury, has been made to cover the most flagrant usurpations and the most wretched oppressions in office. In the reign of lawlessness and tyranny which has prevailed in the civil service under the sway of Rooseveltism it has been consoling to know that none of the men with a career of militant democracy have had part in the sacrifice.

William R. Morrison, of Illinois, is the choice of Roger Q. Mills, of Texas, for the presidency of the United States. He can certainly stand upon that part of the Mills platform which denounces usurpers and usurpation and declares against the creation of an official aristocracy. He can stand upon that as easily as he stands upon the tariff platform, which is their joint production. Morrison and Mills are one in their interpretation of democracy. They have had but one difference and they settled that amicably. It would be hard to find wherein they differ from each other now. And it would be harder still to find wherein they differ from the honest and patriotic democracy of the United States.

Loving Too Late.

Not long ago I met a young lady in poverty whom I had previously known in wealth, and this was in substance the story she told me: "Father died suddenly in Washington, and the professional skill through which he had coined money for us died with him. I am not weeping because we are poor. I am broken hearted because none of us saw that he was dying. Was it not pitiful that he should think it best not to tell any of us that he was sick? And I, his petted daughter, though I knew he was taking opium to soothe his great pain, was so absorbed by my lovers, my games and my dresses that I just hoped it would all come right. If I could only remember that even once I had pitied his suffering or felt anxious about his life, I might hear his loss better."

The story is common enough. Many a father, year after year, goes in and out of his home carrying the burden and doing the labor of life, while those whom he tenderly loves hold with both careless hands all of honor and gold he wins by toil and pain. Then some day his head and hands can work no more! And the hearts that have not learned the great lesson of unselfish love while love was their teacher must now begin their sad duty when love has left them alone forever.—Annie E. Barr in Ladies' Home Journal.

Caterpillars and Eye Diseases.

It will come as a surprise to many of our readers that caterpillars are responsible for an affection of the eyes which may entail prolonged suffering and even result in serious damage to vision. That such is the case has been abundantly proved by a number of instances on record in which more or less intractable inflammation of the eyes has been found to be associated with the presence of hairs which, after removal, have been identified as belonging to the genus caterpillar. At a meeting of the Ophthalmological society a case was related in which a lad was struck in the eye by a caterpillar thrown at him by a playful schoolfellow. He picked up the insect to examine it, and the hand which seized it became red and developed papules and other indications of local irritation. A day or two later the eye became the seat of what proved to be a very troublesome inflammation, associated with the presence of rounded cilia around the imbedded hairs, which were subsequently discovered and removed.—Medical Press.

Does a Deer Challenge?

I will try to reply to your question, "Does a deer challenge?" In the Lake Superior region it is not an uncommon thing to hear a buck whistle, as we call it. He may be following the trail of another buck, or may be only disturbed by the hunter. The sound is somewhat like escaping steam, but shrill and loud enough to be heard from a fourth to a half of a mile. I have known one, after being slightly wounded, to take cover in a dense swamp and repeatedly send forth his angry challenge. The sound is, I think, produced by the throat and mouth and would require the head to be elevated and mouth slightly open. I am of the opinion that this is the only note of anger or warning that the white tail deer gives.—Forest and Stream.

Your Boy Won't Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill street, South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had lung trouble, following typhoid malarial, and he spent $375 with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for lung trouble. Trial bottles free at Hartz & Ullemeyer's drug store.

No Humberg.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma. But it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases. 50 cents. For sale at M. F. Bahnsen's drug store.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

A VALUABLE DIME.

Ten Cent Pieces Coined in San Francisco in 1894 Are Worth $5 Each.

Whoever has a dime of 1894 coined by the San Francisco mint has a coin for which $5 has already been offered, and when all the facts are known regarding its scarcity it is not unlikely that it will command a much higher premium.

Inquiry at the mint elicited the information that during the fiscal year of 1894 only 24 dimes were coined at the San Francisco mint. How this came about was told by Chief Clerk Robert Barnett.

"All undereurrent subsidiary coins—viz. those containing other than the design now being used—when received at the treasury are not again allowed to go into circulation, but are sent to the mint to be recoined with the current design. In the course of the year 1894 we received a large sum in these coins, but having an ample stock of dimes on hand it was not intended to coin any of that denomination in 1894. However, when nearly all of this subsidiary coin bullion had been utilized, we found on our hands a quantity that would coin to advantage only into dimes, and into dimes it was coined, making just 24 of them.

"My attention was first drawn to the matter particularly by the receipt of a letter from a collector somewhere east requesting a set of the coins of 1894. In filling this order I found there were no dimes of that date on hand. Subsequently I received quite a number of similar letters and in each case was of course unable to furnish them.

"Plenty of dimes were coined that year at Philadelphia and New Orleans mints, but there are many collectors who accumulate the coinage of each mint, as each has its distinguishing mark. Those coined here bear a letter S under the eagle. New Orleans uses the letter O and Carson City the letter C, while Philadelphia coins are identified by the absence of the letter.

"We receive each year about 50 requests from coin collectors for coins, mostly for those of silver.—San Francisco Bulletin.

Lincoln's Good Breeding.

The writer remembers very well to have heard a very fastidious lady, a member of the Speed household, say that, though at that time Lincoln had none of the polish and gracefulness to be expected from those acquainted with the usages of society, he was one of nature's gentlemen because of his kindness of heart and innate refinement.

And after saying this she recalled an instance of real good manners on his part. At dinner there was a saddle of mutton. The servant after handing the roast passed a glass of jelly. Mr. Lincoln took the glass and ate the jelly from it. The servant got another glass and passed it around. Mr. Lincoln noticed that the others at table merely took a spoonful. Without embarrassment or apology he laughed quietly and remarked, "I seem to have taken more than my share." And then he went on with his dinner.

Most persons, this lady thought, after committing such a solecism would have been covered with confusion and profuse in apologies.—John Gilmer Speed in Ladies' Home Journal.

your child

You note the difference in children. Some have nearly every ailment, even with the best of care. Others far more exposed pass through unharmed. Weak children will have continuous colds in winter, poor digestion in summer. They are without power to resist disease, they have no reserve strength. Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil, with hypophosphites, is cod-liver oil partly digested and adapted to the weaker digestions of children.
