SCHOOL QUIZ PROVES A PROBING TEA

Otis and Stein Ask and Answer Questions and Nothing Important Results—Chicago Tribune Deal Is Left Out of the Discussion.

Ralph Otis and Meyer Stein met again today for their regular polite bout at the hearing of the senate investigating committee on schools. Questions and answers were interesting.

Otis is a member of the school board which the senate body is supposed to be rigidly investigating. Incidentally, he is connected with the Otis family, which, through the Otis estate, holds a fat school lease on the property at Madison and State streets, most valuable in the city.

Stein is attorney for the senate commission, which, according to dispatches from Springfield, was created in a queer manner. The legality of its operations will be questioned soon.

School leases came up in the course of the "rigid examination" this morning. Stein's questions and Otis' answers carefully pointed out that the school board should have given in to the latest school lease grab rather than tie up the rents to come from State street properties during litigation.

Otis, called as an expert on school questions, freely outlined the policies
