EARLVILLE CHURCH TO DEDICATE ORGAN WITH FINE PROGRAM

NOV. 6, 7 AND 8 ANNOUNCED AS DATES FOR BIG FETE TO COMMEMORATE INSTALLATION OF $5,000 INSTRUMENT—REV. JOHN THOMPSON TO PREACH DEDICATORY SERMON.

The officials board of the Methodist church of Earlville, feel very proud of the new $5,000.00 pipe organ they have installed in the church. It has had the approval of several organists, whose demonstrations have tested the inventive skill of the makers, the perfection of the mechanism and the care with which it has been erected.

Dedicatory exercises will be held Nov. 6, 7 and 8 with a series of the finest programs ever rendered before an Earlville audience. Among those figuring in the program will be men high in the councils of the church.

The board has not stopped with the purchase of the organ. They went a step farther. They secured, through their pastor, Geo. W. Welch, the best possible talent for the display of the qualities of the organ: Orators, vocalists and organists who are competent to show how it may be a feature in our local education, how it should elevate the standing of Earlville in comparison with towns and cities several times its size and how it will add its strength in uplifting the purpose of the church.

Rev. John Thompson who will occupy the pulpit of the M. E. church Sunday morning, Nov. 6, is the pastor of the First M. E. church, Chicago. He was given this charge because of his peculiarly adaptable, strong personality. First church is about to build a new "down town" church, which will cater to the cosmopolitan congregations of the hotel district. He is considered one of the really big men of Chicago and holds a prominent place on the committees having as their object moral and religious uplift. His subject will be "Civic Improvement."

Mrs. Irma Shumaker of Wyanet, Ill., who will be the organist on Sunday and Monday, is the granddaughter of a former highly esteemed Earlville merchant, O. P. Howe, whose store stood, before the Wallace house fire, just west of the corner now occupied by the Earlville national bank. In developing a natural aptitude for music, she studied pipe organ at Knox college conservatory of music, Galesburg, Ill., 1917-18 under John Winter Thompson, who is a graduate of Oberlin conservatory of Music, Oberlin, O.; the Royal conservatory of music, Leipzig, Germany. Mrs. Shumacker has been the organist for the Greeley, Colo., First M. E. church for the past five years.

Miss Virginia Graves of Dixon, Ill., who is one of the soloists for Sunday and Monday evening, is at present engaged in evangelistic and chautauqua work. In the brief story of her life that she told while here in April of this year, she said, "I gave many years to the study of grand opera. But the call for Christian evangelistic work became so strong that I gave up grand opera work entirely for religious work." Her voice is grandly strong, even, smooth, flexible and sympathetic.

The M. E. church choir who provide the music Sunday morning, Nov. 6, and who share the evening service with Rev. T. K. Gale in chorus, quartets, duets and solos, has been drilled for some time by Miss Esther Davis. She graduated from our local high school in 1917, studied piano under Miss M. Farrer and later voice for three years under Mrs. P. J. Cruise. She is now doing second year at the Chicago Musical college.

The Chicago Colored Male quartet, who will sing during the afternoon on Sunday, Nov. 6, have made a name for themselves in Chicago and vicinity, as a group of singers who can be depended on to give the utmost of song harmony. Since melody is a colored man's second nature and as these four men have sung in the Chicago churches for several years, they promise a great vocal treat.

District Superintendent Thos. K. Gale, of De Kalb, Ill., who will speak Sunday evening, Nov. 6, holds this office for the second year.

His hearers never become wearied because he holds their attention until he has finished and he quits while they hope he will continue.

Dr. William Rind Wedderspoon of St. James' M. E. church, Chicago, is considered to be the fitting successor of Dr. Robert McIntyre, Dr. W. S. Quayle, Dr. Thos. S. Henderson and Dr. B. C. Mitchell, previous pastors of the same church, all of whom became bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church. Previous to his call to St. James' in 1916, Dr. Wedderspoon was the pastor of the Foundry church, the leading Methodist church in Washington, D. C. His present charge, St. James', has over 1400 members and 100 in her Sunday school. Dr. Wedderspoon is a born Scotchman and will be especially at home with his subject, "The Bonnie Briar Bush," by Ian McClaren, on Monday evening.

Mr. Fred Lind, of Decatur, Ill., who is the soloist on Monday evening, is the assistant pastor of the First M. E. chuch, Decatur, Ill. He is now engaged in solo, evangelistic and community singing. His voice is a pleasing solo tenor of good range and power.

Chester E. Morsch, of Evanston, Ill., who gives the organ recital on Tuesday evening, is a grandson of our H. J. Morsch. He studied the organ at the Denver college of music and has been organist at several north side church during the period of his student life at the North Western conservatory of music, Evanston, Ill. He has performed and pleased Earlville people several times at the M. E. church on both the piano and the small organ which was used in the services for several years.

Mr. Herold Sampson, "Sammy," the popular yell leader of Millikin university, Decatur, Ill., the reader who will appear at Tuesday evening's organ recital, has and is specializing in dramatic reading and oratorical work. For the past four years he has accompanied the Millikin glee club on their annual concert tours. At Millikin, they say, "Same my" with a chuckle and a hearty laugh. He has red hair.

Futher details of the program of these three days, Nov. 6, 7 and 8, which bid fair to be the most pleasurable Earlville has had, will appear later.

PRODUCTIVE ADVERTISING

There are three "Bewares" in the primer of every editor, reporter and aspiring newspaper worker. Where they came from we don't know and we know less of what they mean to convey. They are, "Beware of religion; beware of saying anything good about big corporations; beware of mentioning advertisers except when they pay for it." Every newspaper knows where it stands on religion and corporations. We are for them when they do more good than harm. We oppose them when they oppose human progress and retard human happiness.

This is about both a corporation and an advertiser—a big advertiser, the Standard Oil Company. A great change has come over the Standard Oil Company in recent years. It is no longer afraid of its own shadow. It is no longer afraid to tell everybody what its business methods are, what its products are and what it hopes to do. The story is being told in friendly and unfriendly papers without fear or favor, embarrassment or compunction in paid advertising space.

Of course a newspaper would naturally agree to this method of publicity. But we are not thinking of the dollars just now. We are thinking of how much further we would have progressed in the solution of many of our economic and industrial difficulties if more light had been thrown upon the inner workings of the offensives and defensives in such disputes as involve the public at large.

The series of advertisements which have been and are being published by the Standard Oil Company have become economic arguments which carry a message. We are not so pleased with them but what we realize that they put the company's best foot forward. To what extent they have sold gasoline is a matter for their advertising department to decide, but it is certain that they have sold to the public a large measure of good will which the Standard Oil Company did not possess out so very long ago.

Having committed this breach of saying something good about an advertiser, we will now shut our eyes and wait for the catastrophe that is bound to occur according to the law of primeval journalism.

THE above editorial is refreshing to those who are responsible for the policies of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

When in October, 1918, the present management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) took charge of the business, one of the first things it decided was that the public should be given intimate information regarding the Company and its affairs. Those responsible for the management knew that the policies that had animated this organization for many years were policies which benefitted stockholders, employes, and the public, and that these policies could not but meet the approval of the people generally, for they were based on fair dealing, justice and equity.

The result of this decision was the authorization of a widespread publicity campaign, which has been carried on for about three years, and the proof of its effectiveness is to be seen not only in the not infrequent mention being made by the newspapers of the country in editorals such as the one written by Mr. Johnson, quoted above, but in the better understanding on the part of the public of what the Company is trying to do.

The basic principle upon which the business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is built is to provide the individual, wherever he may live in the 11 states served by this Company, with such products of petroleum as he may need, and to get them to him when he wants them and at a price which is fair alike to the stockholders, the public, and the competitor.
