TEDDY ROOSEVELT MAY BE THE NEXT POLICE CHIEF OF CHICAGO

Rumor That Big Bill May Tender the Position to Him
—Mayor Says He's Through With Politics—Will Not Run for Office Again.

Can you imagine Teddy Roosevelt, big stick, open-work face, clicking teeth and all, coming to Chicago to take charge of the shot-to-pieces police department?

There is a remote possibility he may be offered the job. Talk about this possibility started since the election blizzard swept away the Thompson-Lundin hopes of controlling the state's attorney's office.

A rumor to this effect was floating around town today.

Big Bill Thompson has never had much love for Teddy and under ordinary conditions the last thing to expect would be the mayor naming the Oyster Bay hero for Chicago police chief. The gossip runs, however, that some of the mayor's shrewdest advisers say it would be a big play for popularity to name the new York broncho buster for the job of lowering the crime rate of the Windy City.

Thompson is going to New York
