HOUSE FAILS TO OVERRIDE WILSON PEACE VETO

AUTO LADENED WITH BOOZE AND TWO DRIVERS NABBED BY SHERIFF

TIP LEADS TO ARREST OF PAIR WHO NOW ARE IN JAIL

SIEZES 168 PINTS

PRISONERS CLAIM THEY PURCHASED WHISKEY FROM TRUCK NEAR STREATOR—CAR CARRIES LICENSE NUMBER ISSUED TO JOLIET MAN.

Two men were placed under arrest and 168 pints of old Kentucky Bourbon whiskey sized by Sheriff Carl Ayers this morning when a seven-passenger Cadillac touring car was found standing in Illini garage containing seven full cases of the liquor. The men gave their names as John Haedtke and O. J. Krings of Joliet, but the officers believe these names are assumed. The auto had a license number issued to George A. Withermi of Joliet for a Paige. This afternoon the sheriff and his aides were trying to trace the identity of the two thru Withermi.

Claim to Have Bought Truck

The prisoners in the county jail, maintain that the liquor was purchased from a truck out near Streator yesterday. They claimed that they purchased the touring car a month ago and that the license plate was on it at the time. Later they stated that they had purchased the machine and as they did not have a license they borrowed the Paige license from Withermi to make the trip to Ottawa. The local officials are inclined to believe that they are a part of the million dollar liquor ring in Chicago as one of the cases of booze contained the name of a Chicago saloon.

Walk Into Trap.

The two men drove into the local garage late last night and stored their car. They went to a local hotel to remain until morning. About 9 o'clock today some one went into the garage and copied the whiskey. They notified Sheriff Ayers who went over and waited until 1:30 o'clock when the pair walked in. They were placed under arrest and take to the county jail.

This afternoon Ayers went before Judge Koenig and had warrants issued for them, charging them with violating the search and seizure act and with violating the state traffic laws for driving a vehicle with the wrong license number.

Seleese to Streator.

Mike Seleese, arrested with Tom Ponzi, who has already been bound over to the federal grand jury on a charge of robbing parcel post and express companies, today was taken to Streator by Deputy United States Marshal C. F. Gunther for preliminary hearing before Commissioner Davis.

Seleese, if plans do not miscarry, will be bound over under bonds of $5,000. Ponzi, who is now a prisoner at the county jail, awaiting transfer to Chicago, is already under bonds of $5,000 pending disposition of his case by the federal grand jury. The pair will be taken to Chicago tomorrow morning.

SENATE COMMITTEE SEEKS MORE LIGHT ON M'ADOO'S BOOM

KENYON TERMS IT "INVISIBLE" IN REMARK BEFORE CAMPAIGN INVESTIGATION NOW IN PROGRESS.

Washington, May 28.—The senate campaign investigating committee made further efforts to day to get light on what Chairman described as "the invisible McAdoo boom."

Angus W. McLean of North Carolina, a director of the war finance corporation, was examined. He denied that he was "a sort of Southern manager" for McAdoo's campaign and attempted to read a prepared statement.

"I know there is a McAdoo campaign" interjected Senator Reed, democrat, Mo. "I move we go ahead with some questions."

Replying to a rapid fire of questions Mr. McLean declared that he did not kow there was a McAdoo headquarters in Washington or in New York and that he was not informed as to the course of McAdoo literary sent to Democratic delegates.

He finally recounted a conversation with Mr McAdoo as to the North Carolina delegation.

"I told Mr. McAdoo there was an overwhelming sentiment in my state for him" he said. "I told him we were having a rivalry down there and that his name would go in whether he liked it or not.

"He said he was not a candidate, wouldn't turn his hand over to get the nomination and did not want his friends to take any action about it. He did, however, say that if the nomination was tendered him a man could not decline.

"Some of his friends said he ought to take the bull by the horns and go ahead whether he wanted it or not. There was some sort of a dinner party up in New York and some food was and told him about it."

"Who was there?" Chairman Kenyon asked.

"Well, Mr. Roper." Mr. McLean said referring to the former collector of internal revenue, "and some others."

The witness added that late "some of Mr. Adoo's friends were pretty mad about it."

"Do you know anything about plans to use the Liberty loan publicity campaign organization for McAdoo?" asked Chairman Kenyon.

"I do not."

"I want to apologize for being rough with you," Senator Reed put in "I'm glad some man is letting the presidency seek him, not chasing after it."

"If there ever was a rabbit Mr. McAdoo is it," returned Mr. McLean.

A great deal of enthusiasm was shown during the election and the new officers were greeted by a great deal of applause.

At the beginning of the session a committee composed of C. P. Taylor of the city, O. M. Benson of La Salle and James J. Doherty of Dwight was appointed to draft resolutions which were presented to the guests later in the day.

At the session, in addition to the regular routine of business, two excellent addresses were delivered. Leroy A. Goddard, president of the Illinois Bankers' association, and M. A. Grantham, state secretary, delivered excellent talks on the financial conditions that are facing Illinois at the present day.

The bankers adjourned at 1 o'clock to the Clifton house, where a luncheon was served.

Reception Last Night.

The reception last night proved one of the most enjoyable social enterprises ever given in Ottawa. With more than a hundred visiting bankers in attendance and the remainder of the audience made up of Ottawans the affair was held in the lodge room of the B. P. O. E., with the Ottawa High school orchestra and J. B. Christian, a professional entertainer, as the feature of a particularly delectable program. Following the program a luncheon was served by Steward Louis Gassel of the Elks and his corps of able assistants.

The O. H. S. orchestra concerned a big hit with the delegates, who lauded Prof. Hoff and his musicians with words of high praise. During one number a swaying, swinging gypsy procession of a solid and shimmy gate nodded its approval to a new and alluring note. Heads which formerly knew only an up and down motion, indicating assent, or a sideways movement, indicating some poor seeker's hopes for a touch, were kept busy staying in time with the prevailing syncopation with combination of up and down and sprocketive sidewise shakes while keeping time to the catchey selection.

Miss Vera Ham delighted the audience with her particularly beautiful voice and winsome personality. She sang several numbers and was compelled to follow with encore after encore.

After the regular program Christian, a dancing performer, Chicago, took command of the floor and led a song fest lasting late into the night. During the round robin of songs, in which the bankers joined, Justin Janeer and Johnny Grier of the bond department of the First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago gave solos which brought down the house and forced them to come back with more.

The following is the program:

March militaire, "Preparedness" ..... Talma Intro

WASH DAY

EX-GOVERNOR CHARLES S. DENEEN IN EXCELLENT TALK ON AMERICAN IDEALS

FORMER ILLINOIS EXECUTIVE ADDRESSES "CORN BELT BANKERS" FOLLOWING LUNCHEON AT CLIFTON HOTEL THIS AFTERNOON.

Hon. Charles S. Deneen, former governor of the State of Illinois, and one of the best known men of the middle west, delivered a stirring address this afternoon at the Clifton hotel, when the corn belt group of bankers held their annual luncheon. The ex-governor proved to be equally as popular with the financial leaders as he did with the populace during the time he was elected to the office of the state's chief executive with such a record attained.

His talk was one of the finest given in Ottawa for years, and was greatly enjoyed by all who heard it. As a statesman Mr. Deneen ranks very high and his oratory is smooth and polished, which has a very pleasing effect on all who hear it.

Mr. Deneen in the course of his address on "American Ideals" referred to the situation and conbination of North America and compared it with Europe and Asia. He stated that the United States had more men than any nation that ever existed, a boundless extent of plains for the most part exceedingly fertile, and an unlimited variety of production, and unequalled facilities of communication, the essential elements by which a nation be made powerful and united in interest and sentiment.

He stated that "It was fortunate that the farthest portion of North America fell to an inheritance to the Anglo-Saxon race, which combines the Teutonic love of liberty with the Roman respect for order and capacity for government; that it was fortunate that the colonies were let alone by the mother country for the years while she was quelling dissensions at home and fighting wars abroad, while there grew up in the colonies the spirit of independent thought and freedom of discussion which were the best foundations for the government which was to be created. We are fortunate in the government we inherited in governments derived their just powers from the consent of the governed and in creating governmental machinery they provided that should be directed and controlled by public opinion. They gave the President, the congress and the courts real power, but provided for frequent elections and trials by jury, so the people themselves could enact law, execute them and decide disputes among themselves."

Mr. Deneen recalled the criticisms which were made at the time of the organization of the government that universal suffrage would follow, property be divided among the have equally, an aristocracy or nobility permitted, which in the old world retained wealth for its privileges by conserving law and traditions and in promoting and developing the sciences, arts, literature and manners. That slavery would send the nation in wealth because by reason of equal suffrage the nation could not sustain its spirit and policies long enough to carry on a great war, that we could have no diplomacy, because the older nations would not deal with a nation made fickle and unstable by universal suffrage.

He said that the answer to all these criticisms was found in the history of the country and recalled great events of our history as proof and refutation.

Referring to the problems of today, he dwelt on the international and domestic questions of the country. "Our prosperity depends on creating surplus products," he said. "Our surplus products require foreign markets, our foreign markets require ships and cables railroads, our transportation on land and sea require financing. Our markets require warehouses. Our banks distribution, credit and financing in all parts of the world, that our interests and activities are broadening with our development and prosperity."

He then sketched the position of the United States regarding raw materials, manufacturing and other matters and compared our situation with that of our competitors. Our internal problems were covered by:

1. The fusion of our nationalities and races.

2. Fair treatment of the negro.

3. Regulation of immigration so that the defective and criminal or other nations are not thrust upon us.

4. Tranquility in Mexico and our relations with that unhappy country.

5. The enforcement of law and order.

6. Maintaining equal opportunity as well as equal rights.

7. And education to prepare the next generation for its work and duties.
