

LAST EDITION

LAST EDITION

'I WANTED LOVE,' SAYS
WOMAN ACCUSED OF KILLING HUSBAND

LEAGUE ORGANIZED
TO FIGHT FOR PENNY
'PHONE SERVICE

THE DAY BOOK

An Adless Daily Newspaper.

N. D. Cochran,
Editor and Publisher.
500 South Peoria St.

Tel. Monroe 353.
Automatic 51-422.
By Mail, 50 Cents a Month.

VOL. 3, NO. 149

Chicago, Tuesday, March 24, 1914

ONE CENT

SOCIETY GIRL REFUSES TO LET WEALTH HEAD OFF HER ROMANCE

*Daughter of Rich Chicago and New York Banker Shocks
Her Friends by Marrying Gardener—Dan
Cupid Sits Back and Laughs.*

Edward N. Breitung, wealthy New York and Chicago banker, manipulator of many destinies by the power of his wealth, has had to bend his knee to the power of a God who is greater than the God of Gold—little Dan Cupid.

When the rumor was first circulated that the daughter and heiress of the banker, Miss Juliet Breitung, was married to Max Kleist, a gardener, Breitung scornfully denied it. It was a case of mistaken identity. It could not be his daughter. His daughter and a gardener!

But today Breitung acknowledges his defeat by issuing the following statement:

"I am advised that on the 22d day of November, 1913, at Grace Church, in New York city, my daughter, Juliet Breitung, went through a marriage ceremony as appears from the record of the church."

The romance of Max Kleist, gardener, and Juliet Breitung, heiress to a great fortune, began with love at first sight.

It is declared they met at Marquette, Michigan, in the summertime of 1912. It was a strong attachment from the first, so strong that Juliet