

LAST EDITION

LAST EDITION

NATION-WIDE STRIKE MAY BE CALLED—
PARCELS POST SUCCESS, SAYS BURLESON—
STATE BOARD AFTER SHADY AGENTS

THE DAY BOOK

An Adless Daily Newspaper.

N. D. Cochran,
Editor and Publisher.
500 South Peoria St.

Tel. Monroe 353.
Automatic 51-422.
By Mail, 50 Cents a Month.

VOL. 3, NO. 82

Chicago, Monday, Jan. 5, 1914

ONE CENT

NELSON FILES 25 CHARGES AGAINST THREE STATE STREET STORES

State Factory Inspector Assails The Fair, The Boston and Chas. A. Stevens Co., as Violators of Women's Ten-Hour Law—Cases Will Be Heard.

For the first time in the history of the State street shopkeepers, three of the millionaire Czars of underpaid clerks will be forced to appear in a court of law and answer to the charge of overworking their employees.

This practice of working employees overtime has been in existence a long time, so long that the shopkeepers felt they were immune from punishment.

However, they reckoned without State Factory Inspector Oscar F. Nelson.

The Day Book, some time ago, told how Nelson had discovered that The Fair was flagrantly violating the 10-hour law for women.

Sixteen charges have been filed against the Lehmanns, owners of The Fair, the millionaire shopkeepers who at one time stated the clerks were only fit to be domestics.

Six charges were filed against the Boston Store, owned by Mrs. Mollie Netcher Neuberger.

In this case six of the kitchen help are alleged to have been worked from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., with two fifteen-minute intermissions for lunch.