

game Wednesday. On the eve of breaking camp all the regulars are in first-class trim and physically are ready to start a big league campaign right now. The games with the minor leaguers will give the pitchers plenty of work and there is little chance of the men going stale.

With the shift in base of the Sox squads today Doc White and Jim Scott join the first team, Mogridge, Healon, Douglass and Wolfgang going to Gleason's aggregation.

Scott and White have both done good work against the Venice and Los Angeles teams. Scott has been especially effective and has twice gone the route without difficulty. He beat Venice yesterday, 13 to 3, giving but six hits and whiffing eight batters. Jim appears to have overcome his wildness and has also developed a slow floater which he mixes with his smoke. Right now Scott seems primed for a good season.

A casual examination of White's record with the seconds shows no wonderful pitching. He was jogged for fourteen safe blows by Venice last Friday and has been bumped in other games. But Doc has shown he can pitch his way through nine innings and be strong at the finish. That was all Callahan wanted to know. The number of hits secured off Doc mean nothing, as he is careful about his spring work and seldom cuts loose in practice. Doc is again slated to be the left-handed mainstay of the staff, a position he has held for many seasons.

Today the seconds play Sacramento, Callahan directing them, and the regulars, under Harry Lord, battle St. Mary's College on the San Francisco league grounds.

In yesterday's coast double-header the Sox split even, losing to Oakland, 4 to 2, in the morning, and beating Frisco, 10 to 3, in the afternoon. Walsh, Douglass, Smith, Lange and Benz did the pitching, the Moose and Smith pitching tight ball in the morning game. All of Oakland's runs were scored off Douglass.

Babe Borton, given his real name of Baker Borton since he has become the head of a family, soaked four hits in the second game. Harry Lord poled three hits in the double-header, among them being a homer and double. Johnston and Rath also contributed some solid smacks.

Details are being arranged in Los Angeles today for a return bout April 12 between Kayo Brown and Bud Anderson, who fought a slashing 20-round draw Saturday. Each man was within one punch of a knock-out several times during the go.

Johnny Dundee has arrived on the coast to start training for his fight against Johnny Kilbane for the feather title next month.

Phil Gossett, the young catcher secured by Manager Callahan from St.

Phil Gossett

Joseph, is making a desperate effort to stick with the White Sox, but the youngster is up against too much of a fight. He must displace either Schalk, Kuhn or Easterly to win a berth, and there is little chance for him to succeed. On any other team Gossett would have an easy time of it, but Cal is loaded with a pair of the best young catchers in the business. In yesterday's game against Venice Gossett maced a double and
